Among the prize-winners was Lewis Henderson, of Omaha, who was the largest exhibitor; he won first prizes on display of greenhouse plants, palms, ferns and blooming plants; on cut flowers, vase of fifty tea roses, wreath, gladioli and corsage bouquet. J. K. Hiltner, of Lincoln, was awarded first prizes on brides' bouquets, floral spray and basket of flowers, and second on display of cut flowers and roses, and on the display of greenhouse plants, ferns, palms and blooming plants. Paul B. Floth, of Omaha, won most of the third prizes, with a few seconds on plants and cut flowers. C. H. Green, of Fremont, acted as judge.

The Market.

Business is fair, but the supply has increased greatly, until now there is a large quantity of choice offerings as well as of the other grades in the market. The good stock, however, continues to sell pretty well. The demand from out of town is good.

Receipts in roses are large and contain many excellent blooms. Among others Columbia, Butterfly, Victor and Golden Rule may be had. Carnations sell well. Many excellent dahlias are coming into the wholesale houses. Choice asters sell well, but the balance finds a poor market. The same is true of gladioli. Cosmos is coming into the market in large quantities.

Greens of all kinds are selling well.

Various Notes.

George Fern put up the decorations for the automobile show at Music hall this week. C. E. Critchell furnished him with the wild smilax.

Ed. Kavanaugh, of C. E. Critchell's force, who has been in France with the A. E. F., has returned to this country and was discharged from the service this week.

The William Murphy Co. has been receiving some exceptionally fine Columbia roses during the last fortnight.

Among recent visitors were J. E. Morichard, representing the S. S. Pennock Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; Floyd Anderson, Xenia, O.; Charles P. Brunner, Springfield, O.; R. E. Blackshaw, representing the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind.; C. P. Dietrich, Maysville, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. Honaker, Lexington, Ky.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

The market is literally swamped with asters, and gladioli are arriving in large quantities. Consequently prices on all outdoor stock are low. Both asters and gladioli are good, the season having been quite favorable. Other outdoor stock, such as buddleia, helianthus, coreopsis, gaillardia, phlox, montbretia, candytuft and dahlias, are in fair supply and sell at summer prices. The demand for gypsophila is good and the supply is equal to the demand.

There is a heavy supply of roses reaching us and prices are low, but as soon as the outdoor stock slows up it is quite evident that roses will find their place again. Fine stock is seen in Martinet, Hoosier Beauty, Russell, Ward, Maryland, Evelyn, Premier, Pilgrim and Kaiserin.

The demand for American Beauties is not large. Orchids are of fine quality and they have a fair demand. There is a large quantity of zinnias on the market and they are fast becoming a popular flower. There are fairly good carnations arriving.

Various Notes.

The Rochester Florists' Association resumed its meetings last Friday evening, September 12, at the Musicians Headquarters, when a line of work was outlined for the season. The secretary, A. H. Secker, gave an interesting report. There was a fair number of members present.

George B. Hart and family returned September 12 from their automobile trip through the Adirondacks and Connecticut, having covered 1,163 miles without a mishap of any kind.

Among the visitors last week were Mr. and Mrs. Horn, of Detroit; H. A. Zuckman, of Reed & Keller, New York; Z. Stenick, of B. E. & J. T. Cokely, of Scranton, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Taylor, from the Wm. Greeves Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

George P. Boucher was last week elected Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus. This lodge has a membership of 1,400 in this city. He has served as deputy for the last two years.

James Vick's Sons had an excellent exhibit of annuals and perennials at the New York state fair, from which they report good business. Ed Weibens and George Case represented the firm.

The Rochester Floral Co. has the decoration for Sibley's this fall. Large quantities of palms and cut flowers will be used.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

THERE is a race on to flower the Formosa lilies, most markets being bare.

IT will be an item of real news to many members of the trade that Sam Seligman was married last week.

ADD scarcities: Carnation supports. It is because manufacturers have difficulty getting galvanized wire. The price is out of sight.

IF the present scarcity of field-grown carnation plants is any indication of what may be expected in the winter, cut flowers can not be cheaper than last season.

USUALLY the approach of frost causes large numbers of growers to seek a market for Boston ferns which will overcrowd their houses. But this year it is a different story. Instead of there being pressure to sell, most cities report a scarcity of Bostons.

FOR some months medical and health authorities have been sounding warnings that there would be another epidemic of influenza this autumn. Events of the last week seem to indicate that they spoke with a full knowledge of what they were talking about. From many correspondents comes the report that the flu is with us again.

NORBERT LEVAVASSEUR, whose name is known wherever roses are grown, has this to say about this season's prices for French stocks: "French producers in the five years of the war lost their entire working capital, with addition of other funds, to keep their concerns going. Cost of production is four times more than pre-war. Therefore a crop of stocks giving an average result, the price is four times more; if the crop is nearly a failure, then price may be eight times more, and still such a crop may not pay the expenses. The worst of all is the small quantities of useful stocks available in the whole world, which are ninety per cent below the requirements. Everybody in every country is going to make extra efforts to come first with good stocks in quantity in the market, and it may happen that within another three seasons the market will be overdone, and then prices may again come down below cost of production, but this is far from being the case now and at least for the next two years."

THE next trade event of general interest will be the annual meeting of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, next month, at Buffalo.

THE F. T. D. brought eighty-one new members into the S. A. F. last year and in return has been given liberal space in the national publicity campaign advertisements. The account seems even.

THE same system of rationing coal which was in force after last December in Great Britain will prevail this autumn and winter. Florists must apply through the Board of Agriculture for extra supplies.

THE Department of Import Restrictions of the British government has informed the trade that after September 1 Dutch and other foreign bulbs, nursery stock, etc., may be imported into that country without restriction. This will have an effect on the prices of such items as still are admitted to the United States.

THE TOWER OF LONDON GIVES UP.

Within the last few days the trade has received, from German correspondents, considerable mail captured by the British and held since the early days of the war. The Review received, August 22, 1919, a communication written by Henry Mette, Quedlinburg, Germany, June 3, 1915. It had been held in England a little over four years.

That the same thing is working the other way around is shown by the arrival of a letter from Ferd. Fischer, Wiesbaden, in which he says that August 26, 1919, he received a bill for advertising in the Review posted in Chicago July 1, 1916. Mr. Fischer, who before the war had a large business with American florists, says that the orders for cyclamen seeds mailed to him in June and July of 1916 are only now reaching him. "I get them now, and I can't fill them, because seeds are three or four times as high in price," he says; "also, I do not know if customers still want now, or if they bought elsewhere since the war." The letters into Germany held up since 1916 are being forwarded stamped "held up by the British military authorities."

SLOW MAILS.

During the war we all suffered by reason of delayed mails, but we made due allowances and complaint was mostly in the nature of warnings to avoid disappointment wherever possible by acting early.

After Armistice day we expected and, for a time, realized some improvement, but in this tenth month of peace conditions in the postoffice are worse than at any time during the war.

The Review permits no minor considerations to interfere with the regular mailing of the paper every Thursday. No matter what happens, the entire edition MUST go into the mails before quitting time on the weekly publication day. It is purely and only due to deterioration of the postal service that delivery has become irregular.

This paper has special arrangements with the postoffice which, before the war, insured the eastern edition going on limited trains usually reserved for extra fare passengers, but such arrangements are unavailing now. "Red tag" sacks taken to trains due at New York at 4 p. m. Friday do not result in delivery until Monday or even, as on a recent occasion, until the following Thursday! Indeed, a subscriber less than 200 miles away in Michigan reports that the paper, which formerly reached him regularly on Friday, now rarely comes till Monday.

Nor is it likely earlier mailing, which could be accomplished only by closing the forms on Monday instead of Tuesday, would result in regular earlier delivery of the paper to its readers. For instance, a subscriber in Iowa reports the issue mailed to him on the evening of September 4 was delivered September 6, while the copy mailed in Chicago August 28 did not reach him until September 8. "Some postal service!" was his comment.

WHY BUSINESS IS GOOD.

The Review has just had much the largest summer business in its history—because it has made business for those who use its columns. Like this:

The Review has quite a pull with the wise ones of the trade. Business started to run our way immediately after the appearance of our first advertisements and has been giving a demonstration of perpetual motion ever since.—Growers' Exchange, by C. N. C., Jamestown, N. Y., September 6, 1919.

Steady results for advertisers not only insure steady but increasing business for The Review. Like this:

I am getting very nice results from my Classified ads in The Review and as I have made some excellent connections I am thinking strongly of taking some double-page or perhaps a 4-page ad in the near future, for I find that selling stock through The Review is much cheaper than by traveling or by circulars.—A. M. Augspurger, Peoria, Ill., September 1, 1919.

All parts of the paper have shared in the increased business of advertisers, Classified, Pink Part, Pacific Coast Section, Want Ads, especially the Want Ads, which now are to the miscellaneous wants of the trade what the Classified ads are to the plantsmen. Like this:

You may discontinue our For Sale ad of pots, as we are just in receipt of an order covering all the pots we had to sell.—Farmers' Nursery Co., Troy, O., September 8, 1919.

If you hear a florist complain of the cost of advertising you may be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

Conditions are much better than a week ago. Indeed, it may almost be said that all the unfavorable factors have disappeared. It will be recalled that September last year marked the beginning of the boom and therefore there is special significance in the report of the principal wholesalers that sales now are running a good percentage ahead of last September. If sales from this time on equal last year we can say that we are riding on another wave of prosperity. As a matter of fact, the trade will be prosperous if sales do not show a falling off more than a quarter or a third, compared to last year.

The glut of roses has passed. There still are adequate supplies, but it no longer is necessary to force sales. With the reduced supply and increased demand, prices naturally have improved. Cooler weather also has resulted in an improvement in the average quality. It no longer is necessary to do so much work in grading to select the stock called for by the shipping orders, and the flowers left after shipping orders have been picked out are of much better quality than a week ago. There never is a time when growers' average prices are up to the prices asked for selected stock, but there has been a distinct approach to that point during the last few days. Beauties continue to sell especially well, because the stock is good and not in excessive quantity. Mrs. Russell cut from young plants is fine and predictions that the variety would lose popularity with the public are as yet unfulfilled. Perhaps the greatest improvement in the market since last report has been in the average price of Premier and Columbia. These two now clear well. Other roses, while available in considerable quantities, are a distinctly second consideration as compared with those named above.

The carnation has again become a regular item of stock. An increase in the demand for funeral work has improved the salability of the flowers, but they are not good for much else. The stems are too short and many of the flowers are too poor to be useful for anything except filling a design. Coincident with the increase in the supply of carnations, there has been reduction in the quantity of asters, though it is still rather large. However, asters are selling better than they were, because there has been a distinct improvement in demand.

Gladioli are on the down grade. There still are considerable quantities, but the number of houses handling large cuts is reduced. They still sell well, although some retailers report that the public is becoming satiated by so long a season.

Chrysanthemums are in larger supply, but not yet always to be had except on advance orders. Several varieties of helianthus are seen in the market and tritoma sells well. Easter lilies are to be had on advance orders and there is some increase in the supply of valley, though no decrease in price. Cattleyas continue scarce. Shipments are arriving from the east.

Green goods of all kinds are equal to the market's needs.

Carnations occupy more space than ever before at Alois Frey's place at Crown Point. The removal of the freesia stock to California made considerable space, the only freesias to be grown at Crown Point this year being those intended for cutting. Dropping

NEW YORK.

The Market.

While a slight improvement in the demand for cut flowers was noticeable during last week, the supply continued to be far beyond requirements, and clearances were difficult.

Weather in variety was experienced during the week, with a range of temperature running from 60 degrees to 90 degrees and more, and with storms and showers. This week opened cool and showery, but the prospects are for a congenial temperature from now on, which workers under glass will appreciate.

Steamer business is continually increasing. With the list of sailings becoming larger every week, small wonder that the florists receive benefit. It will be some time, however, before steamer business can attain pre-war proportions.

Asters were most abundant, and after the best of arrivals were disposed of, a large surplus was moved only at great concessions, and much of it remained unsold; much stock might better have been kept at home, as it was worthless from the market standpoint. The supply of gladioli is considerably lessened, but plenty of good stock is available.

Roses are plentiful, but clean up well when arriving in good shape. Much open stock has been in evidence during the last few days, and finds few buyers. American Beauty is less plentiful than for some time, although still in quantity sufficient to make clearances at respectable figures somewhat of a problem. Hybrid teas move well and prices are a little stronger, but still governed by the supply rather than the demand.

The supply of cattleyas is much increased, but the demand is spasmodic, one day quite heavy and the next at the minimum. The quality generally is good and $1 per flower is the top price, except for hybrids, which bring more according to their superiority. The labiata variety is well on crop and furnishes most of the stock sold at lower prices, the minimum being about 40 cents or even less.

Rubrum lilies, though quite plentiful, are not in such large supply as they have been in the last two weeks, and prices have moved up a little in consequence, as much as $6 per hundred being obtained for extra fine, well colored stock. Lily of the valley is still scarce and Easter lilies almost entirely out of the market.

The supply of miscellaneous stock continues heavy, more than the market can absorb, and prices are really unquotable. Zinnias, gaillardias, gypsophila, dahlias, phlox and hydrangea are prominent among arrivals. White bouvardia sells well at 35 cents to 50 cents per bunch. A good many chrysanthemums are arriving, mostly Golden Glow and Smith's Advance, but they show the effect of the recent hot weather. Tritomas are coming in quantity, but without the real "red-hot poker" color; consequently they are not wanted.

Various Notes.

A good opportunity for members of the New York Florists' Club to inspect the proposed new quarters for the club in the Engineering building, as outlined in the report of A. M. Henshaw at the last club meeting, is presented in the dahlia show of the American Dahlia Society and American Institute, to open September 23, in the rooms available. Apart from this, the show will be well worth a visit.

E. Allan Peirce, of Waltham, Mass., motored to New York to take in the military parade on Pershing day, September 10.

The military parade on Wednesday, September 10, in honor of General Pershing, was brightened by the use of flowers, although not lavishly. Herbaceous flowers were generously strewn in the path of the marchers at some points along the parade route, and a large number of soldiers were presented with more pretentious bouquets, which they carried throughout the parade.

J. W. Grandy, Jr., the retail florist of Norfolk, Va., was a visitor last week.

J. Spero, for some years with Charles Abrams, of Brooklyn, is to open a flower store about October 1 at Fifth avenue and Forty-seventh street. J. H. P.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

Extremely warm weather the first three days of last week caused much uneasiness on the part of chrysanthemum growers, but they say no harm was done, as the heat did not continue long enough.

Each week sees a more plentiful supply of stock and an improvement in roses. Russells are now selling from $8 to $14 per hundred, Ophelias from $4 to $6 per hundred, and other varieties from $4 to $10 per hundred. A few gladioli remain on the market and they bring $5 and $6 per hundred. Asters are $2.50 and $3 per hundred. The demand for all kinds of flowers was strong enough last week to use up everything that was offered.

Various Notes.

Miss Elizabeth Hayden, of Samuel Murray's, had the honor of making a corsage for Mrs. Wilson when the President and Mrs. Wilson were in Kansas City September 6. The bouquet was composed of lilies of the valley and orchids, one especially fine orchid being a choice specimen grown in Mr. Murray's own greenhouse. The order for the corsage was given by the reception committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Samuel Murray also had an order for a large hand bouquet for Mrs. Wilson when she visited Kansas City about three years ago.

W. O. Hultse, of the W. L. Rock Flower Co., has returned from overseas after more than a year's service in the army.

E. H. Frandsen is consigning some fine Russell roses to T. J. Noll & Co.

W. E. Tredup, of A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, has completed a successful trip through the southwest. He says that the feeling is general that business will be especially heavy this fall and florists are buying accordingly.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Murray have gone to California on their postponed wedding trip. They were married August 14 and intended to go to the coast, but as travel in that direction was uncertain, owing to the railroad situation, the trip was delayed. Mrs. Murray was formerly Miss Helen Kirby, secretary to W. L. Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker Smith, of Pleasant Hill, Mo., were in Kansas City last week.

Julius Dilloff, of Wertheimer Bros., New York, visited his customers last week.

Among recent visitors were Frank Stuppy, St. Joseph, Mo.; Leonard Coen, Lexington, Mo., and W. D. Irvin, of the Muskogee Carnation Co., Muskogee, Okla.

Hugo R. Neff, formerly with the W. L. Rock Flower Co., is preparing to open a flower shop in the Muehlebach hotel October 1. He has leased the store room at 1208 Baltimore avenue, formerly occupied by Fred Fromhold, and is spending about $5,000 in remodeling the place. The shop will be known as the Muehlebach.

It is the opinion of T. J. Noll that the day of cheap flowers has gone forever. In a recent conversation Mr. Noll said that when he was learning the business in the east, a good greenhouse man could be secured for $18 a month. "Now it is impossible to get such a man for $18 a week," observed Mr. Noll. "The cost of producing flowers is so much greater than it used to be and the expenses all along the line are so

The Market.

The weather here has been cool, with heavy rains every day. Most outside flowers have suffered in consequence, especially asters and other short flowers. Business, however, has been good, with plenty of funeral work and many small weddings.

Various Notes.

Kenny, of Central street, whose delivery car says "Flowers When You Want Them," has been busy with funeral orders. He is making special sales of Mrs. Watt gladioli, which, together with red carnations, made a bright window display.

Kimball, of Nashua, N. H., is shipping in a lot of gladioli to this city; he is making a feature of the variety Mrs. Watt.

Hersham Oliver, of Morse & Beals, was discharged July 2 from the navy, in which he had served as cook and went over to France. Mr. Oliver was for thirteen years with P. M. Olm, at Bath, Me.

Clayton Colby, also with Morse & Beals as bookkeeper, has recently returned from the army to his former position.

J. J. McManmon, 14 Prescott street, has a fine window display of especially good salvias full of bloom in pots, also buddleia, hydrangeas and other flowers from shrubs and outside stock, which are labeled and bring orders for shrubs and plants later. This firm has had a heavy week of funeral work and used all available stock each day.

The Market.

The second week in September was poor, with a slight improvement at the close. The supply of short and medium-stemmed asters and of short-stemmed roses is diminishing; a good thing, as there has been almost no need for them. The short roses were particularly hard to sell. The flowers most sought were good roses, and even they were in oversupply. Under these conditions the wholesalers have been discouraging the dahlia shipments, believing that the market would not warrant sending them into town. Those that did come were, for the most part, sold at low prices. The improvement at the close of the week and the reduced supply of asters and roses made an opening for dahlias. They were more in evidence on Saturday than at any time during the week. A few of them brought fair prices.

There are a few carnations and Easter lilies and an occasional bunch of snapdragons. Gladioli of fair quality are in moderate supply. Beauties and orchids are available, also Golden Glow chrysanthemums.

The Knights Templar.

The convention of the Knights Templar held in this city last week was a notable affair. The ball given by the order in the Commercial museum on the evening of September 10 was attended by something like 10,000 persons. The decorations were arranged by J. J. Habermehl's Sons. Through the courtesy of John P. Habermehl, who showed the work and explained its details, the following account is made possible:

The Commercial musem is a large, barn-like building, with rafters to be hidden and ugly spots to be covered, a building with difficulties that tax the ingenuity of the decorator to the utmost.

The main hall, in which the dancing took place, was completely covered by a canopy of wild smilax, concealing the rafters. In the center was a great Maltese cross, the emblem of the order of the Knights of the Temple, formed by electric lights. On the sides of the hall was a lattice-work fence, broken at regular intervals by wide arches and covered with wild smilax. This lattice work was to divide the promenade from the space, a balcony, reserved for those who wished to watch the dancing. This balcony contained 4,000 chairs. It was separated from the dancing floor by a railing. In this hall were columns decorated with the colors of the Templars, black and white, and garlanded. Two large stands were erected on the floor. Each accommodated forty musicians and were so arranged as to screen, without hiding, the orchestra. At the extreme end of the hall a beautiful electrical and tropical effect was arranged, showing the moon and stars in a palm garden. At the entrance to this hall and under the gallery occupied by the grand master was a gorgeous electrical sunburst.

The approach to the ballroom, separated from it by the building containing the exhibits of the Commercial museum, was striking. A space perhaps 300x500 feet reserved for parking motor cars was made like day by five great flood lights. Above this space, on the main entrance to the exhibit building, through which the guests must pass to the ballroom, was the figure of a mounted knight. This figure was of heroic size, fully twelve feet high. It was powerfully brought out by the lights. On either side, over the entrances to the right and left, were the Maltese cross and the crown in electricity.

One of the most unique features of the decoration was the rendezvous. A grass plot outside, 100x240 feet, was bordered by forty-eight posts, each ten feet high, formed of upright 3x4's, covered. These forty-eight posts represented the forty-eight states. Each post was decorated with the black and white colors of the Templars and the red, white and blue colors of the nation. The middle color on each contained the name of the state that it represented. All the forty-eight posts were connected with a central post, forty-five feet high, by electric lights strung on wires. An immense number of lights were used. Around each post were garden benches and seats, the idea being that those who were tired of dancing could go outside in the cool evening air and chat with their friends at their own state headquarters.

J. J. Habermehl's Sons were highly complimented on this decoration.

Various Notes.

Edward Reid left for North Dakota September 8. He expected to stop in Pittsburgh and in Chicago.

William Holmes, of Los Angeles, Cal., was here recently.

William Verner has returned from the seashore to his home in Garrettford.

The dahlia and vegetable show of the Pennsylvania Horticulutral Society was held in Masonic hall at Ardmore, September 16 and 17.

William J. Young, Jr., has returned from Linfield.

Sydney H. Bayersdorfer sailed from Rotterdam on the steamer Nieuw Amsterdam September 12, bound for New York.

Frank M. Alter is displaying dahlias of heroic size at the Reading terminal.

The retailers' meeting held at the Leo Neissen Co. store September 9 was well attended. The object is to boom the business. A second meeting held at the Adelphia September 15 plans a flower week, including store decoration and a motor parade.

Raymond Brunswick has completed his work on the new catalogue of the M. Rice Co., which is now ready.

Clarence Upton has been enjoying the bathing at Wildwood Crest, N. J.

The cannas of the Henry F. Michell Co. delight the passengers on the trains that speed by Andalusia.

The float of the Henry F. Michell Co. in the industrial branch under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce in the parade of the Knights Templar showed a lovely green town, with paths and flowers and rustic fence and four dear little farmerettes. It was drawn by four matchless white steeds, and the designer, Philip Freud, led with a rake on his shoulder. The float was considered among the best in the procession.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Conditions are not nearly so satisfactory as they were a week ago. The principal cause has been the strike of 1,400 of Boston's policemen and a night of hoodlumism September 9. While troops were called in to protect the city the following day, a fear of recurring violence has kept buyers away from the retail stores and seriously harmed business. Roses have declined in price and the bulk sell at from $2 to $12 per hundred. With the last week constantly wet, stock came in soft, and where growers, from a false idea of economy, failed to turn on some steam to counteract the dampness, mildew has made its appearance. Carnations are coming in quite freely, but as yet are of inferior quality and sell quite cheaply. In addition to Golden Glow, some good Smith's Advance and Early Frost chrysanthemums are seen.

A week's rainfall, much of it torrential, destroyed the bulk of the open air asters, and a small proportion only of these are salable, but good greenhouse-grown flowers are selling well. Gladioli are still quite plentiful, with little change in price. There are some nice dahlias and a good supply of cosmos, gomphrena and other annuals, the bulk of indifferent quality.

Lilies are scarce; so is lily of the valley. There are small lots of gardenias and bouvardia arriving. While cattleyas are still in short supply, the price has declined. Asparagus and adiantum are moving sluggishly.

Although there were only half a dozen classes allotted to dahlias at the show in Horticultural hall September 13 and 14, the displays made of dahlias and gladioli completely filled the main exhibition hall and, considering that we had had five days of sunless weather and almost constant rain, the quality was surprisingly good.

Various Notes.

J. Eisman, for fourteen years head decorator and designer for Penn's, has started in business on his own account as the Beacon Florist, in Houghton & Dutton's, on Beacon street near Tremont street, and will soon have a handsome store there, as many improvements are being made. Mr. Eisman was presented with a purse of gold from Henry and William Penn, a handsome pin from J. Harris and a traveling bag from other employees on leaving. He stated that no one could work for better employers than Henry and William Penn; his relations with them had always been happy.

Alfred R. Hutson, head salesman for W. H. Elliott, is enjoying a month's vacation at Marion, Mass. In his absence Mr. Aronson makes an efficient salesman. Some excellent single Irish roses, Gold and Fireflame, are coming in daily, in addition to Columbia, Ophelia, Miller, with many more to follow. Cut flower business at the Boylston street store is good. A large wedding decoration at Portland, Me., September 16 used much choice material.

Boston's threatened police strike started September 9, and on that night thugs and criminals had considerable latitude. No damage was done, however, to any wholesale or retail flower stores, and with martial law in force and business again back to normal conditions, little more trouble is looked for.

James Wheeler and his wife have just returned from an inspection trip to points of horticultural interest in Connecticut, New York and New Jersey.

Robert S. Edgar, formerly of Waverley, is now associated in business with Joseph Fuller, of Leominster.

Andrew Christensen, of Stoneham, has several times made winter trips to Florida. He has just returned from a trip there, but is not enthusiastic over it as a summer resort.

Prompt work by two volunteer policemen on the evening of September 9 prevented the windows of Penn's store being broken. A crowd of boisterous young men were heard planning a raid to secure chrysanthemums, but were prevented by the officers.

Pierce Bros., of Waverley, are cutting nice crops of Premier, Columbia, Francis Scott Key and Ophelia roses. They think highly of Premier.

At Galvin's Park street store especially fine vases of Smith's Advance and Golden Glow chrysanthemums are on exhibit. They also had a fine display of crotons and ferns.

The new cut flower department of the Boston Floral Supply Co. is in full operation and an excellent line of seasonable flowers is carried. Business in the sundries department is becoming quite brisk.

The Houghton-Gorney Co. store is showing among other flowers, blue gentians, Delphinium belladonna and nerines. Crotons fill one entire window.

William R. Nicholson, of Framingham, is cutting some excellent Early Frost and Golden Glow chrysanthemums. His carnations are in fine shape and already are giving a crop of good flowers.

Four additional exhibitions were arranged for by the committee on prizes and exhibitions of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society September 13. One will be held in May and others in

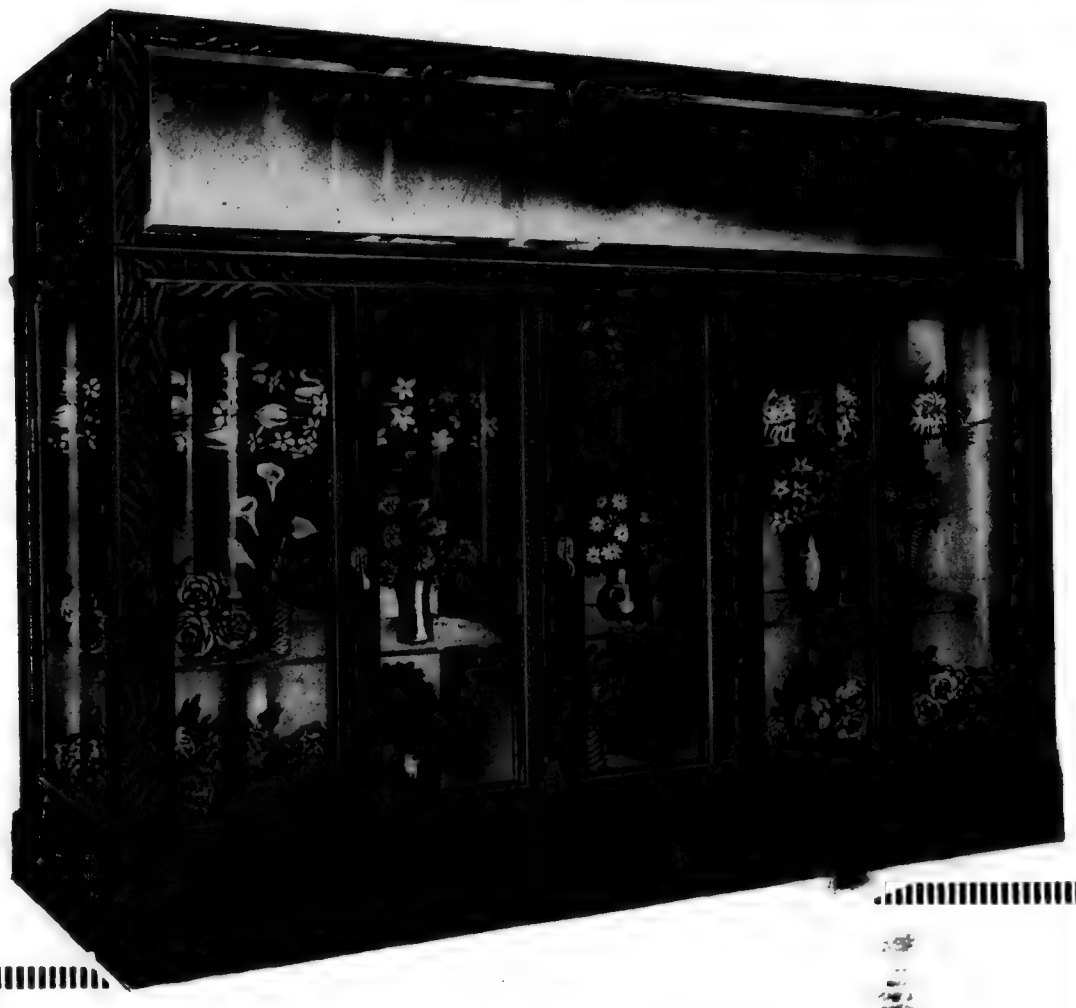
The Market.

The market has not experienced any marked change during the last week. As a whole the week can be judged as dull. Stock of good quality is arriving. New carnations are being sent in. Some of these are good and demand $2.50 per hundred. There is much improvement in the aster cut. Though they are none too long-stemmed, they certainly have fine, large flowers. The shipments of American Beauties are larger and of finer quality. Other roses continue to be overplentiful, especially pink.

Various Notes.

S. A. Anderson and wife have returned from Lotus bay, where they have spent the summer. September 14 their two sons, Severn and John, left for Williams College.

Miss K. M. Cautlin, who conducted a shop at 3 Wadsworth street, has gone out of business.



The Florists' Club has sent out notices announcing the approaching business meeting of the F. T. D. October 14 and 15. It states that three liberal prizes have been offered for window decorations and that the shops should show extensive competition.

The Market.

The unseasonably hot weather of the first part of last week hampered business to a considerable extent. The falling off was noticeable in all lines of the trade, including the local demand and the shipping trade. Wedding work was about normal for this season, but funeral work was slack, and the call for flowers for other purposes was unsteady. The supply has increased steadily, particularly in roses. Few good red roses are being offered. Good white roses are also scarce at present. Gladioli are decreasing slowly, and, while there are many good blooms on the market, many more are unsalable. Asters are in fine, large supply, and the quality of many of them leaves nothing to be desired. Carnations from the young stock are selling for 75 cents per dozen, but the demand for them is light. Outdoor snapdragons are showing up

The Florist Demands Many Years of Service

McCray Refrigerators are used by many, many florists—and the reason is that the McCray gives years and years of service. "Life-time service" is the McCray watchword.

McCray Refrigerators stand the test of time because they have true quality inbuilt in them. True quality is more than convenience and design—it is these plus materials, construction and workmanship.

satisfy from the standpoints of flower conservation and display of goods. Bear in mind that the handsome appearance of the McCray will add to the attractiveness of your store. The McCray is a fine display case as well as a refrigerator. It will help sell your flowers as well as stop the waste from spoilage.

OUR CATALOGUE illustrating various models of McCray Refrigerators for Florists will be sent on request—write for it: No. 74 for Florists; No. 94 for Residences.

held for one week beginning September 29. The florists will also have a booth, in which arrangements of flowers, including baskets and bouquets, and a fine display of plants will be shown. A great deal of publicity is being accorded the florists through the daily papers on the work of decorating the court of honor. Hardy flowers and foliage and evergreens will be used mainly for this decoration.

Mr. Maynard, formerly with Alex McConnell, of New York, has accepted a position as head orchid grower for W. J. & M. S. Vesey. He will have charge of the ten orchid houses of this large firm, and will grow all of the popular commercial varieties. Samuel Hudson, formerly with W. J. & M. S. Vesey, has taken a position on a private estate in Columbus, O.

A fine lot of Shawyer and Ophelia from young stock is being cut at the greenhouses of the Knecht-Freese Floral Co. The stock is in excellent shape there, and chrysanthemums will be ready for cutting about October 1.

A. J. Lanternier & Sons are showing some carnations from their new stock, which are bringing good returns.

CLEVELAND, O.

The Market.

The market last week was slow until Saturday, when it picked up considerably. Stock has been arriving in large quantities and more has been going to waste than has been disposed of. Dahlias have been coming in well, but there does not seem to be much call for them this year. Last year anything that looked like a dahlia could be disposed of, but this year is different. Gladioli have tightened up a little the latter part of the week. Asters are still arriving, but are not in quite so heavy crop nor so good as heretofore. Zinnias, marigolds, bachelor's buttons, eupatorium, calendulas and gaillardias have been moving only fairly well.

Various Notes.

Albert Barber's car was stolen, but was recovered again in bad condition.

S. D. Greene, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, and I. Rosnosky, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, were recent visitors.

Gloekler Refrigerator in the Alpha, an Up-to-date Pittsburgh Flower Store.

"Pittsburgh's newest flower store, and one of its most beautiful and elaborate retail establishments. * * * * As will be seen by the accompanying illustration, the fixtures and decorations are exceptionally attractive. * * * * The color scheme is light blue, which sets off the large white icebox, a Bernard Gloekler Co. installation, and the marble-topped counters."—From The Florists' Review.

THE essential feature of a refrigerator for cut flowers is a cold, dry circulation of air. That is the fundamental principle of Gloekler Flower Refrigerators. The stock keeps to its full limit, and at the same time results in a saving of ice. It requires perfect insulation to produce this condition, and the Gloekler method of reinforced cork insulation has been proven by test the only practical way of producing such a result.

And then, the selling quality of the refrigerator — that is a big point for consideration. These refrigerators display flowers so attractively that the flowers almost sell themselves. They are as valuable as an extra salesman in your store. They present an insistent argument to the customer to buy, but in an unobjectionable way. And, after all, the first aim of the florist is to sell.

Gloekler Refrigerators are made of selected materials, finished to exactly harmonize with your store interior.

Many splendid styles and sizes in stock for quick shipment. We build any size or style to order. Any finish.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

The arrival of good chrysanthemums in quantity gives the retail stores a lively appearance and shows the season. Some early Bonnaffons are already in and these ship better than the earlier yellows. Good whites are scarce, while the pinks are not as yet plentiful. Asters are going over fast, but some growers are trying out late plants of these and zinnias with a view to winter cutting. Centaureas are arriving in good condition for the season. Roses are about equal to the demand except white, which is scarce and in great request for wedding bouquets. Carnations are in good shape and plentiful; the indoor and lath house flowers have improved considerably. Good flowers for corsages are scarce; there are few orchids locally and these are high in price. Sweet peas are poor and scarce. A few late Cecile Brunner roses help somewhat. After the season's growth, ferns are becoming a little more plentiful, but growers are still holding them high. Greens are about equal to the demand.

Retailers report a considerable spurt in business and all are agreed that the summer just past has been one of the best on record.

Various Notes.

C. E. Morton, of Phoenix, Ariz., and Mrs. Morton were visitors last week, having come to the coast to escape the heat for a short time.

A. F. Borden, of the Redondo Floral Co., celebrated his fiftieth birthday last week with a party at his house. In a beautifully decorated garden house, thirty people, including the entire staff of the Redondo Floral Co., sat down to partake of his hospitality. Mr. Borden is never happier than when giving other people pleasure, and one of his partners is the authority for saying that at least fifty osculatory salutes were given by him to the young ladies present. He is a great chicken fancier, as well as gardener. Mrs. Borden delighted their guests with vocal and instrumental solos and Mr. Borden distinguished himself by recording canned music a la Victrola. He has considerable talent that way. Everyone present decided that it was the most pleasant gathering they had ever attended, and Mr. Borden looks as if he might celebrate another in fifty years' time. A. Knopf returned from his vacation at his Santa Ana citrus ranch in time for the festivities and is looking fine. He says that their August business went far ahead of any August in the history of the firm.

H. N. Gage, of the H. N. Gage Co., says that bulb and plant sales from their Montebello and El Monte places have grown away ahead of any previous season and that the end is not yet.

Another wholesaler, Paul C. Miller, last week hung out his shingle at 217 Winston street. Mr. Miller was connected with the L. A. Floral Co. before going overseas, and on his return it was thought that he would take up his old position, but he decided that he needed a vacation and afterwards thought it best to "go it alone." He is a young man with lots of energy and many good friends in the business, all of whom will wish him well in his new venture.

Following the strike on the railroads, business picked up immediately with all the wholesalers, and with the cooler weather that may now be expected in the territories to which they ship, the dull season may be said to have passed again.

F. Westrom, at Wright's Flower Shop, notes the unusually large number of weddings at this time of year and says it keeps them all busy.

The Market.

There is little variety in the flowers arriving in this market. Gladioli, asters, sweet peas and carnations are the dominant flowers and outside of these little stock is coming in.

houses of carnations, planted in solid benches, are looking well, as are his four houses of chrysanthemums and two of asparagus. He is cutting a fine lot of asters and gladioli. Mr. Seamons has just returned from a two weeks' automobile trip in the mountains and says that he and his family had an excellent time, due partly to the good condition of the roads.

July and August were much better on the whole than was the corresponding period of 1918, and business now is good. A heavy rain lasting several days has helped outside flowers, with the exception of sweet peas, which are practically gone for this season. Gladioli, asters, zinnias and dahlias are the strong sellers at present.

Various Notes.

R. C. Cook has moved to the south side of Washington street, between Third and Fourth streets.

Some of the growers are exhibiting at the county fair at Gresham, September 15 to 20.

The Martin & Forbes Co. is cutting a fine lot of roses.

Clarke Bros. displayed a full window of beautiful zinnias, which caused much favorable comment.

Gustav Burkhardt has the contract for decorating the moving picture theaters this season. He has made extensive use of gladioli grown by L. T. Sebolt.

P. Rosaia, of Rosaia Bros., and John Holtz, both of Seattle, were recent visitors to the local wholesale growers in quest of stock.

J. D. Eisele, of Philadelphia, Henry A. Dreer, Inc., and Fred Howard, of Howard & Smith, Los Angeles, spent several days recently in the city visiting points of interest. This is Mr. Eisele's first trip to the Pacific coast. L. T. S.

stock is poor in quality, as most of the choicer varieties of cut flowers are off season. Roses are just beginning to come in, the new blooms having short stems and rough buds as yet, but within the next week or two the stock will improve. At the present time Russells are bringing $6, $7.50 and $9 per bunch of six dozen and the quality is inferior.

Ophelias are more or less plentiful this week and are selling for the same amount as before. The aster crop is about over. Wholesalers are receiving $1.50 per ten dozen for the best asters, but these will be cleaned out in a short time. The new carnation crop is in its infancy, and the best blooms are costing the retail florist 75 cents per bunch of two dozen.

Cut cyclamens are in strong demand, taking the place of gardenias and orchids in corsage work. The quality of cyclamens will improve, but this week they are sold for $1 per six dozen. There is still a scarcity of gardenias and orchids. Violets are beginning to come in, but they are high-priced and not at all plentiful. One or two retail shops had some of the double variety, and although costly they always are readily sold.

Outdoor blooms are in normally good condition. While these hardier varieties are plentiful, the prices are keeping up to a fair average.

Dahlia Society Show.

The important event of the week was the annual show of the Dahlia Society of California, which was held in one of the ballrooms of the Palace hotel. In point of attendance, it was stated by Manager Angelo J. Rossi that the show was one of the largest and most successful ever held. It was the verdict of the visitors that the exhibition excelled all previous ones in rarity of blooms and glory of color. Over 1,500 varieties were shown in various artistic arrangements, and twenty-five new varieties, all originated here in California, made their appearance this year. A fine display of Dr. Tevis blooms was the center of attraction and won for Frank Pelicano, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., first prize for the best general display. Mrs. R. R. Strange, of Burlingame, won three firsts, having the best exhibit by a private gardener, most artistic single

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, E. C. Dungan, Philadelphia, Pa.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

S. F. LEONARD, president of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, is in California.

How can onion seed be grown for low prices as long as the price of the onion bulbs holds up?

GIGANTEUM bulbs are afloat, due at Seattle in about a fortnight. Delivery probably will be delayed by the new requirements as to government inspection.

IT is the general report that, even if the price is high, the buyers of Formosa lily bulbs have got something for their money, the bulbs being of exceptional quality this season.

To protect Illinois against the European corn borer, the state department of agriculture has issued a quarantine order against the shipment of seed sweet corn into Illinois from Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York.

C. E. KENDEL, Cleveland, secretary of the American Seed Trade Association, has just sent to members the annual volume of "Proceedings," covering the Chicago convention. It puts in permanent verbatim form the matter published last June by the trade press and also includes a list of members, the by-laws and other association matter.

THE onion set crop seldom has been in the warehouses so early as this year. The consensus is that Chicago has half a crop, a yield of between two and three bushels per pound of seed, where an average crop would give from four to five bushels. The inference drawn from the early housing of the crop is that the dealers feared it might slip away.

THE American consul at Teneriffe, Canary Islands, reports under date of August 26 that 70,000 pounds of onion seed have been invoiced at that consulate for shipment to the United States during this year. Much of this was from last year's crop, owing to the fact that there was a large decrease in purchases by the United States last year.

THE Everette R. Peacock Co., Chicago, had an interesting exhibit at the convention of the Vegetable Growers' Association at Detroit last week, including practical seed testing, using modern testing apparatus. The firm was represented by Chas. W. Witbeck, Fred Gunther, Wm. C. Hitzemann, Miss M. Fennessy, Herbert J. Saff and H. R. Kaeding.

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

"Just what I told you in the spring," observed Oscar Machholz, of Milwaukee, a veteran seedsman; "there was no shortage to speak of and the same conditions will prevail this coming season. We had a good trade and sold out clean, keeping prices moderate."

Manager Annandale, of the Steele-Briggs Seed Co., Toronto, was seen for a brief moment, presumably on his way to the west, and expressed the opinion that, so far as the Canadian seedsmen were concerned, they had had the best season for many years, and prospects for fall business were fully as bright.

Henry F. Michell Co., 518 Market Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Co., Chicago, observed that unless some good rains soon appear, fall planting will be greatly retarded.

John Degnan, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, observed that it was a misfortune to miss seeing the display of gladioli alone at the Detroit convention, invaluable to one in making up a list for the new catalogue. Nothing has been seen to equal it west of Michigan this season. Owing to the hot, dry summer, a great scarcity of outdoor flowers was noted.

CALIFORNIANS GET TOGETHER.

The California seed growers are not going to sell this year's crop below the cost of production. This much is evident from the following:

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The undersigned and other seed growers of California announce the formation by themselves and other seed growers of the Coöperative Seed Growers' Association, a non-profit coöperative association of seed growers only, without capital stock, organized for the purposes of minimizing speculation and waste and stabilizing the seed industry.

Pieters-Wheeler Seed Co.,
Waldo Rohnert,
Fosgate & Lion,
Kimberlin Seed Co.,
Hunter Seed Co.,
California Seed Growers' Association, Inc.,
Valley Seed Co.,
R. C. McGill & Co.,
Braslan Seed Growers' Co.,
C. C. Morse & Co.

That the situation was highly unsatisfactory from the point of view of the California growers has been a matter of common knowledge these many months. It is the general belief that a large surplus of seeds is imminent and that prices should fall. The growers in most cases deny that a surplus is to be reckoned with, and have asserted individually that their production costs are such that prices can not fall if the seed growing industry is to continue. But orders do not come in the necessary volume. The buyers have been waiting developments. These appear to have taken the form of an arrangement substantially like the numerous organizations of fruit and vegetable growers.

CALIFORNIA SEED CROPS.

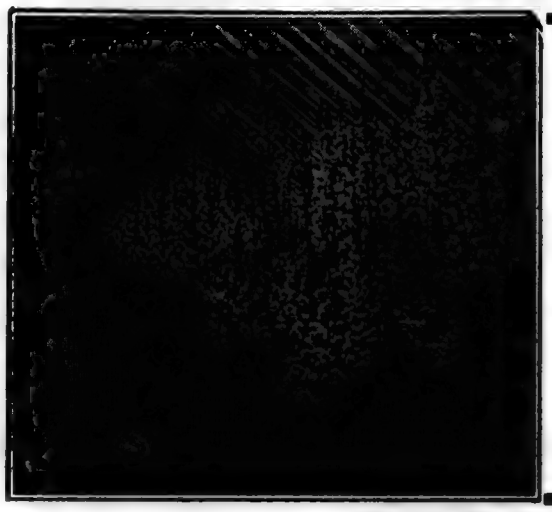
California now leads the United States in seed production, both in quantity and quality, and in fact has a monopoly of many important seeds, says the August bulletin of the California Development Board, issued September 4. Before the war beet, carrot, radish and spinach seed came from Europe. Now we export instead of importing these seeds. There are about 21,537 acres of vegetable seeds alone this year. Following are reports on seed conditions:

BEET.—The garden beet seed crop is practically all harvested. It is estimated that the crop averages from 600 to 700 pounds per acre. The mangel beet seed crop withstood climatic conditions better and it is estimated that it yielded from 900 to 1,000 pounds per acre. The sugar beet seed crop has matured in good condition and a normal crop is expected.

CARROT.—The carrot seed crop in California is about to be harvested and the quality of the seed promises to be good, with a yield varying from 500 to 900 pounds per acre; 700 pounds per acre is considered a good yield.

LETTUCE.—The lettuce seed crop is reported to be fair, and the yield can be estimated at about 400 pounds per acre.

MUSTARD.—Mustard in the Delta and Santa Clara districts is promising a better crop than last year, but it is not yet up to normal. The average yield per acre will probably be something like 700 pounds.



ONION.—While some of the onion crop was damaged, the present general aver-

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Going Strong.

Our publicity committees are greatly pleased at the confidence displayed by florists in the work of the campaign, as evidenced in the many additions to subscriptions already placed that are coming in. The following is a sample of the many letters our promotion bureau is receiving: "We are making good our promise of June 30 by enclosing a check herewith towards the 'Say It with Flowers' campaign, in addition to the one sent on the above date. We hope and feel confident that we shall be able to double our subscription next year. Wishing you and the publicity campaign the greatest of success, we are very truly yours, Moraio Bros., Rye, N. Y."

Those who have not subscribed should ponder upon this condition, for better evidence of the satisfaction the campaign is giving they could not have.

But do they need evidence? Have they not that inner feeling that the campaign has already benefited their own businesses? As has been publicly pointed out, the florists' business has been among the first of the industries to "come back" after the late disastrous war, and, like Johnnie Walker, it is "going strong." What has been a prime factor in this speedy return to pre-war conditions, and even an improvement upon them, if not our publicity campaign?

The Honor List.

An everlasting debt of gratitude is owing to the generous subscribers who have made the initial efforts of the campaign possible. Some of these subscribers have donated sum after sum in their enthusiasm over the great service rendered by the campaign. At a recent meeting of the New York Florists' Club, when nearly everybody present was already a subscriber, Max Schling, by an address which disclosed his personal experiences as to the beneficial effects of the campaign, collected additional subscriptions to the amount of several hundred dollars, and the club itself recommended a subscription of $500 from its own funds, a recommendation which will be formally confirmed at its next meeting. There was some truth in a remark made by one present at that meeting, "I should not like to have my name omitted from that subscription list—the omission would be a brand upon my honor."

Billboards for Boosting.

At the meeting of our joint committees to be held in Buffalo October 14 there is to be set up for inspection one of the billboard signs which it is proposed to supply to the trade at $50 each. There should be many hundreds of sites in this country at the disposal of florists for the display of signs such as these, and their use will be helpful not only to the publicity campaign but to the florists themselves. Again it is asked that all florists who have available sites along public highways, railroads, or where they will catch the public eye, notify the secretary, so that full particulars in regard to the signs may be provided at the earliest possible moment. The sooner the signs are installed, the better it will be for our industry.

Campaign plans are now strongly active and will be more so as the campaign fund grows—we cannot say "accumulates," for it is not allowed to do so. Every dollar is put to work as soon as it is collected. Help us toward our goal of $100,000. Banish that feeling of distrust which all along has been unwarranted, and come over with your subscription. Be a "live florist" in every sense of the term. Foster the interests of your industry, and the industry will take care of you.

To Life Members.

Owing to the recent large influx of life members, some delay is being experienced in the furnishing of engrossed diplomas to such members, since signatures, engrossing and framing all require considerable time. New life members are, therefore, asked to appreciate this condition.

The supply of life membership buttons, furnished at 75 cents each, was early exhausted at the convention, and delay exists in obtaining a further supply. As soon as they are received from

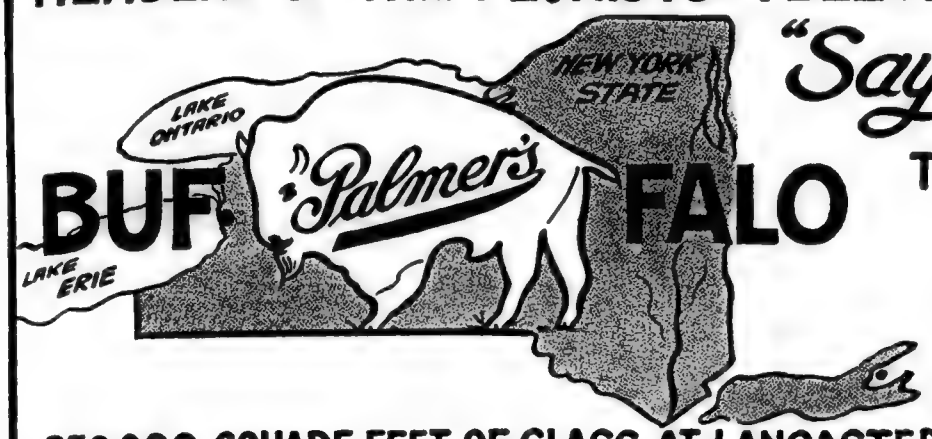
NEW YORK CLUB MEETING.

A regular meeting of the New York Florists' Club was held in the club rooms, at the Grand Opera House building, Twenty-third street and Eighth avenue, Monday evening, September 8, with President Philip F. Kessler in the chair.

After the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, A. M. Henshaw, for the committee on club quarters, reported that negotiations were pending looking to the engagement of a room in the Engineering building, on West Thirty-ninth street, seating 250 persons, with an anteroom, at a cost of $250 for the ten meetings of the club. As the members were familiar with the rooms, which had been used for several minor flower shows, the committee was voted power to act.

Charles H. Totty, for the flower show committee, addressed the meeting on the prospects for the spring show to be held in the Grand Central palace in March. He predicted that the show would be the biggest of the series so far held. The florists' industry, he said, was in splendid shape, better than ever before. No business, in his opinion, had reacted toward pre-war conditions as quickly as that of the florists, and if every member of the club would become a booster all would be able to record a wonderful success in the forthcoming show. Secretary Young endorsed Mr. Totty's views and announced that already practically all the trade space on the first floor of the building had been taken and much of the available area on the second floor.



A. L. Miller, as chairman of the transportation committee, reported that the club had dispatched a whole trainload as its delegation to the Detroit convention. He described in detail the delights of the trip and the entertainment provided by the club en route. The bill of expense which he presented was heartily approved by the meeting, and payment ordered.

F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y., made an address on the opposition to Quarantine No. 37 presented at the Detroit convention. "I do not believe the average florist appreciates how far-reaching this quarantine order is going to be," said the speaker. Orchid imports would be entirely stopped, he said, and as Canada was free from embargo of any kind, the trade might expect large shipments of cut flowers from the Dominion, to the detriment of our own trade. Manetti stock for roses which formerly cost only $5 would now cost $50 to $80. Orchid plants which had recently been sent into Canada for exhibition purposes only had been refused readmission into the United States under the quarantine, and this was only one instance of how the order was working. In his opinion, relief as regards many of the unfair rulings made could now only come through an appeal to Congress, steps for which were already being considered.

J. A. Manda and C. H. Totty also expressed their views on the situation. Mr. Totty referred to the resolution in opposition to the quarantine which was passed at the Detroit convention and moved that this resolution be endorsed by the club, as it had been recently by the National Association of Gardeners. The motion was carried unanimously.

Max Schling reported for the local committee on publicity and stirred up considerable enthusiasm on the subject through an eloquent and impressive address. Although most of the members present had subscribed to the publicity fund, several volunteer subscriptions were taken, altogether amounting to about $1,200 for the 4-year campaign. Mr. Schling also referred to the approaching flower show, and solicited the hearty support of every member of the club.

On motion of J. A. Manda, the club voted an appropriation of $500 to the publicity fund. Under the club's constitution and by-laws this vote must be confirmed at the next meeting, but will assuredly stand.

The following were nominated for membership in the club: S. S. Skidelsky, 50 Park place, New York; Henry W. C. Herrman, 2897 Fulton street, Brooklyn; Geo. B. Cannon, Stamford, Conn.; James Brown, 1170 Broadway, New York; Leo Osternei, New York; Charles Committees to draw up resolutions on the death of Jo eph G. Leikens and Meyer Otile were appointed.

Mr. Totty spoke of the great success of the Detroit convention, and incidentally introduced A. L. Miller as president-elect of the S. A. F., intimating that the club once more "brought home the bacon." Mr. Miller made suitable response, expressing his pride at being the eleventh president to be elected from the club's membership.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Detroit Florists' Club for the many courtesies extended to the New York delegation at the recent convention. A vote of thanks was also passed to the club's transportation committee for the excellent arrangements made for the journey of the club's delegation to Detroit.

The C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., staged a handsome vase of the new rose, Frank W. Dunlop, which was greatly admired. This rose was exhibited at the April meeting of the club and was awarded the high scoring of ninety points. J. H. P.

The Market.

The return of the hot weather last week caused the expected revival of business in the cut flower market to fall flat; about the only business reported was funeral work. Stock in large consignments arrived daily, with a demand for only about one-third of it. In order to dispose of it, prices had to suffer in all grades.

PROMPTNESS WITH CARE

Eastern New York and Western Mass.

Roses are more plentiful than ever this season and of excellent quality, with local stock having the call, as the hot weather caused outside shipments to suffer from the heat. Rose stock can be bought all the way from $1 to $6 per hundred, according to the grade. Carnations are coming in, of fair quality in flower, but with short stems, prices ranging all the way from $1 to $3 per hundred. Asters and gladioli were a glut all week and the price depends on how many you can use.

Dahlias are selling well when fancy, but there is little demand for common varieties. These are not yet at their height, and if the frost does not catch them early, the crop will be a large one this season. There were a large number of Golden Glow chrysanthemums in the market last week, but the trade did not take kindly to them at $3 and $4 per dozen, and the early varieties have little demand at present.

A good supply of tuberose spikes and cosmos is coming in at present. Valley, orchids and lilies are still absent from the local market.

In greens this market has had a splendid supply all summer and has cleaned up well almost daily in asparagus, adiantum and flat ferns.

Club Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Louis Florists' Club was held September 11 on the grounds of Gust W. Grossart's establishment at Belleville, Ill. It was one of the best attended outdoor meetings this year, since the ten automobiles, which left the wholesale district at 1 o'clock, carried fifty members.

The members arrived at the meeting place at 2:30 and inspected the houses and grounds of this well-kept establishment, finding everything in tiptop shape.

The meeting was held under the large shade trees on the lawn in front of the Grossart residence. President Hummert called the meeting to order at 3 o'clock, with all the officers present. After the regular opening proceedings, the chair called on all committees for reports.

The trustees reported that the next club meeting would be October 9 at the Philip Goebel, Jr., establishment, in Kirkwood, Mo. The publicity committee reported through Chairman Bourdet that funds were coming in steadily and that the committee would meet September 16 and arrange for fall and winter advertising. The secretary was then called on for a financial report, which was pleasing to the members.

H. C. Irish, chairman of the state fair committee, reported that he had selected Messrs. Smith, Weber, Jr., Hummert and Bourdet as his committee. F. C. Weber, Jr., district manager for the F. T. D., in a letter asked the club to assist the Retail Florists' Association of St. Louis to bring the next meeting of the F. T. D. to St. Louis. On motion the club endorsed the action of the Retail Florists' Association of St. Louis inviting the F. T. D. to meet in St. Louis in 1920.

The following florists filed applications for membership: Ray R. Young, Edward Cizkowski, L. Dinkelman and A. G. Fehr. Their applications were referred to a committee for endorsement.

George Pring, of the St. Louis Association of Gardeners, told the members that L. P. Jensen had been elected president of the National Association of Gardeners and that St. Louis had been selected as the city for the next annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners. The members agreed to assist in entertaining the visitors to the convention during their stay. The chair then appointed Messrs. Bourdet and Fillmore, former presidents, as installing officers. They at once proceeded to install August Hummert as president, A. S. Cerny as vice-president, J. J. Beneke as secretary, W. C. Smith as treasurer and Oscar Ruff as trustee.

On motion a vote of thanks was extended to J. J. Windler and F. W. Windler, retiring officers. Treasurer Smith then made a financial report, which showed the club to be in a healthy condition.

For the good of the club, J. J. Beneke invited the members to smoke with him the cigars which he won as second prize in the bowling contest at the Detroit convention; he received a rising vote of thanks. The attendance prize offered by President Hummert, a box of cigars, was won by George Pring, who opened it and distributed the cigars among the members and also was given a rising vote of thanks.

The question box aroused a good discussion of the question, "Do the members of the Florists' Club want the next national flower show in St. Louis and are we in a position to handle it in 1921?" After a lengthy discussion it was decided on motion to appoint L. Jules Bourdet chairman and have him select his own committee to handle this important question and report at the next meeting, after which the meeting adjourned. The members were then invited by Mr. and Mrs. Grossart to partake of refreshments and lunch spread on the lawn. Before the members departed, they voted their hearty thanks to the host and hostess for the afternoon's entertainment, which will long be remembered by all who attended.

Flower Growers' Picnic.

The St. Louis County Growers' Association held its annual picnic at Upper Creve Coeur lake September 9. There was the usual jolly good crowd of growers with their families and friends and also a good representation of city florists in attendance.

The trustees, A. P. Scheidegger, Geo. F. Deutschmann and A. S. Cerny, who had the arrangements in charge, had everything in readiness. When the big crowd came they were assisted in carrying out the program by Charles Meier, George Hartmann, Joseph Deutschmann and August Hartmann, the officers of the association.

There were thirteen events on the program, and all were successfully carried out. The first event, the horseshoe game, attracted fifty entries. The event was won by Harry Koested, with Gus Hartmann second.

The boys' race for 12-year-olds was won by E. Meier, V. Betzee second. The race for girls 12 years old was won by E. Eichelsh, with Dorothy Meier second. The race for boys up to 16 years of age was won by A. Meier, John Cerny second. The married ladies' time walk attracted much attention and was won by Mrs. W. A. Rowe; Mrs. L. Baumann came in second.

The ladies' ball throwing contest gained the entire attendance of the ladies. Mrs. Gus Hartmann won first and Mrs. Schoel second. The novelty race for men was a great attraction, as every entry won a prize of some kind.

The watermelon eating contest was won, as usual, by E. Schmidt, and W. A. Rowe was second. The babies' attendance prize was won by Helen Hartmann, with A. Deutschmann second. The men's time walk contest drew many and was won by A. Meyer, Russell Stevens second. The clock guessing contest was won by L. Baumann. The prize for the best dancers was awarded to Harry Schlechter and Mrs. Wagner.

The thirteen attendance prizes for growers were awarded as follows, in the order named: W. J. Pilcher, George Hartmann, Paul Ahner, Otto Ahner, William Meier, August Hartmann, Tom Kirkwood, H. Meier, Hugo C. Gross, L. Albrecht, R. Wolfsburger and W. J. Edwards.

After the distribution of the prizes all had worked up a good appetite for dinner, and the rest of the evening was taken up by the younger folks. All had a most enjoyable time. A rising and hearty vote of thanks and three good cheers for those who had the arrangements in hand ended the sixth annual picnic of the St. Louis County Growers' Association.

Various Notes.

Fred C. Weber, Jr., president of the St. Louis Retail Florists' Association, is making great efforts to get together a large party to attend the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association meeting at Buffalo next month. The St. Louis association will extend an invitation to hold the 1920 meeting in St. Louis. In this they will be joined by the St. Louis Florists' Club, the St. Louis Convention Bureau, the Advertising Club of St. Louis, the Chamber of Commerce, the Associated Retailers of St. Louis and the city officials.

W. E. Ogle, at Ogle Station, Belleville, Ill., is just completing an additional range of houses.

Ostertag Bros. furnished the decorations at the St. Louis Club for the dinner September 12 to Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, who spoke here at the Coliseum on the league of nations. The flowers used were all roses and were highly commended.

J. J. Karins, representing H. A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, called on the trade last week and attended the growers' picnic September 9.

H. G. Berning and Mrs. Berning left on an extended western trip, stopping at Los Angeles, Cal. They expect to return home October 1.

The St. Louis Seed Co. has mailed its fall catalogues and has booked large orders for fall bulbs. There is a steady run for grass and sweet pea seed. Mr. Rahn, treasurer of the company, says he is ready to enter a seedsmen's team in the florists' bowling league.

David Banzhof, a trusted and faithful employee for the last fifteen years of George Waldbart, died September 12 at his home, 4142 National Bridge road, after a lingering illness of cancer. Mr. Banzhof was born in Ulm, Germany, was 56 years old and leaves a wife and son, and many friends in the trade to mourn his loss. The funeral, at which many of the trade were present, took place September 15 from Paschedag's funeral parlors, 2825 North Grand avenue. Mr. Waldbart, out of respect for his faithful employee, closed his store the afternoon of the funeral.

George A. Schmidt, formerly rose grower for Werner Bros., W. J. Pilcher and Otto Bruning, has gone into business for himself in Clayton, Mo. He does a general florists' and landscape business and expects by next spring to build a range of houses and to grow roses.

Last week ended the early closing of the wholesale houses. Beginning Monday, September 15, the usual hour for closing will be 6 o'clock, including Saturdays.

The Market.

The cooler weather has tended to put more snap in business. Last week saw an unusual number of weddings, for which there were many home and church decorations.

The growers are beginning to cut more stock, but the improved demand has cleared all the stock except the asters and gladioli. American Beauty is good and is sold up each day. Premier is improving and should give real competition to American Beauties this coming season. It is short in supply and brings good prices to the wholesaler. Ophelia is coming on well and in a short time should become the best seller of this locality. Sunburst, Killarney, Shawyer, Maryland and Mock roses are of good quality and easily marketed. A few Ward roses are to be had and are in great demand. Hoosier Beauty is of better quality, not arriving so open as heretofore, and it is quickly cleared. White roses remain scarce, due to the many weddings, and in many cases Ophelias and Sunbursts are substituted.

Carnations have piled up during the week; only the longer-stemmed ones are selling. The growers are cutting a great many more carnations than last reported, which explains why they are stocking up the market. Gladioli are poor in quality, and the supply has decreased, thus fitting more nearly the small demand. The demnad for asters, although good, is not equal to the large supply reaching this market. The quality is fair.

The usual supply of seasonable flowers is to be had, such as cosmos, zinnias, helenium, celosia, calendulas, centaureas and gaillardias. The market remains overstocked with maidenhair ferns, but the demand for asparagus is good.

Various Notes.

A new shop was opened by A. K. Butchart on Grand River avenue, under the name of the Rosery Florist. Mr. Butchart was at one time in business in Winnipeg, Canada.

W. B. Brown, who recently moved to Woodward avenue, is showing a fine lot of asters and gladioli; his store windows are noticeably attractive.

George Doemling reports that at his Mt. Clemens greenhouses he has a fine crop of Ophelia, Columbia and Ward roses coming along. He also will have Killarney, Rhea Reid and Hoosier Beauty. He has recently taken over the Engle greenhouses at Mt. Clemens,

PASSPORT DEMAND HEAVY.

That the time is ripe to revive the pre-war trade in steamer flowers is evident from the fact that already so many people want to go abroad that the State Department is far benind in attending to its passport business and has asked Congress for more money and more clerks in order to keep up with applications.

In his letter asking for an increase of appropriations, Secretary Lansing says: "Travel has been greatly restricted because of the need of shipping for the transport of troops. This condition has now changed and I have found it necessary gradually to remove restrictions upon the issuance of passports, and October 1 passports will be issued to Americans having any legitimate reason for proceeding abroad, and to tourists going to France, Belgium, Spain, Portugal, Italy and northern Africa, except Egypt. There will, therefore, be an enormous growth in the work of the division of passport control, the personnel of which is already inadequate and greatly overworked. The number of passports has grown from 6,365 in January to 9,491 in July, and during August

The Market.

Cosmos has been added to the early fall flowers now in the local market. While the supply as yet is not large, the stock coming into the market is of good quality. Prices are low compared with what they were all last season. Most of the local florists have completed their alterations and renovations and are now ready for their fall trade.

Various Notes.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

MILES W. BRYANT, of the firm of Arthur Bryant & Son, Princeton, Ill., was married August 30 to Ruth Amanda Karr. The couple departed after the ceremony on a trip to Philadelphia and other eastern cities. Russell V. Black, of Hightstown, N. J., was a guest at the wedding.

THE secretary of the French Federation of Nurserymen, Mons. Turbat, has stated that they have not yet given up hope of doing something to modify the extreme attitude taken up by the American government with regard to horticultural imports, and are still working with the allies to that end.

FRUIT AND ROSE STOCKS.

A correspondent in a British trade journal writes on French fruit and rose stocks from observations gathered from a recent visit to some of the principal producing districts:

"Notwithstanding the dry season which has been experienced in France, stocks, on the whole, look well, clean and healthy—thanks to the plentiful and convenient supply of water, which, nevertheless, entails a considerable amount of labor.

"It can be well understood that though France is the chief producing country in the world for this class of goods, the area devoted to the culture of fruit and rose stocks is much smaller than in pre-war times, and now that we are again enjoying peace, and the world is returning to its former peaceful pursuits, there is a great demand for these stocks; and this demand, coupled with the greater amount of labor required to bring young stuff successfully through a trying summer and the higher wages paid to workmen, has helped to increase the cost of production and so raise prices, which, unfortunately, give some reason for complaint.

"Apart from what France requires for herself and what Great Britain wants, demands come from Belgium, Italy, Holland, Spain and other parts of Europe, and America requires some millions. As it is quite impossible to supply all that are wanted, the French association appears to have given a preference to Britain and Belgium, then to America. The neutral countries come afterwards; but any stock supplied to them is at a considerably higher price, and enemy countries would be charged double. So that while complaints may be made against high prices, they are not so bad as to other countries, and it looks as if, this year, we ought to count ourselves fortunate to get a supply at all.

"Considering the shortage, many of the American requests for supplies are accompanied with offers of prepayment, and in view of this fact, which was discovered from more than one of the large growers, surely we cannot blame the Frenchman if he asks of us the same conditions which accompany the orders of our friends across the Atlantic, but which have to be refused in order to let us have a reasonable quantity of the stocks required.

"It has been said that this year's prices are out of proportion to previous years. Well, while there may be some truth in this, it is questionable if this is the only basis on which to fix prices. What about the losses in the other departments of the nursery? What is going to make up for the piles of overgrown trees and shrubs which have to be burned in order to clear them out of the way? Is it not justifiable to try to obtain better prices for something else of which there is a stock, for which there is a demand, and for which the money can be paid, so long as the goods can be supplied? If this were not so, then it is to be feared the balance sheet at the end of the season's stock taking would be rather discouraging; or should we say encouraging, inasmuch as there would soon be no income tax to pay?

"Then again, it may not be quite realized how hard some parts of the industries of France have been hit by the war. In one of the producing districts visited, it was mentioned that out of 250 men who went to the front from that particular village, 153 were killed and practically all of the remainder wounded."

OPPOSING THE QUARANTINE.

Practical Procedure Proposed.

In his address before the convention of the National Association of Gardeners at Cleveland, Congressman M. L. Davey, of Kent, O., from the fullness of his legislative experience, outlined a practical plan of securing action in amending Quarantine No. 37. He said:

"My suggestion is that you proceed to get a full hearing of this matter before the agricultural committee of the House. You can get such a hearing if you will proceed in a practical way. The Federal Horticultural Board will certainly listen to the agricultural committee of the House, because they get their appropriations through that committee. The agricultural committee, in turn, will certainly listen to the urgent request either of their own members or a reasonable number of other members of the House. No one can deny you the benefits of a hearing. That is the least thing which the agricultural committee of the House can in fairness do.

"Those who are interested in this matter are sufficient in numbers to secure such a hearing if they will proceed in a determined manner. Let me tell you something about the attitude of a member of Congress. Those whom I have met are practically all fine fellows personally. They are trying to do right in the service they render to their constituents. They are human, of course. Most men are in Congress because they want to be there. Most of them want to stay there. They recognize the fact that the best way to stay there is to render satisfactory service to the people whom they represent.

"So if each of you will tell your congressman that you think an injustice has been done the horticultural profession by this quarantine, that you insist upon an impartial hearing of the whole question before the agricultural committee of the House, that you ask him to use his influence to secure such a hearing, I am sure he will gladly respond favorably.

"Take my advice and don't write a form letter. Take the facts and write them in your own way to your own congressman. Don't let him put you off with a formal acknowledgment. Tell him you want to know the results of his efforts. If he does not report to you within a reasonable length of time, go after him again. Let him know that you expect results. If he knows that you mean business, you can take my word for it that he will 'step on the gas' and try to help you.

"Your congressman wants your vote and the votes of your friends. As long as you do not ask him to do anything wrong or injure anyone else or violate the rules of proper conduct, he will be glad to help you, if he knows you mean business.

"You cannot expect him to do anything for you unless he knows what you want. You are not asking anything improper. Not only will he be glad to help you, but you have an absolutely perfect right to go to him for help. He is your representative and subject to your call on anything that pertains to his office. Don't feel that you are asking something to which you have no right. He knows that you have a right to go to him and that you have a right to insist upon his help, within the limits of propriety.

"If every man interested in the horticultural profession will make it his individual business to take this matter up with his own congressman and insist upon positive help and definite action and keep after him until he gets a satisfactory reply, I can almost guarantee that a hearing will be granted.

"From that time on it is entirely a question of making your case before the committee. Also I can almost guarantee that any recommendations, which the agricultural committee sees fit to make on the basis of the facts and merits of the case as disclosed at the hearing, will be cheerfully and promptly carried out by the Federal Horticultural Board."

The Market.

Last week showed no material change from the preceding week, but all indications continue to point to an active season as soon as the cooler weather sets in. All the growers promise much larger crops of everything than last winter, and already the social register contains an unusual number of functions that bid fair to make a substantial demand upon the local florists.

The demand last week was somewhat larger than during the few weeks previous, while funeral work has kept the surplus stock at a low ebb. Prices range about normal and the supply is certain to improve each week.

Greenhouse Heating

Subscribers are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

HEATING CANADIAN HOUSE.

I am building a greenhouse, 16x50 feet, running north and south, with the workroom at the north. The walls are of 8-inch concrete, three feet high, with twenty-eight inches of glass under the eaves. The ridge is ten feet six inches high and the glass at the south end is above a 3-foot wall. What amount of pipe would I require to heat the house and how should it be distributed? I have about 1,500 feet of 1¼-inch pipe and 200 to 300 feet of 1½-inch pipe on hand. I intend putting the boiler under the workroom at the north end and can go down six or seven feet below the ground. I should like to maintain 50 to 55 degrees of heat when the outside temperature is 30 degrees below zero. Hot water heat is to be used.

W. A. L.—Can.

Under the severe conditions mentioned considerably more radiation will be required than in sections where zero is a minimum temperature. We would suggest the use of a boiler rated for 750 square feet of radiation, which will require a grate about twenty-two inches in diameter.

As a rule, it is not advisable to use 1¼-inch pipe in the returns for greenhouse heating, but as the runs are short and the boiler can be placed considerably below the returns, we would favor the use of the pipe since it is on hand.

Four runs of the 1½-inch pipe should be used as flows, placing one on each wall plate and the others near the purlins. In addition to this, eighteen return lines of 1¼-inch pipe will be needed in the severest weather, while fourteen will suffice in zero weather. Place five returns under each side bench and distribute the others under the middle bench and along the walks.

TO HEAT LETTUCE HOUSES.

I have two connected lettuce houses, each measuring 28x54; another house 28x104, and a lean-to 14x104, and am building a house 28x170 at the east end of the north house, which will practically be an extension. These houses are fed by 5-inch mains, one supplying the 104-foot houses, the other supplying the 28x54-foot houses. Each house, except the lean-to, has two 3-inch flows and fourteen 2-inch returns. This gives sufficient radiation. The easiest way that I see to pipe the new house is to leave the present piping as it is, run the 5-inch main through the old house and protect it with asbestos paper, and pipe the new house much the same as the old ones. The table I have says that a 5-inch main only supplies about 1,400 feet of radiation, while, if I have figured it right, my 170-foot runs of 3½-inch

Congratulations, Florists! You Had a Wonderful Display

This shows the display of the Farnsworth Company, of Conshohocken, Pa., at the national convention of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists at Detroit. We are pleased to report that the convention was a wonderful success and that we were surprised with the tremendous interest shown by the florists from all over the country in our new product, and that our Mr. J. R. Lewis did a gratifying business. We take this opportunity to extend our thanks to Mr. John Young, secretary, the officials who made the annual event a banner occasion and to our friends, the florists. They were interested in our neat display, the Simplex and Duplex Boiler feed pumps and in the explanation given how these machines, simple and rugged in construction, are saving florists hundreds of dollars in coal. They saw, they heard and they bought. We thank you and we thank them. We know they will be as pleased with the result of their purchases as we were pleased with the result of our exhibition. We will be with you again.

Eliminate Your Boiler Feed Pump Troubles by installing this wonder-machine, the Duplex Boiler Feeder, which is the only machine of its kind on the market, the result of years of special study in fuel economy and the problem of returning condensation into the boiler under pressure at a high temperature.

The Farnsworth Duplex Boiler Feeder—showing front view of 3-inch machine, with duplex receiving and delivery check valves.

Place the Farnsworth Duplex Boiler Feeder above your boilers. Discharge all your high pressure traps directly into it. Any low pressure condensation you have in scattered buildings draw to a Farnsworth Condensation Pump, which will deliver it to the Farnsworth Duplex Boiler Feeder. This method forms a closed system that keeps the condensate under pressure and feeds it directly into the boilers at higher temperature, thus conserving heat units and saving coal.

We do not recommend our machines if we cannot make it worth your while to purchase—if you cannot save enough money to warrant the expenditure. We have saved 1 to 10 tons of coal per day in many plants, and the Farnsworth Closed System is rapidly forging to the front as the only up-to-date system for handling condensation under any known condition, in steam plants, in laundries, paper mills, soap factories, etc.

Buy the Quality Boiler Feeder—the Duplex Pump

Hundreds of letters telling of splendid Farnsworth service in plants all over the country, are testimonials from others to prove every statement we make concerning our successful installations to be true. Don't waste coal, money and labor with a faulty system when this opportunity is at your door. Join the ranks of the Farnsworth boosters. Write explaining conditions at your plant.

pipe will require about 2,100 feet and a 6-inch flow. The 5-inch main will run about seventy-five feet before it begins to feed, and I expect to arrange returns in the same way. This means keeping a large quantity of water hot that is not doing any good. D. H. McI.—Mo.

There should be no difficulty in maintaining a suitable temperature for lettuce in the 28x54-foot houses with the present radiation. In fact, twelve 2-inch returns should be ample. If the 5-inch flow and return pipes to the 170-foot house are run through one of the 28x54-foot houses, it would be possible to cut off several more of the returns by means of valves or they could be taken out, provided heat will be kept up in the new house at all times.

As we figure it, if two 3-inch flows and fourteen 2-inch returns are used in the new house it will make only 1,800 square feet of radiation, if the main flow and return to the boiler are covered. This can be handled by a 5-inch flow, with a return of the same size. We would, however, consider the two 3-inch flow pipes loaded to capacity.

Our suggestion would be to pipe the two houses as one, thus making a run of 224 feet. Use the 5-inch flow as the main for this house and then run three 3-inch overhead flows, with one on each plate and the other below the ridge. At the farther end of the house connect each flow pipe with three 2½-inch returns. The other 28x54-foot house may be connected with the boiler by means of a 3-inch flow and return. While we prefer 2½-inch pipe for returns in houses more than 200 feet in length, if there is no other use for the fourteen 2-inch returns in the 28x54-foot house, they might be used for three runs each 224 feet long and with seven runs of a 2½-inch pipe will furnish the necessary radiation.

PIPING FOUR HOUSES.

I am furnishing a sketch showing four houses we wish to heat with steam. The desired temperatures are as follows: No. 1, 50 degrees; No. 2, 60 degrees; Nos. 3 and 4, 45 degrees, when the outside temperature is 10 degrees below zero. Could the main flow pipe be run to the west end of house No. 4, then across the west end of the others and the returns be taken direct from it? The main return would then run across the east end of the four houses.

If the boiler is set low enough, is it necessary to have a trap? How many 1¼-inch returns are needed for each house and what size should the main flow be? L. W. C.—O.

So far as can be determined from the sketch furnished, there will be no objection to arranging the main flow and return pipes as proposed.

While we would prefer to have the water level of the boiler four feet or more below the lowest part of the coils, it would answer for houses not over 300 feet in length if there is a difference of three feet.

A 4-inch main flow pipe will answer for the four houses. It can be reduced respectively to 3½-inch, 3-inch and 2½-inch after the various houses have been taken off. For connecting the returns the pipes should be respectively 1½-inch, 2-inch and 2½-inch.

For house No. 1, with a width of thirty-five and one-half feet, we would

ALBANY, N. Y.

The Market.

There has been a plentiful supply of flowers of all kinds except roses and they are now coming into the market in sufficient quantity to meet the demand. The vacation season is about over and the florists look for an increase in business from now on, as the majority of the flower-buying people who have been out of town through July and August usually come back to town after Labor day.

Club Meeting.

The Albany Florists' Club held its regular monthly meeting September 4, at 744 Central avenue, and a good number of the members were present. New members elected were William McGinn and John J. Jennings.

The club will hold a plant and flower exhibit on the night of November 20, the regular club meeting night, and prizes wil be offered to private growers for chrysanthemums and other seasonable plants and flowers.

President William Newport appointed a committee to take up the campaign for "Say It with Flowers" week, to be held in October in conjunction with similar campaigns in other cities, notably Washington, D. C. Louis Hanfling, of Russin & Hanfling, New York, started the committee on its work with a contribution of $10.

Louis H. Schaefer, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported that a surplus of $25 remained in the treasury after all expenses in connection with the clambake were paid. The bake was a great success, being attended by more than 100 of the florists and their friends.

Various Notes.

W. C. Gloeckner, of 97 State street, was the only Albany florist to attend the convention in Detroit. He reports that it was certainly worth the trip and the best convention he has ever attended.

George Nagengast has completed his two additional houses and is getting them stocked with pot plants for Christmas, notably poinsettias and cyclamens.

The Best Remedy for White Fly

Awarded Honorable Mention by the S. A. F. at the Detroit Convention

Here is what a Neighbor says:

I have been using Insectonos for over a year and find out that it is the best remedy for controlling the white fly that I have ever used. In addition to killing the fly it prevents the eggs from hatching.

I have also used it on Mums for the Black Fly with the same results.

Very respectfully,

ARTHUR J. GRAVES,

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 13, 1919. Manager Maplewood Greenhouses.

Insectonos (pronounced In-sec-tō′-nos) is a contact insecticide for the destruction of White Fly, Rose Leaf Roller and Chrysanthemum Leaf Tyer. Numerous growers have been using it for several months—and are so well pleased their recommendation by word of mouth already has caused many other growers to try Insectonos. Ask about it.

Send $1.75 for a 1-lb. can, delivered postpaid anywhere in America. Being non-poisonous, Insectonos can go through the mails.

Use according to directions (one pound will combine with one pound of Ivory Soap to make 32 gallons of spray). When you see the results you will want a case (8 1-lb. cans), at $10.50, sent prepaid anywhere in the U. S. if cash accompanies the order. $12.00 per case, postpaid, to Canada. Will also supply Ivory Soap Powder, prepaid, at 30c per pound.

The Market.

The extremely hot spell of Sunday and Monday, September 7 and 8, had a marked effect on the market last week, bringing in a deluge of mediocre stock. Roses opened quickly and sold cheaply. The garden flowers were soft and made poor subjects for sale in most cases. Later in the week stock shortened up considerably and good flowers were scarce after the early buying hours.

Roses continue to be the mainstay of the market and will not have much competition until the chrysanthemums arrive heavily.

Carnations, while increasing in numbers, are not fit for much except design work. Asters and gladioli are of such quality that they are not much help.

Various Notes.

As the summer days are about over and fall, with its prosperous days, is near at hand, it is someone's duty to "let 'em all know" that Milwaukee and vicinity has had one of the most bountiful summers in its history. At no time has business reached so low an ebb that anyone would feel blue, or wonder if the good times had all gone. Vacations were the only hard things to arrange this summer.

Tuesday evening, September 16, the Florists' Advertising Club held a directors' meeting at the Blatz hotel. The fall and winter advertising campaigns were arranged and appropriations made to cover them.

The Heitman-Oestreicher Co. greenhouses contain a good-looking lot of carnations. This firm still grows, and well, too, a lot of Winsor. Some Golden Glow chrysanthemums are being cut now and October Frost will be ready soon.

Henry Kugler, of the East Side Floral Co., says business has more life in his neighborhood than it did a year ago.

Out-of-state visitors who attended the meeting of the Wisconsin State Florists' Association September 12 were J. Fred Longren, of the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, Burlington, Ia.; Allie Zech, president of the Chicago Florists' Club; Joe Marks, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, and F. R. Kilner, of The Florists' Review, Chicago.

Charles Dressler, carnation grower at St. Francis, has been marketing a heavy crop of tomatoes and onions.

The retail florists in Milwaukee are almost unanimously in favor of Sunday closing. A. H. M.

FLORISTS' REVIEW

DAVENPORT, R. ISLAND, MOLINE.

The Market.

Business showed a marked improvement last week; stock of all kinds cleared up well and the stock on hand in the stores is small. Roses are in short supply. Carnations, of which a few were offered, are small and short of stem. Gladioli of good quality are still to be had. Asters are deteriorating, though some good stock is to be seen. Golden Glow chrysanthemums and rubrum lilies add variety. Garden flowers are scarce, owing to the drought.

Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Tri-City Florists' Club was held at the residence of E. R. Patton, Davenport, with a good attendance. The question of making a showing at the Iowa state exhibition at Des Moines in November was taken up, and the interest shown by the members speaks well for a good representation at that time.

C. H. Claussen and Miss M. A. Tierney, both of Davenport, were elected to membership. Supper was served and was followed by a good social time. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Patton for their hospitality. The club adjourned to meet October 9 at the residence of John Staack, in Moline.

Various Notes.

Emil Kranz, of Muscatine, Ia., was a visitor here September 11.

Miss M. A. Tierney has gone on a business trip to Chicago.

The Bills Floral Co., Davenport, has placed an artificial cooling system in its store.

Harry M. Bills has a good supply of rubrum lilies of fine quality.

H. G. Pauli, Davenport, is one of the few who have a larger number of carnations planted than usual.

George F. Forbes will install a cooling system at once, having contracted for an up-to-date machine. W. G.

A Glazing Putty of Real Value

In all our experience and investigation we had never found a preparation for bulbing over the outside of a greenhouse that was quite satisfactory, until we ran across PERMANITE. This was about four years ago. At that time we set about investigating the merits of PERMANITE and proceeded to watch the results of its application to greenhouse roofs.

Last year we were entirely convinced of its high quality and durability, and accepted the western agency for the sale of these goods.

We applied PERMANITE to hundreds of greenhouse roofs, over almost every part of the United States.

The results obtained were highly satisfactory indeed. Glass roofs of all kinds, both old and new, were made water-tight and air-tight, saving thousands of plants from being spoiled by water dripping on them and saving many hundreds of tons of coal by making the roofs proof against the wind and storms of winter.

We give PERMANITE our unqualified endorsement and recommend it highly for all kinds of glazing.

We have a very large stock on hand in our warehouse and can ship immediately.

[Trade-mark registered, U. S. Patent Office.]

Better Than Ever—Costs Less

When PERMANITE—the original Asbestos Glazing Cement—came on the market it was the first and only material of its kind; since then any number of other similar products have been introduced, but the greenhouse man who has but once used PERMANITE, hardly ever makes a change; he knows there is a difference—and he knows that PERMANITE is made better than ever before.

And he also knows that Permanite costs less per years of service, because PERMANITE does not harden, remains ever-elastic and is guaranteed to outlast putty three to four times.

If quality and service mean anything at all to you—just say the word—and we shall gladly send you further information; and don't forget to ask for particulars about the new one-hand Permanite Gun—it will do your glazing in less than half the usual time.

Yours for a tight house,

Bessie Boston, of the San Mateo Dahlia Farm, was awarded first prize for best vase of one variety, fifty blooms.

F. C. Burns, of San Rafael, took first prize for the best established 3-year-old seedling.

Mrs. Jessie Seal won the William Hill silver cup for the best twelve peony dahlias in the show.

Most of the awards in the semi-professional class went to J. W. Davies for his collection of blooms, which are grown in what was formerly an unsightly dumping ground at the Turk and Fillmore streets car barn. He won first prize for the most meritorious exhibit.

Of unusual interest was the exhibit by prisoners of San Quentin, the state penitentiary, a varied collection of choice blooms which were grown in their own garden under the guidance of one of the convicts, William P. Gibson.

O. A. Harker won the award for the best 1919 seedling.

Officers of the Dahlia Society of California are as follows: President, T. A. Burns; vice-presidents, J. W. Davies and William Kettelwell; secretary, F. C. Burns; treasurer, F. D. Pelicano. The directors are Arthur Twichett, Mrs. E. W. Lymbery, H. T. Hennig, L. R. Kessing, Mrs. Jessie Seal, Richard Lohrmann, Pierson Durbrow and James Radford.

Various Notes.

The E. W. McLellan Co. shipped some fine chrysanthemums last week, although Henry Avansino, manager of the Bush street store, states that part of the shipping, especially orders from the extreme east, has been held up on account of the lack of cold storage space. He expects this situation to be relieved shortly, however, and is planning to fill the many orders which are now standing.

Mr. Bohannon, of the Bohannon Floral Co., Chicago, was a local visitor last week.

The annual picnic of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society was held September 7 at Madrone park in the Berkeley hills. An unexpected rain storm interrupted the program of the day, but plenty of excitement was furnished by a spirited debate on bolshevism, Mr. Raymond, representing the Garden City Pottery Co. and incidentally law and order, vs. Mr. Timshaw, formerly gardener at the Fairmont and Palace hotels, who held forth on the merits of unrestricted liberty.

C. Kooyman, 431 Bush street, states that orders for bulbs are coming in fast.

The United Flower & Supply Co. is shipping out of the state extensively. Yellow, white and pink chrysanthemums, of which this firm has an excellent supply, are selling at $6 and $9 per bunch.

Domoto Bros. are shipping a large number of chrysanthemums and will soon commence on Ophelia roses, which are about ready for cutting.

Enomoto & Co. are sending out some fine chrysanthemums. The aster stock from this company is about gone, but the chrysanthemum shipments are keeping it busy. M. M.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

The Market.

The supply is improving. Roses in all lengths and varieties are abundant. Medium grade asters are plentiful, but fine blooms continue to be limited. Gladioli are about equal to the demand and the quality is good. Dahlias are coming in much more freely, although not in as large quantities as in previous years. Short-stemmed carnations are available at $1 and $2 per hundred.

A few summer garden flowers still linger. Of these snapdragons, zinnias, buddleia, mignonette, physostegia, pansies and delphinium are the most conspicuous. Cosmos is now here in good supply.

Various Notes.

Guy N. Reburn, of Chicago, and James J. Karins, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, were visitors last week.

J. O. Bishop, of Greenwood, is on the road to recovery and is beginning to manage his establishment again.

Bert Hitz has been cutting some fine Ophelia and Ward roses.

Herman Young has been ill for some time.

The firm of Smith & Young Co., aside from its flower business, will have about a thousand bushels of apples to market.

The Pahud Floral Co. has been shipping a large number of poinsettias.

The home of E. E. Temperley, at 710 Bungalow court, was practically demolished by fire the night of September 10. The fire started in the attic and gained such headway that before the fire department arrived the entire roof was gone. E. E. T.

GROWERS, ATTENTION!

THE new Kost pulverizer is giving satisfaction everywhere. A florist can grow plants much better with thoroughly ground up sods and fertilizers. It releases plant food elements you can't utilize by old methods. This pulverizer will grind up sods, barnyard manure, leaf mold, ashes, oyster and clam shells, burnt lime-rock and other materials used for good soil. This pulverizer will save you a lot of work, grow better crops, and its cost is very reasonable for a first-class pulverizer.

CARNATIONS

"LADDIE." You will remember what a scramble there was for rooted cuttings of the variety last season, and how often letters were returned marked "sold out." I have made arrangements with one of the leading Carnation specialists in this country, who has a large stock of this variety, and I have had reserved for me a quantity for January, February and March delivery, 1920, and if you are in the market for this variety, would advise you to place order at once, as I could get reservation of only about one-third of quantity I wanted, and these will be sold up in a very short while. Price, $8.50 per 100, $75.00 per 1000. Add 5% for packing charge. Terms, one-third cash deposit with order, balance just before shipment is made. No field plants this season. Will also be in position to supply other varieties. Price will advance in next ad to $10.00 per 100, $95.00 per 1000.

PLANT MORE FREESIAS
SEPTEMBER and OCTOBER are the months to plant Freesia Purity if you want flowers for use in JANUARY, FEBRUARY and MARCH. You will need a lot of them this next winter and spring time. ORDER NOW—Direct of us.
The certain shortage of bulbs from Europe the coming season and the high prices of French Romans and Valley, has greatly increased the demand for Freesia Purity. They are very successful as cut flowers. For design work, the smaller sizes are big money makers. For forcing you can't buy them too large.
Our bulbs are properly cured. They are graded and counted by hand. Our customers include a large percentage of the leading dealers in every State of the Union and Canada.
PRICES, FISCHER'S IMPROVED PURITY FREESIA BULBS.
Size A—½ to ⅜-in. diam., blooming size, suited for design work, per 1000, $4.00.
Size B—Flat ½-in. diam., good length of stems, per 1000, $6.00.
Size C—½ to ⅝-in. diam., a good all-around size, good stems and flowers, per 1000, $9.00.
Size D—⅝-in. diam., long stems, big flowers, per 1000, $11.00.
Size E—¾ to ⅞-in. diam., extra large bulbs, many mammoth flowers, per 1000, $13.00.
Size F—¾-in. diam. up, Jumbos, per 1000, $15.00.
Size G—¾ to ⅞-in. diam., extras, largest flowers, force quickly, per 1000, $18.00.
Specials—⅞ and 1-in. to 1⅛-in. up, largest Freesias ever offered, per 1000, $20.00.
REDUCED PRICES
FREESIA PURITY—DARK SKINS
These bulbs come out of the same Purity fields as the light colored skin bulbs come from, but are discolored, no doubt, by fertilizer. Reports show that they bloom about as well if not fully as well as the light colored skins. On account of the greatly reduced price that we sell these bulbs for, we will not be held responsible for their flowering qualities. Most growers and jobbers sell them at regular prices, making no reduction.

GLADIOLI

Gladioli. FORCE GLADIOLI. Cut flowers will be scarce. Are you aware that there is a scramble for Carnation plants to fill up vacant benches and the probability is that there is not enough Carnation stock in sight to plant all up? ANSWER: SHORTAGE OF FLOWERS, THEREFORE PLANT GLADIOLI. The following varieties are recommended for forcing:

	1st Size		2nd Size
	100	1000	100	1000
America	$2.50	$20.00	$2.00	$18.00
Augusta	2.50	20.00	2.00	18.00
Baron Joseph Hulot	3.00	25.00	2.50	20.00
Brenchleyensis	2.00	18.00	1.75	16.00
Chicago White	3.00	25.00	2.50	20.00
Europa	6.00	50.00	....	....
Halley	2.50	20.00	2.00	18.00
Lily Lehman	3.00	25.00	2.50	20.00
Mrs. Frank Pendleton	4.50	40.00	....	....
Niagara	4.00	30.00	....	....
Panama	3.00	25.00	2.50	20.00
Pink Beauty	3.00	25.00	2.50	20.00
White Excelsior	3.50	25.00	....	....

Use all available space; the unproductive space costs you as much to heat as the productive. MAKE IT ALL PRODUCTIVE. Plant a Gladiolus corm in every vacant spot in your benches, between Carnations and even early between the Mums, so they will be of a good size when the Mum crop is cut. Cash. Add 5% for packing charge.

PANSIES

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is a mixture of more than 50 thoroughbred varieties of Giant Show and fancy Pansies and includes the new varieties from American and European specialists. I have received thousands of testimonials from florists and amateurs in all sections of the country. Many of my florist customers say that my Pansies are the best in all respects that they have ever had. A sample: "The Pansies last year could not be beat in size, color or stems. I grow for cut flowers only (Boston market), and consider your strain way ahead of anything I have tried or seen. Perry Green, Quincy, Mass." I have made a specialty of growing Pansy seeds and plants for nearly 50 years. My plants are field grown from seed sown thinly in light sandy soil, broadcast, and they have extra good roots. Ten per cent discount on orders received before Oct. 1st, and they will be shipped any time you want them, up to Nov. 25th. Plants from Aug. sown seed, $4.50 per 1000, 500 for $2.50. Plants from sown seed, $5.50 per 1000, 500 for $3.00. Cash with order.
L. W. Goodell, Pansy Park, Dwight, Mass.

Our several strains of Giant Flowering Pansy seedlings will be ready for shipment October 1st. We suggest delivery not made until after that date, as experience has taught us that only heavily frosted stock ships well. All stock heavily rooted and August sown.

PHLOXES

Phlox. Now is the real time to think about your Phlox supply for another season as you can see it while in bloom or remember those recently in bloom. Last season I saw several baskets of cut Phlox in a Chicago Florist's shop that appealed to me about as much as many of the more expensive sorts of cut flowers in their season. Again you can have an abundant supply of cut Phlox if you will only provide for the stock. Try them out. Plant a nice collection of sorts, sufficient so that it will make it worth while. Remember, there is another dry season coming after this. The prices quoted are very low and might change most any time.

CHARCOAL

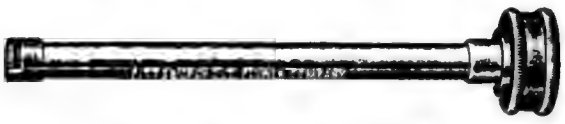
is necessary

For Good Soils

By its unusal ability to equalize the amount of moisture in various soils charcoal maintains soil fertility, thereby promoting rapid and steady growth.

Charcoal helps to drain over-wet soil just as well as it helps to retain moisture in over-dry soils.



Carbon dioxide, nitrogen and other gases essential to plant growth are absorbed in great volume by charcoal mixed with the soil (size 20) and are yielded up as required by the plant.

Prices: F. O. B. Ironton — 100 lbs. $2.50; 500 lbs. $11.00; 1000 lbs. $21.00; Ton $40.00; in bags, by freight only.

Look back a bit—

Months ago you read on this page forecasts of a great demand for greenhouse products and many arguments setting forth sound reasons why you should place your order without delay. And among those reasons was one that loomed large and is continually looming larger.

And that reason? Labor unrest!

Labor unrest has caused a falling off in production to the point where materials in practically every line can be secured only with great difficulty. Hence deliveries are almost unprecedentedly slow. This condition is not confined to the greenhouse building trade. It is general. Paper houses, shoe factories, hardware houses, clothing factories, lumber dealers and car manufacturers are among those who experience a shortage in materials. And they, with the rest, have learned to consider themselves in rare good fortune if they get delivery on their orders at any date.

Boiler time is coming

Are you ready?

Let this sink deep into your reservoir of thought and when you order anything—coal or the houses you expect to build next year, make allowances for these delays—

That means

ORDER NOW!

This Book

Will Make Money For You

Prepared by America's Foremost Floral Designer, Max Schling

IF a salesman carried no samples and relied solely on his power of description, how many orders would he sell? Could an architect sell his ideas to a prospective builder by telling him how the building would look? Sounds absurd? Yet that is just what the florist is doing today. That is why the two- and three-dollar orders come rolling in to the small town dealer, but the wedding and funeral pieces go to the big city man with a reputation.

Your interests and our interests are identical—when you prosper, we prosper—when you are busy, we are busy—we are both affected during the dull season. Because our welfare is interlocked we have obtained the selling rights of "Art in Floral Arrangements," to help you. It is to the florist what the sample trunk is to the salesman—and plans to the architect. It will increase the florist's business.

"Art in Floral Arrangements" contains practical floral designs prepared by Max Schling—the famous New York floral artist. It has been compiled with but one thought in mind—to make as attractive a book as could be made. No skimping in expense—no shaving on costs—and the book shows it. It contains actual photographs of the handsomest floral pieces, as well as many illustrations in a multitude of colors. This book should be on your table—it is the best possible way to secure large orders—it is your open door to increased profits.

Big florists have found it practically indispensable in their business—it means even more to the smaller florist. We are pushing it to increase the flower sales and profits throughout the country—you should have it, too. The first two or three orders you receive will pay for the book, the rest will be velvet. This is your opportunity to put the brains of Max Schling to work for you at a practically insignificant cost.

But get it now and be in time for the big Christmas rush season. It should double your profits before December 25th.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

PROPER PACKING PROTECTS PROFITS

Grower, wholesaler and retailer all realize the importance of packing stock to be shipped to market. Good packing means better stock and better profits all along the line. Long experience and careful investigation in the Baltimore market give real value to readers in "Tate's Tips" on this subject.

SO NUMEROUS in every wholesale market are the complaints of damaged stock, due entirely to bad handling, that it would be highly profitable to the whole trade if some system of packing could be devised which would at least reduce this waste to a minimum. The thing that strikes one upon investigation is that there are some growers whose stock comes on the market 100 per cent perfect. Now, if this be possible for some, why not for all? To find the answer to this question, I selected a list of growers, then went out to their ranges, determined to watch the cut all the way from the plants to the retailers' hands. To the credit of these growers be it said that every one of them was most willing to coöperate with The Review in this undertaking and lent every aid they could to the investigation. Now, at the beginning I might remind my readers that these men, who have all been successful, are what might be termed large growers, yet every one of them has come from humble beginnings in the business. Another peculiar thing is that the systems used by them vary but little. As one grower remarked, "It is eternal vigilance that is the price of success."

Roses Suffer Most.

In this article I am going to deal with roses only, as it is these which suffer most. A broken rose cannot be used at all. While a bruised one may be used after the outer petals have been removed, yet what is left of the original flower is apt to wither prematurely and cause dissatisfaction to the retailer's customer. We are not going to deal with the retailers, but rather endeavor to put roses into their hands in perfect condition and leave the rest to them.

In my investigation I found that to do this, care must be exercised from the time the rose is cut from the plant. Cutting is done twice each day, the first thing in the morning and the last thing in the afternoon. The reason these hours are chosen is because the sun is not so strong at those hours as in the middle of the day. The manner of cutting comes next, and I am convinced this is most important. Often I have seen the men, as soon as they had as many cut as they could hold in their free hands, lay the blooms on the bench or bed until the entire cut was completed.

Proper Cutting.

This is never done by those who are most successful, but as soon as the cutter has seventy-five, or as many as he can hold, he goes to the shed, where there are tin cans, ten inches in diameter, filled with water from the previous cut, the temperature of the water being about the same as the shed. He places the flowers in these almost as fast as they are cut. In this manner they are not permitted to wilt the least bit while they are being cut.

Proper Packing Insures Arrival in Perfect Condition.

When the cut is completed the next important move is to grade the cut. Five standards are used: Extra, 30-inch to 36-inch stems; special, 20-inch to 24-inch; No. 1, 15-inch to 18-inch; No. 2, 10-inch to 12-inch, and short, which includes anything that is left from the foregoing grades.

After sorting, the various grades are placed in receptacles, the most convenient being made of tin, ten inches in diameter and of various depths to accommodate the stems. The water used in these is just as it comes from the spigot, no attention being paid to the temperature. The blooms are then placed in cellars, where the temperature will run from 45 to 50 degrees, and are allowed to stand from twenty to twenty-four hours. This is known as the hardening off process. Of course we all understand that emergencies may arise when it will not be possible to give them this long to harden, but the object of this article is to outline a system as nearly perfect as possible. Some growers tell me they would not send their cut to market if the blooms had stood less than twenty or twenty-four hours.

Packing the Box.

We now come to the actual packing. The first move is to bunch the roses in bundles of twenty-five, keeping the flowers close together in a flat-topped bunch and tying firmly, so as to prevent breakage. Then they are wrapped in paper, as shown in the illustration, and the bundle is marked with the grade it contains. Most growers use a rubber stamp for this and have the paper cut in the regular sizes. The growers have stamps made, reading, for instance, "25 Extra"; some go farther and have a stamp for each variety they grow, such as "25 Ophelia Special." You will find the night fireman will be glad of the job of stamping the paper to keep him awake.

The roses are now ready for the shipping box. The bundles are laid in the box, which has been heavily lined with paper. Old newspapers will answer well for this. Where the roses have a long trip by express or boat, the usual strips are placed across the stems to hold them in position.

In Wholesale House.

We next find them in the wholesale house, most likely during the rush hour, when everything is bustle and confusion. The box is opened, and a customer wants, say, twenty-five extra Radiance. Instead of the salesman's having to go over a mass of loose roses, he picks up a bunch of twenty-five, or as many as are wanted, and the rest of the stock is not bruised by the operation. This is where the value of proper grading comes in, for the retailers will soon learn whose cut is graded as marked.

Twenty-five Ophelia Ready for Box.

But again, the morning rush is over and the stock is being put away. The clerk has simply to gather up enough bundles to fill a jar. In the illustration showing this container, which is the regular 10-inch one, you see that it holds 300 roses. These were placed there in just twelve movements, saving much handling in the original operation, to say nothing of the subsequent rehandling. The box shown is 6x14x36 inches and was photographed after an express trip of thirty miles, with truck deliveries at each end. Such boxes will come into the wholesale houses in perfect condition, with not a rose broken from its stem and all the stock as perfect as when cut. This, of course, all takes work and care, but everyone tells me that they would not think of going back to old, slipshod methods, because it pays to live up to the system, and the closer the system is adhered to the better it pays.

Pleasure for Retailer.

We will now go into the retail store and see in what condition the roses reach this destination. It is a pleasure to see the clerks cut the strings on a good bunch of special Radiance roses and loosen them in a vase, much finer roses than when they were first cut from the plant. Let any grower think for a minute of the work and care he has in producing a good rose. Doesn't he owe it to himself to get all out of it that is possible? Put yourself in the retailer's place. Would you, no matter how well a rose had been grown, want to pay the top price for it unless it was perfect? Since I have gone into this question I find that it is possible for the grower of roses to place them in the hands of the retailer in perfect condition. It is done by some—those who do it say it pays—why not by all?

In the next article I will deal with carnations, chrysanthemums and dahlias. Tate.

CARDS FOR CHARGE ACCOUNTS.

At the approach of autumn Samuel Murray is sending out to flower buyers in Kansas City, Mo., a letter with which is enclosed a card to be filled out by persons applying for a charge account. After calling attention to the high standard of service maintained by the store and to the facilities for the telegraph delivery of flowers, the letter says:

> Enclosed find blank card, which we would appreciate your filling out and returning to us for our files, when you would have the advantage of a charge account.
> Conditions under which we open charge accounts for the convenience of our patrons are printed on the back of card enclosed.

The face of the card is ruled to provide for the name in full, residence and business addresses and telephones, place to which bills are to be mailed and references. The back of the card reads:

> In extending credit to our patrons it is done for their convenience.
> All purchases made during the month are due the first of the month following, and settlement is requested not later than the 10th of the month.
> With this understanding we welcome you as a patron and offer you all the facilities of a first-class flower shop. Samuel Murray.

USINGER'S UTTERANCES.

The florists' business in Akron, O., is experiencing somewhat of a boom. Julius Lesnyansky has opened a store on South Main street and there are rumors of a new firm opening a store in the downtown section. The Ward Florists are doubling their store space this season. This firm has been in business less than a year. The Imperial Greenhouses, on Bowery avenue, are being rebuilt and enlarged, and a new store is in the course of construction. D. L. Hollinger, on South avenue, is planning a salesroom facing the street and doubling his working space. And so it seems that the people of Akron will have plenty of opportunities to "Say It with Flowers."

McFarlands have produced some superior specimen cyclamens, the admiration of all visiting florists. Louis McFarland is quite proud of this house of plants and he has a right to be, for never were there more perfect plants.

The Heepe Co., as usual, has a beautiful window. For a few days this week large baskets and bowls filled with gladioli were displayed. The interior of the store, in display and decoration, is a veritable garden of flowers, the furnishings suggesting a place where art dominates.

The North Hill Greenhouses are planning a "better than ever" year. The greenhouses are stocked to capacity and everything is ready for a banner year.

The city of Akron is experiencing a commercial boom this year never before enjoyed, and I am glad to say the florists in general are prepared to enjoy this success. Business never has been better, greenhouses and stores are well stocked and everyone is ready for his share. "Say It with Flowers" will mean more than ever this year.

ALBANY HAS HONOR DAY.

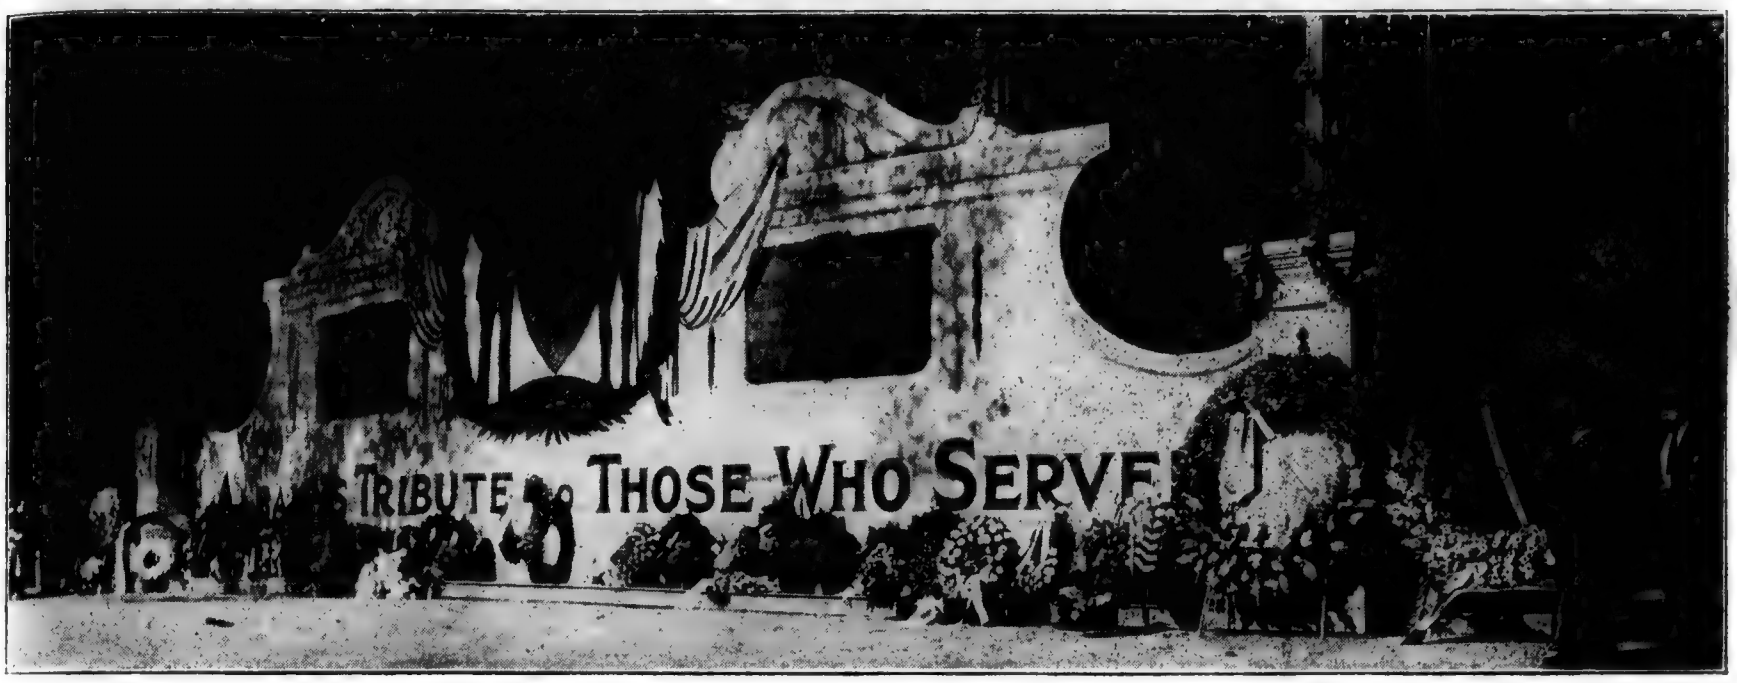
Saturday, September 13, Albany, N. Y., celebrated Honor day, in which the Albany florists played a large part and played it well, as can be seen by the accompanying illustration. The Albany Florists' Club was among the first to place a wreath at the memorial in front of the Capitol, on State street, and for three days there were constantly being brought to the memorial wreaths and flowers as a tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice.

Among the larger pieces were two magnolia wreaths with handsome clusters of Gladiolus America. One of these wreaths was the work of Kurth & Burke, the Broadway Florists; the other wreath was made by Mrs. M. Pfordt, of 897 Broadway. These two wreaths were sent by the people from the north end and were much admired.

The city of Albany, through Mayor James R. Watt and the Honor day committee, placed at the memorial a handsome wreath of magnolia leaves arranged with a large bow of purple ribbon.

Among the large number of orders the Rosery Flower Shop had for the occasion was an American flag made of immortelles, which showed up to good advantage.

F. A. Danker had several orders from the city for wreaths to be placed on columns along State street, which was decorated for several blocks.



W. C. Gloeckner had the order for the wreath placed at the memorial by the city.

In the parade which took place Saturday afternoon was a handsome float arranged with evergreens and flowers donated by the florists and growers of Albany. This float certainly was a big card for the trade, as everyone who saw it expressed praise of it. This float was arranged by F. A. Danker, at his place on Central avenue, with the assistance of Fred Henkes and George Nagengast, and to these men the trade owes many thanks for the display.

A photograph such as that reproduced herewith was displayed on the front page of the Sunday edition of the Knickerbocker Press, one of the leading newspapers of Albany. It shows the memorial with the fine array of wreaths before it on Honor day. H. M.

LAMBERT'S LOCALS.

During the week of September 14, the local garden club of Columbia, Mo., held a decidedly attractive flower show, where many fine specimens of dahlias, asters, cannas and gladioli were exhibited. Prizes were offered by local merchants. The Columbia Floral Co. was especially active in promoting the show.

The Columbia Floral Co., Columbia, Mo., under the management of C. C. Bateman, has had a prosperous season and is planning large improvements and acquiring more land for the purpose of growing perennials more extensively. The greenhouses are in the charge of the veteran grower, J. W. Bernard, who is glad to show visitors through them, pointing with pride to his rose houses and to his mums, which are the latest varieties.

Miss Winnie Nugent, formerly manager of the flower store of the League Estate, at Hannibal, Mo., has opened an elaborate store on Broadway, in the business section of Hannibal. The store is well equipped and decorated in white, with a tile floor. Miss Nugent has the good will of both customers and competitors. Her long career in the florists' trade makes her well qualified to run a store of her own. The style of the new firm will be Hannibal Floral Co. J. A. L.

WATERPROOFING CLOTH.

What preparation can be put on cheesecloth or white cotton cloth for covering frames so as to keep out the rain without shutting out the light?

B. B.—Can.

While it is impossible to treat cloth so that it will not shut out a large amount of light, there are various materials which may be used to render it waterproof without making it opaque.

One of the best may be prepared by heating two parts of linseed oil and one part of rosin until the rosin has melted, and then adding one part of hydrated lime. Stretch the cloth on a frame and while the mixture is still hot apply it with a brush. The use of the lime tends to lessen the obstruction of the light rays and gives the cloth the appearance of parchment. This treatment is particularly satisfactory when the cloth is attached permanently to light frames 3x6 feet. If it is to be used upon a roller or to be merely thrown over the beds, it will be more satisfactory if one part of rosin is used to three parts of oil, and the lime omitted. L. R. T.

ZYGADENUS FOR GARDENS.

The zygadenus, or star-flower, is much less known than it deserves to be. About twenty-five species of this smooth and glaucous perennial have been described; of these one is Siberian, one Japanese and the rest North American. Bailey says that "some of the species are grown in pots, others in the open," and that they are recommended for the wild garden, where they thrive in wet or boggy places. Zygadenus glaberrimus has also been found upon high, dry land, so that it may, like other bog plants, yield readily to cultivation in ordinary garden soil in the south.

The stems of the star-flower rise from a creeping rootstock to a height of about three feet. The leaves are grass-like, channeled and distinctly nerved, and taper to a point. The flower spikes divide into from three to six branches, often carrying twenty-five to fifty flowers and buds, of which from ten to fifteen fresh flowers are usually open at one time. As many as twenty-two flowers have been counted open on one spike. The flowers are white, with a greenish tinge and with two small, brownish green spots at the base of each of the six points of the 1¼-inch to 1½-inch star.

Zygadenus glaberrimus is a good keeper, lasting a week as a cut flower. The demand for it seems so certain to increase that L. H. Read & Co., Deer Park, Ala., are planning to set out several thousands of these plants to have them convenient for cutting. This firm has already been selling them to florists in southern Alabama for some time.

STRANGE BUG AT LARGE

Can you tell me which is the better time to plant hardy shrubs, in the spring or fall? Also when to plant roses and clematis?

I should like to know the name of a certain bug and how to get rid of it. In the daytime the bug hides in dark, damp places, usually under flats or boxes. It is about three inches long and one-half to three-fourths of an inch in diameter (full-grown); it crawls around in the early part of the night, and when crawling is from six to eight inches long. It has two horns on top of the head. As soon as it spies someone it draws up and lies perfectly quiet. It ruins seedlings and young plants. Some think it is a sort of leach. M. J. W.—Ind.

Which time is better to plant roses, shrubs and clematis is a question that is governed to a great extent by soil and location. If the ground is heavy clay soil that is not well drained, then spring planting is best. But when the soil is well drained and the autumn is dry, and if after planting the plants are given a mulch of well rotted manure and watered if necessary, then planting in the fall is as satisfactory as in the spring. It also depends greatly on the size of the stock under consideration. Strong 3-year-old plants will stand planting in the fall better than the smaller 1-year-old stock.

The writer has not had any experience with the bug or worm described, but would advise trying the bait used for destroying cutworms, which is as follows: Make a mixture of fresh bran or oatmeal, moisten it with water, add enough Paris green to just color it, then put small portions, on pieces of boards or cabbage leaves, in the places where the worms are working. SYRACUSE SESSION

NEW YORK FEDERATION MEETS.

Discusses Building Campaign.

The New York Federation of Horticultural Societies and Floral Clubs held its annual meeting at the state fair at Syracuse Wednesday afternoon, September 10. The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock, with President F. R. Pierson presiding. Eighteen delegates were present from the affiliated organizations. President Pierson spoke of the three projects in which the federation is especially interested at this time, viz., the erection of a horticultural building at the state fair grounds, Syracuse; the erection of investigational greenhouses for the department of floriculture at Cornell University, and Quarantine No. 37. In regard to Quarantine No. 37, President Pierson stated that the organization had already gone on record as in opposition to this quarantine, and therefore it was unnecessary to discuss it further. In regard to the horticultural building, he thought that the time was ripe and he outlined the general policy which should be adopted in the campaign for the building. He was certain that the building would come in the near future.

A resolution was passed urging the necessity of an immediate consideration of a horticultural building, and a committee consisting of D. Lumsden, Ithaca, chairman; Dr. Erl Bates, Syracuse; Madison Cooper, Calcium; F. A. Danker, Albany, and Arthur Cowee, Berlin, was appointed to confer with the state architect regarding plans for the building.

The College of Agriculture.

Dean A. R. Mann was present at the meeting and outlined the policy of the College of Agriculture in regard to the completion of the college buildings. He stated that in this program one of the first items was the range of greenhouses for investigation in floriculture. It was his opinion that the trustees would approve of a bill for this range, and when it was introduced the federation should use every effort possible to secure the appropriation. Dean Mann stated that there should be frank expression of opinion from the commercial interests regarding the ways in which the college could best serve them, for the college existed to be of service to the people of the state.

New Rose Societies.

Dr. E. M. Mills, of Syracuse, chairman of the committee to encourage organization of amateur rose societies, reported that Rochester now has a decidedly active organization. At the first meeting fifty-one members were present, and he understood there are now 105 members. Buffalo and Elmira are also considering the organization of societies. He hoped Utica and Albany would soon come into line. He reported a live organization in Auburn. It was moved and carried that the secretary write to the secretaries of the Auburn Rose Society and the Rochester Rose Society asking them to become members of the federation. It was also moved and carried that the arrangements for a meeting of the federation with an affiliated society should be left with the secretary.

It was moved and carried that a committee of three be appointed to confer with Prof. Lumsden in regard to changes in the premium list of the New York state fair. F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown; E. A. Slattery, Buffalo, and J. Prouty, Baldwinsville, were appointed on this committee.

Closer Affiliation.

The opinion was expressed that there should be a closer relationship between the affiliated organizations, and in order to bring this about it was moved that notice be given that at the next annual meeting the constitution would be changed to provide for an executive committee, the personnel of which should be composed of the presidents of the affiliated organizations. In view of the necessity for such a committee at the present time, the president named a special executive committee to consist of the presidents of the various affiliated organizations.

The following officers were elected: President, F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown; first vice-president, Dr. Erl Bates, Syracuse; second vice-president, Charles Vick, Rochester; third vice-president, Hugh McCarthy, Syracuse; fourth vice-president, F. A. Danker, Albany; fifth vice-president, W. H. Workman, Oswego; treasurer, W. A. Adams, Buffalo; secretary, E. A. White, Ithaca.

E. A. White, Sec'y.

CLEANING GREENHOUSE GLASS.

We have leased a range of greenhouses which stood idle for several years, about half a mile from a cement mill. There has enough cement and other dirt accumulated on the glass to cause a heavy shade. What can we use to remove the coating and make the glass clear again? W. F. C.—Ind.

The basis of most formulas for glass-cleaning compounds is hydrofluoric acid. It is diluted with water. Care must be taken, first in the handling and, secondly, as to the strength. The operator must use good rubber gloves. If the acid is too strong the glass cleansed with it will look like frosted glass and will be ruined for greenhouse purposes. The safest way is to dilute the acid, which can be obtained through any wholesale drug house, with about twenty times as much water; say, twenty gallons of water to one gallon of acid. Then try it on just one or two panes of the glass. If there is any of the frosted effect, dilute the acid still further. The frost will not appear until after the glass is dry.

A popular glass cleaner is the Daylite glass cleaner, sold by practically all the seed stores and supply houses.

THE QUESTION.

The question today, asked by the man who wants to buy a protective paint, is a double one: "What has the paint done, and what will it cost per year of service?" He is looking for service, not first cost, and he wants to know the record and reputation back of the statement. The man who buys the right paint and has it applied properly, imposes no burden on his pocketbook and receives the maximum service at the least expense.

Geraniums

GERANIUMS FOR MAY.

Will you tell me when is the best time to make geranium cuttings in order to have them in bloom on May 30? Also what is the best temperature for them?

N. B.—Mich.

The time to make geranium cuttings in order to have plants in bloom by May 30 depends upon the method of handling the stock plants. From now until frost cuts the plants down is the best time for making cuttings. The bulk of cuttings from the stock plants now growing outdoors should be taken late in September. These early cuttings make the largest plants for spring sales. The stock plants can be lifted and planted in a greenhouse bench and cuttings made from them up to March 1. This will bring the plants in bloom for May 30. The later cuttings will be small, but they can be grown into good dwarf stock if given careful treatment and a temperature of 50 to 52 degrees at night and 56 degrees in the daytime. The best plan to follow with cuttings made at this time of the year is to pot them directly into 2¼-inch pots, using a light, sandy soil and setting them on a partially shaded greenhouse shelf. Another good plan to follow is to fill an ordinary flat, such as is used for transplanting seedlings, about one-half full of light soil and on top of this place some clean sharp sand. Place the cuttings in rows, pressing down the sand firmly around them, water well and set on a shelf. After the first watering the sand should be allowed to become moderately dry before watering again. The best place for the later cuttings is in the sand of a propagating bench. During the winter time geranium cuttings require a sand temperature of 56 to 60 degrees to root them successfully, with the sand kept a little on the dry side.

TOLEDO TRIES SUNDAY CLOSING

ATTENTION is closely fixed by the trade in Toledo on the Sunday closing movement. This was inaugurated last June and worked well through the summer. Now that autumn business has begun again and sales are on the increase, disturbances have arisen that threaten the success of the new regime. Press of business or desire for more has caused defection in the ranks of those who were party to the agreement last June. That this backsliding may prove infectious among those not so thoroughly convinced that closing does not deprive them of a certain number of sales is feared by members of the trade who do not wish to return to the old ways under any circumstances.

The present is a critical time. Whether the standard set will be adhered to when business presses, or whether the rush of trade will cause the revocation of the June agreement, is the question of the hour in Toledo.

Sunday closing was started in Toledo June 8. It was agreed to close at all times with the exception of the occasions when Easter, Mothers' day, Christmas and other holidays should fall on Sunday. This was the only exception.

The June Agreement.

At the meeting held at the store of S. N. Peck June 3, attended by about ninety per cent of the retail florists of Toledo, it was unanimously decided that closing should go into effect the following Sunday and the order should hold good from that day on. The florists deliberated on this question for some time and it was the general opinion of those present that this idea could be carried out finely.

Everyone present signed an agreement to this effect. The next step was the appropriation of a large fund to sufficiently advertise the closing so that everyone in the city would learn of it and to give them warning to order their Sunday flowers in good time. It was agreed that deliveries would be made as late as possible on Saturday nights, so that all orders would be properly taken care of.

As time went by, the florists began to realize more and more the benefits of the movement for the betterment of working conditions for the employees as well as the employers. All the florists of Toledo were enthusiastic about Sunday closing and had no doubts as to its success until the approach of autumn and the consequent climbing of sales endangered the unity of the trade.

In commenting upon the difficulty which has sprung up with the advent of autumn business George B. Schramm said: "The Toledo Florists' Club has encountered a little trouble during the last week, which threatens to undo all the work thus far accomplished. There are several of the flower shops opening again on Sunday, because their desire to reap a few dollars on Sunday is so great that they cannot refrain from opening their stores, compelling their employees to come back to work on Sunday and making life miserable again to some extent for those connected with the trade. There is a rumor current about town that if a few more stores open, all the downtown flower stores will throw their doors open again. Then almost every flower store will be open once more.

Leading Stores Will Remain Shut.

"Let me state here, however, with all the pride of which such a movement is deserving, that Toledo's best florists, those who possess fine ideals and know that the shroud has no pockets, are still closed and are determined to stay closed, regardless of the fact that a few who signed their names to an agreement to stay closed forever are among the first to break this contract and to open their stores again.

Movement General.

"This Sunday closing order in the florists' trade has had a much greater effect on the public than it would if this same movement were started in another city, in view of the fact that there is in progress a movement all over the city for early closing. All stores in the business district are closing at 6 o'clock on Saturday evenings, and it is almost safe to say that the drug store is the only business place open after that hour. With this movement in progress in Toledo, it surely behooves the florists to close their doors for at least one day a week, on Sunday, and not to wish to be open at all hours the week long just because someone might come along looking for a bouquet of flowers or some such insignificant order.

"A certain New York agent in visiting Toledo congratulated the florists of this city on the excellent start we have made and said that he felt that within the course of a year or so every flower store in the United States would be closed on Sunday. He added that the flower stores had been classed with fruit stands and shoe-shining parlors long enough and that it was about time that we informed the public that flower stores were of a better class.

"The trade throughout the country should devote a large share of its energy to the closing of all flower shops on Sunday for the betterment of the employers and employees and of the trade itself. In endeavoring to get more young blood interested in the trade, we find that the younger generation is taking a dislike to it because of the too long hours. I, and also the Toledo Florists' Club at large, would greatly appreciate comment on this Sunday closing idea, from men who are important factors in the florists' trade throughout the country. Let's end the idea of working all day and all night and Sundays into the bargain, and start a nation-wide movement to close all flower stores on Sunday."

No Business Lost.

Actual experience has shown the florists of Toledo that no loss in business is suffered by closing on Sunday. The public quickly becomes used to ordering on Saturday the flowers it actually wishes for Sunday. The chance orders—the purchases that come from the whim of the moment—are, cold calculation proves, few and of slight importance. Of the condition of business while Sunday closing was practiced, Frank M. Schramm said:

"In June twenty-six Toledo florists pledged themselves to close their shops on Sunday throughout the year. Up to this time we have not been able to note any corresponding decrease in business. August, in which there were fewer deaths than for many years, made a fine increase. There is no doubt in my mind that if the florists will stick to their word and give the plan time to work out until the public is educated, business will not suffer one iota.

"It certainly is time that florists classed themselves as real business men, not as mere slaves of the public's whim; as merchants, not as drudges who must be on the job day and night to the detriment of sane American family and social life, merely to make a few dollars. Now is the time to demonstrate whether florists are going to live in the customs of the past or whether they are going to take their place among

TYPICAL TROUBLE.

In putting their agreement to close on Sunday to the test the florists of Toledo are encountering the obstacle that impedes trade movements for the better every year and in every city. A few florists will not close on Sunday; because these few do not, others believe they cannot afford to, and soon there is danger of the few ruling the actions of the many. But strong cooperation by the many, with steadfast perseverance and continued appeal to the public, will win this and other betterments for the trade.

the enlightened and progressive business men of the country. If this movement fails in Toledo now, it will be a bad setback."

Florists all over the country will follow the progress of the Sunday closing movement in Toledo with interest. What is accomplished there will be regarded by the trade in other cities as indicating what can be accomplished by them. If Toledo is successful, and no one is so pessimistic as to doubt it deeply, Sunday closing will be quickly established in other cities.

HOOSIER OUTING

INDIANA FLORISTS GO VISITING.

First to Crawfordsville.

One of the most enjoyable meetings of the year for the Indiana State Florists' Association was held Tuesday, September 16, at Crawfordsville, Ind.

Arriving at Crawfordsville, the crowd gathered at the store of McDonald & Co. The name of this store has not been changed, although it is owned and managed by Arno H. Nehrling. Here there was a splendid exhibit of gladioli and of Columbia, Ophelia and Hoosier Beauty roses. The greenhouses, about a mile north of town, were also visited, and the excellent condition of his range was noted. The carnations looked especially promising and, as one of the guests said, "you could almost see the profits there in the benches."

The Lew Wallace Museum.

Before leaving Crawfordsville, a visit was made to General Lew Wallace's museum. Since he was a Hoosier product and had been a resident of the capital city for many years, the name and belongings of this noted man were especially attractive to the visitors. In a city block surrounded by a garden wall is this museum, which is filled with the treasures of the author of "Ben-Hur." His books, manuscripts and letters received during his life are here in the library section, while his various valuables and trophies fill the rest of the building. His violin, harness, saddles, war equipment and photographs were in the latter exhibit.

Leaving Crawfordsville in fourteen automobiles decorated with signs, "State Florists' Outing to Turkey Run," they motored twenty-two miles to Frank Hasselman's farm, at Deer Mill, where an excellent chicken dinner was served. Needless to say, "justice was done" this dinner! Mr. Hasselman escorted his guests around his delightfully picturesque grounds. He has 500 acres, and running through them is what is called the "Devil's Backbone." This is a ridge eighty feet high and five feet wide of massed stone, which connects two hills. Mr. Hasselman also has a fine private collection of fowls and animals, which are usually exhibited at the state fair. Among these are pheasants, ducks, Canadian geese, fox, raccoons, skunks and badgers. The host was formerly manager of the Indianapolis Flower & Plant Co., which is now managed by his father, Watson Hasselman.

A Bit of Business.

A short meeting, in which little business was done, was held before leaving for Turkey Run. The committee for the fall flower show gave a report. The Purdue experimental committee also gave its report. On this latter committee are Joseph Hill, A. F. J. Baur, Fred Dorner, Anders Rasmussen and John Hartje. Since the war they have been directing their attention to investigating the control of aster blight and the cause of sweet peas dropping their buds under glass in cloudy weather. Prof. R. A. Browne, of Purdue University, was mentioned for membership. President Rasmussen was not at the meeting, as he was recently married and has gone on an extended automobile tour. The association voted him a wedding present and instructed the secretary to attend to its purchase and to write him a letter of congratulation. A standing vote of thanks was given to Frank Hasselman, Arno Nehrling and the others who had been instrumental in planning such a delightful expedition.

At Turkey Run.

For those who had never been at Turkey Run the trip was a revelation, and for those who had been there it was a renewal of a delightful acquaintance. This is one of the most beautiful and picturesque spots in Indiana, or even in all the central west. When the owner, who had been hoarding it for years, died, the land was put up for public auction. Not a single tree had ever been cut, and the timber was exceedingly valuable. Bids ran high. The ground was sold to a large lumber company, but protests by the public were so great that part of it was resold to the state for a reservation. The land is in its natural beauty. Sugar creek runs through it, and on either side are wonderful trees and shrubs, and acres and acres of rare and unspoiled scenery.

CARNATIONS

CARNATIONS IN MUCK SOIL.

Could carnations be grown in black muck soil? It never packs hard, drains well and is quite rich. Cabbage grows well in it. It is the handiest soil I can get. This soil has never been cultivated, yet it is not a really low, wet muck.

O. C. S.—Ohio.

There is no reason why you should not grow good carnations in this soil if it drains well. The fact that it does not pack hard should indicate that there is enough sand in it to give drainage. While carnations prefer a medium loam with a trace of sand, they can be grown successfully in a wide range of soil, so long as ample drainage is provided. The greatest difference comes in the watering, which must be gauged according to the texture of the soil. A heavy soil will retain water more than a light, sandy soil and must be watched more closely for that reason, while an excessively light soil must be watched for drying out. You will soon learn what is needed. If this soil is a trifle heavy, you will probably prefer stable manure, while cattle manure will give best results in a light soil. A. F. J. B.

CARNATION PESTS.

We are bothered with grubs and red worms in our carnation beds and throughout the greenhouses. Is there anything that will kill the worms without injuring the plants? If so, please tell us how to apply it.

A. F. C.—Ala.

The inquirer does not state whether the grub he refers to is the white grub that attacks the roots of the plants or the cut-worm which attacks the stems and buds of the plants.

The best means of getting rid of white grubs in the soil of greenhouse benches is to make the surface of the soil as smooth and even as possible by pressing it down with a board, and then when the grub works through the soil to the plant, it will make a slight crack in the surface so that it can easily be traced and destroyed.

Cut-worms work on the plants at night, going down in the day time to hide under the surface of the soil at the base of the plants. When a plant shows signs of being eaten by cut-worms, the worm can generally be found by scratching away a little of the surface soil around the plants.

We usually have considerable trouble with the cut-worms working on our freshly planted carnation plants, but by keeping a close watch and following out the above plan it does not take us long to get rid of the pest.

I presume the red worms referred to are the ordinary earth worms. The best means to clean them out of the soil of a greenhouse bench is to scatter a fine dressing of fresh air-slaked lime over the surface of the bed and thoroughly water it in. This will make the worms come to the surface and die. Do not use the lime to excess; it will be better to repeat again in a short while. All that is necessary is a slight dressing of finely prepared lime.

Scotch-soot used as a fine dressing over the surface of the soil is also good for ridding the beds of earth-worms.

TOLEDO, O.

The Market.

While a slight improvement in the demand for cut flowers was noticeable last week, the supply continued to be far beyond requirements and clearances were difficult.

Weather last week was experienced in variety, with temperature ranging from 65 degrees to 80 degrees and more, with a severe wind storm, which caused some damage around town, and several heavy rain storms.

Asters are exceptionally plentiful, but the quality is not what one would like to see. The weather is showing its effects on the blooms and the long stems seem to be disappearing fast.

Roses have been exceptionally fine. There have been some fine cuts of Russell, Premier, Columbia, Milady and Ophelia on the market and there is a good demand for the longer-stemmed varieties.

Gladioli are on the decline and good stock is hard to get. Rubrum lilies are in fine cut at present and in excellent color. Among the more common flowers in season at present are zinnias, gaillardias, dahlias and delphinium.

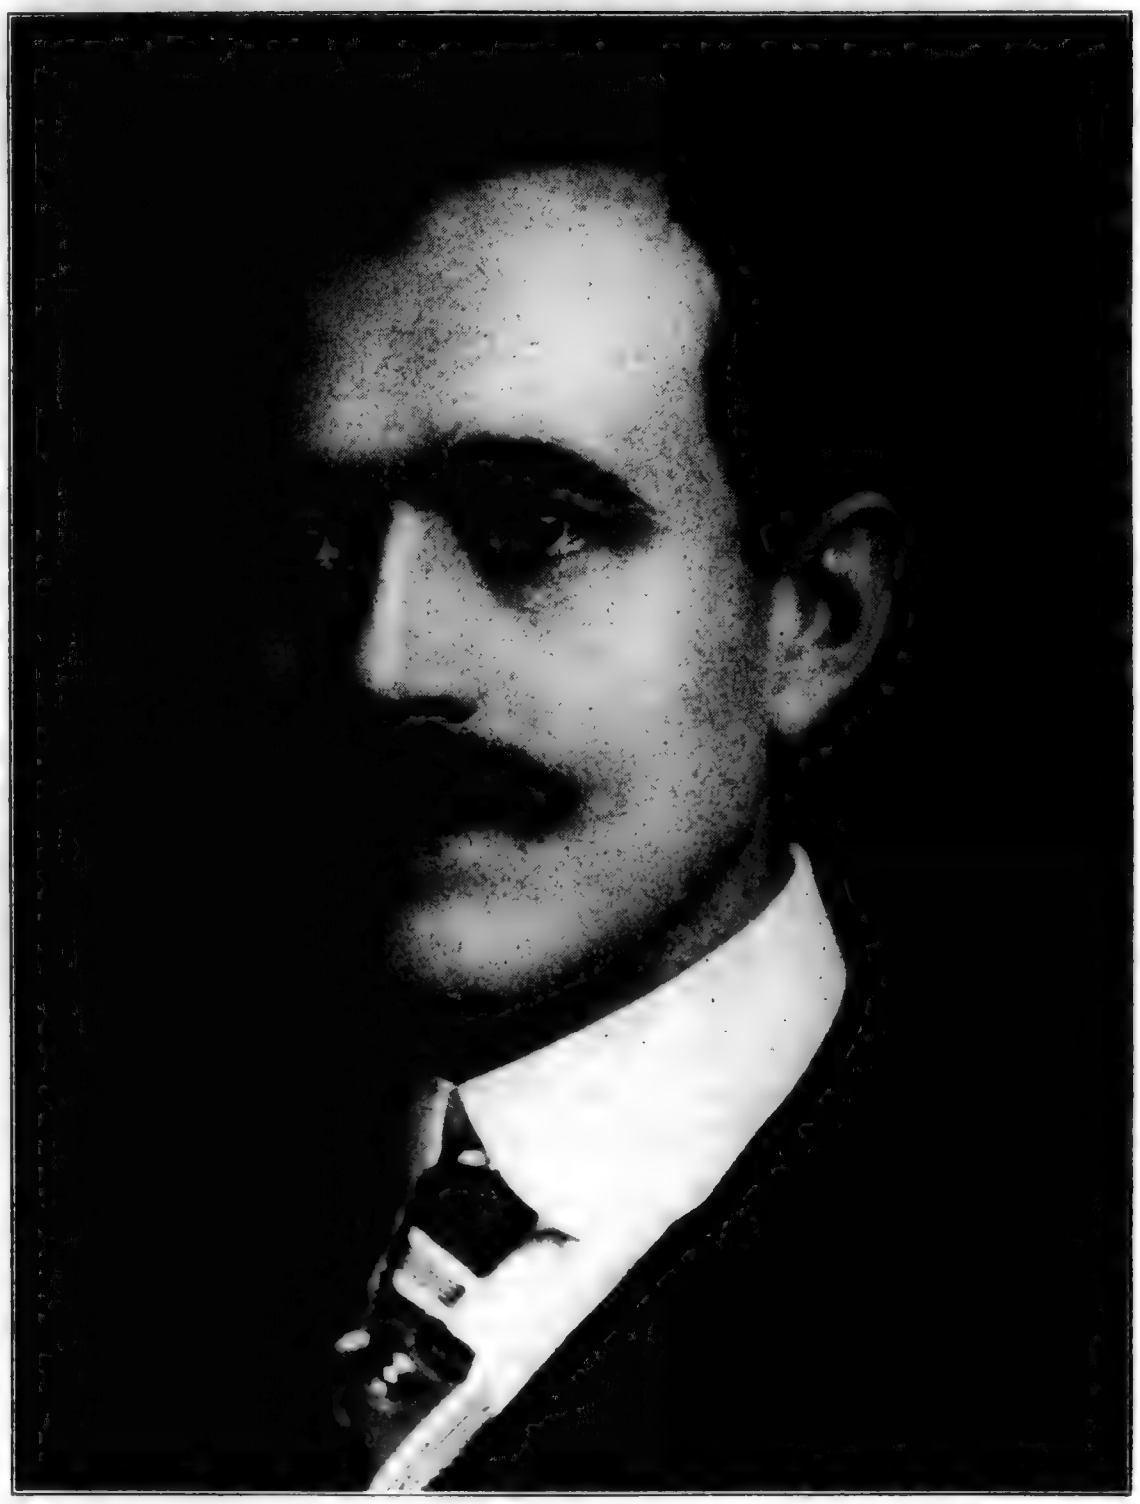
Various Notes.

J. L. Schiller has built a house, 44x132, especially for the production of Primula obconica seed. Orders for primroses are heavier and earlier than usual, at prices slightly higher than a year ago. Mr. Schiller has sown 150,000 cyclamen seed. Of primroses there will be no increase; 300,000 will be grown. Hydrangeas will be increased to 75,000 if labor conditions are favorable.

Harry Heinl has planted almost his whole place in carnations, which are looking fine.

Geo. Bayer & Sons have housed their chrysanthemums. They are growing mostly Major Bonnaffon. They have some fine Prospect.

Otto Krueger has opened his new wholesale and retail store and conservatory on East Broadway. He is cutting fine asters at his Sylvania farm.



Roses and sweet peas at the Wm. Krueger range are coming along in fine shape.

Hirzel Bros. are busy with construction work. They are adding two houses.

Coal is stored in larger quantities than usual at most of the ranges.

Mrs. J. B. Freeman reports business good and says she looks forward to an excellent winter.

WHO'S WHO IN THE TRADE—AND WHY

GILBERT P. WEAKLEN.

ALTHOUGH the son of a farmer, Gilbert P. Weaklen, born in Cambria, Pa., did not inherit a liking for the soil, but found greater attraction in retail selling, beginning in a country store at the early age of 14. After eight years of that, the lure of the city proved too great and he packed his grip for Pittsburgh. Still following retail selling, he found employment in one of the department stores, where he remained a year. Making use of this experience, Mr. Weaklen entered the employ of one of the largest flower shops in Pittsburgh, of which he eventually became manager. After a number of years with Randolph & McClements he resigned in 1910 and opened his own store, at 130 South Highland avenue. The style of the firm was G. P. Weaklen & Co. In 1917 he purchased from the Landscape Floral Co. the property of six and one-half acres at Springdale for $21,000. The sale included ten greenhouses, a dwelling and other buildings and all the stock on the place. Mr. Weaklen is secretary of the Retail Florists' Association of Pittsburgh and active in all affairs pertaining to the trade in that city.

St. Catharines, Ont.—Robert L. Dunn is up-to-date. The top line on his business card is "Say It with Flowers" and the lower one is "Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery."

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

CHRYSANTHEMUM SOCIETY.

Examining Committees.

President William W. Vert has announced the committees to examine new chrysanthemums for the ensuing year as follows:

Boston—William Nicholson, chairman; James Wheeler, Alexander Montgomery. Ship flowers to the chairman, care of W. J. Thurston, manager, Boston Flower Exchange, 1 Winthrop square and Otis street, Boston, Mass.

New York—Eugene Dailledouze, chairman; William H. Duckham, A. Herrington. Ship flowers to the New York Cut Flower Co., 55 Twenty-second street, New York, care of the chairman.

Philadelphia—A. B. Cartledge, chairman; John Westcott, S. S. Pennock. Ship flowers to A. B. Cartledge, 1514 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Cincinnati—R. Witterstaetter, chairman; James Allen, J. C. Murphy. Ship flowers to the chairman, Jabez Elliott Flower Market, care of the janitor.

Chicago—N. J. Wietor, chairman; E. A. Kanst, Thomas W. Head. Ship flowers to the chairman, 162 North Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Shipments should be made to arrive by 2 p. m. on examination days to receive attention from the committee. They must be prepaid to their destination, and an entry fee of $2 should be forwarded to the secretary, Charles W. Johnson, 2242 West One Hundred and Ninth street, Chicago, not later than Tuesday of the week in which they are to be examined, or it may accompany the blooms.

Both seedlings and sports are eligible to be shown before these committees, provided the raiser has given them two years' trial to determine their true character; not less than six blooms of each variety are to be shown. Special attention is called to the rule that sports to receive a certificate must pass at least three of the five committees.

The committees will be in session to examine such exhibits as may be submitted on each Saturday during October and November, the dates of which will be October 4, 11, 18, 25, and November 1, 8, 15, 22, 29.

Chas. W. Johnson, Sec'y.

MUM BORERS AND ARMY WORMS.

We are having trouble with our chrysanthemums. They are being grown in rich loam; this is the third year in this soil. The first year they did exceedingly well. Last year a good deal of wood ashes was dug into the soil, and a few plants wilted. This year no more ashes were added; once during the summer the plants were mulched with cow manure, but they have received no other feeding. They have made a vigorous growth and I never saw finer-looking plants, but now for several weeks a plant here and there has wilted and died, including some of the finest plants. One plant will die and the one next to it will not be affected. No insects can be found. The roots when cut open seem to be decaying. We have had a dry summer, and no water has been given to the plants. J. B. A.—N. C.

While it is not advisable to plant chrysanthemums or any other crop of similar character in the same soil year after year, still the treatment has apparently in all respects been correct.

I am inclined to think the trouble is due to one of the borers. Some years ago we received letters from all parts of the country relative to an insect which punctured the stem of the chrysanthemums; the resulting larvæ ate their way up the stem to the top, causing the flower to fall over, and then ate down the stem into the principal roots, ultimately killing the plant entirely. I am inclined to think this is the trouble with your plants. If this is the case, you can probably, by looking carefully up and down the stem, find the hole or point of entrance. Nothing can be done this year, but another year the plants should be moved to new soil. Another trouble which causes mum plants to die comes from the army worm, which "rings" the plant just below the ground line, but the army worm as a rule stays in the plot and works from one plant to another and is therefore comparatively easy to detect. Plants will occasionly die off when badly infected with leaf-spot or septoria, but since these plants are all fine-looking stock, it is hardly probable that they are thus affected. C. H. Totty.

CLEVELAND CHERRY.

Will you please tell me what the Cleveland cherry needs in the way of cutting back or pinching, to make nice plants? J. T. T.—Ind.

Cleveland cherry, or Orange Queen, needs no pinching whatever if not planted too closely, if you have the true variety. To keep the true strain from seed, one must be careful in selection, as cherries pollenize easily and freely. Therefore it is hard to keep true. We have as yet been unable to get it to come over seventy-five per cent true ourselves. This is the reason we offer no seed. Carl Hagenburger.

OPEN LETTERS from READERS

MOBILE IN THE VAN.

The many interesting articles appearing in The Review recently, and especially the article in the issue for September 11 regarding the Sunday closing of all florists' establishments, should meet with a national response, as there can be no argument to the contrary.

In line with that subject we wish to state that all the florists of Mobile, Ala., decided to close their places of business on Sundays beginning June 1, 1919, and through a petition to the commissioners of our good city by the undertakers and cemetery attendants a law goes into effect October 1 prohibiting burials on Sunday with the exception of those whose religious belief does not permit Saturday burials. So we feel that we have established a precedent in this part of the country and with the proper coöperation we hope to see the cause growing in popularity more and more each day.

LABOR AND PRODUCTION.

Business has been good this season, but would have been much better had it been possible to secure sufficient experienced help. There has been demand for all that could be produced and many orders could not be accepted.

Preparations for next year have been made, but whether we go ahead with them depends entirely on the labor question. If this is the same as this year, production will not be increased, but rather reduced. However, should it be possible to secure sufficient help with experience, there will be more grown of everything.

Profits have not been of the same percentage as last year in my own business, as we did not increase our prices enough to balance the increase in labor and overhead. We considered prices high enough, but it will not go for another year.

However, we should be satisfied on the whole and consider ourselves fortunate under existing conditions, since many other lines of business are worse off than we are. J. L. Schiller.

BEG YOUR PARDON.

I appreciate the honor of appearing under "Who's Who in the Trade and Why," but wish to make one or two corrections in the information which The Review received. The main one is in regard to my being wounded. In honor to those who suffered and never will come back, I must deny that distinction. I did spend eight weeks in the hospital, on account of an operation, due to work in the line of duty, but I never received any wounds in action against the enemy. And my connection with Mr. Hoover, in food relief work, did not commence until May of this year, when I received my discharge in France. I helped in food relief in the devastated countries in Europe through the American relief administration until that work was nearing completion, returning home in August, on the Patria from Marseilles. William Usinger.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

Executive Committee Meets.

The executive committee of the American Rose Society held a meeting at the City Club, New York city, September 17. F. L. Atkins, chairman of the committee to outline a policy in regard to the establishment of rose test gardens, made a preliminary report. It was the opinion of the committee that the official rose test gardens should be established only in certain climatic zones. The Department of Agriculture at Washington is working on a zonal map of these sections. It was also the opinion of the committee that the American Rose Society should recognize any show gardens in public parks or public gardens, provided they are kept to a certain standard of excellence.

Dr. Van Fleet's Seedlings.

S. S. Pennock, chairman of the committee appointed at the last meeting to formulate a plan for the dissemination of Dr. Van Fleet's seedlings, made a report of progress. He read a letter from Prof. L. C. Corbett, of the United States Department of Agriculture, proposing such a plan.

It was voted to instruct the committee to arrange with the authorities of the Department of Agriculture at Washington for the testing of Dr. Van Fleet's seedlings in all the official rose test gardens of the society with a view to future dissemination.

Committees Appointed.

The following committees were named by President Pyle and confirmed by the executive committee:

Central committee of the rose test gardens—J. S. Huss, Hartford, Conn.; Dr. A. C. Beal, Ithaca, N. Y.; Theodore Wirth, Minneapolis, Minn.; J. A. Currey, Portland, Ore.; Charles E. F. Gersdorff, Washington, D. C.; Prof. N. M. McGinnis, College Station, Tex.

Arlington rose test garden, Washington, D. C.—Charles E. F. Gersdorff, Washington; A. P. Greeley, Washington; Miss Carrie Harrison, Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Hartford rose test garden, Hartford, Conn.—J. F. Huss, Hartford; George A. Parker, Hartford; Alexander Cumming, Jr., Cromwell, Conn.

Cornell rose test garden, Ithaca, N. Y.—Dr. A. C. Beal, Ithaca; D. E. Griffin Lewis, Syracuse; Charles G. Adams, Auburn.

Portland rose test garden, Portland, Ore.—J. A. Currey, A. J. Clark and Alfred Tucker, Portland, Ore.

Rose registration—Robert Simpson, Clifton, N. J.; W. R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; George H. Peterson, Fair Lawn, N. J.

It was moved and carried that a committee be appointed to foster in every way the cut flower rose interests. The following committee was named and confirmed: W. R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; Harry O. May, Summit, N. J.; S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia; Max Schling, New York city; Henry Penn, Boston.

The report of the committee on rules and regulations governing the exhibition of garden roses was adopted.

E. A. White, Sec'y.

MILDEW ON ROSE SHOOTS.

I am sending you an infected rose shoot. What is the matter with it and what methods should be used to control the disease? E. T. T.—Ky.

The rose shoot is badly covered with mildew. The best means for its control is to dust the plants with sulphur and then to maintain a dry atmosphere in the house for two or three days in order that the sulphur may have a chance to dry up the mildew. Pay strict attention to the proper regulation of the ventilating and heating of the houses and practice common sense methods as regards watering and syringing the plants. Above all, do not allow the plants under any consideration to become wet from syringing or in any other way when the time comes for lowering the ventilators in the afternoon. If the plants are growing in the open ground, spray them with Bordeaux mixture.

M. P.

THRIPS ON ROSES.

I have some thrips on my Ophelia and Columbia roses and would like to know the best remedy for this, and when and how often to use it. E. C.—Mich.

Thrips can be readily cleaned out by the use of one of the standard nicotine preparations. These are effective if used according to the directions on the package. In the summer many growers apply them as a spray, the point being to use enough force from a fine nozzle to get a mist to reach every part of the house. When there is heat in the steam pipes, the common method is to vaporize the nicotine by burning on the hot pipes. This method has almost entirely replaced the burning of tobacco stems.

H. O.

CYCLAMEN SEEDS ROT.

Can you give me information on how to take care of cyclamen plants intended for seeds? They generally rot before the seed is ripe. J. F. V.—Pa.

I treat the cyclamen plants for seed the same as any other cyclamen plants, The reason the seeds rot before ripening is because evidently the plants are kept too wet or too dry. Keeping them in too warm a house will also have this effect. I know of no other reason why the seed should rot before maturing.

J. A. P.

Napoleon, O.—Fred J. Fisk is planning to open a retail store here about November 1.

Washington, D. C.—John E. Turner, formerly with the Iowa State College greenhouses, Ames, Ia., is now at Takoma Park.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—W. J. Baker, of Baker Bros., Fort Worth, Tex., was a visitor September 18, at the store of the Stiles Floral Co. He was on his way to Chicago.

Winfield, Kan.—A half interest in the Vaughan Flower Shop has been purchased by H. L. Cain, in association with N. Dugan, both formerly of Wichita. Mr. Cain will have charge of the growing end of the new business, which is being taken over at once.

Carrollton, O.—Frank B. Roudebush recently bought a greenhouse in Cleveland and moved it to this city. He is planning to build to his present house, 18x80 feet, an addition of 30x80 feet and next year another, 30x100. He is also building an addition to his office building, making it large enough to serve as a dwelling for himself and his family. It will be heated from the boiler which heats the greenhouse.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—George A. Stiles had the pleasure of entertaining Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Berning September 16. They were en route to Texas and California.

Pleasant Hill, Mo.—William Day, formerly with J. F. Wilcox & Sons, Council Bluffs, Ia., and now in charge of the pot department of the Pinehurst Floral Co., is recovering from typhoid fever.

Evergreen, Ala.—The evergreen business of Geo. M. Carter has been transferred to the Ashley Floral Co., following the death of Mr. Carter some months ago. One of the firm of the Ashley Floral Co. had worked with Geo. M. Carter for twenty years.

Mount Clemens, Mich.—The concern sometimes referred to as the Mount Clemens Bulb Co. in reality is the United Bulb Co., there being no company here by the former title. Th. de Groot is general manager of the United Bulb Co., and P. Vos is assistant manager. Others interested are K. Velthuys and Ross L. Holloway. The company specializes in gladiolus bulbs and its display of cut flowers was one of the features of the recent fair in Detroit.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

Toward the end of last week the market took quite a jump; there was a large demand, but for only the best stock. There was the usual supply of poor and average stock, but the market is beginning to take on a different tone. Vacations are over and, while business has not yet reached anything like normal, a hint of winter business is to be seen in the stock purchased.

Roses are fast coming into good shape and the outlook for the season is good. Never has the rose crop, as far as I have seen, looked more promising. One thing hard to understand is why growers will persist in growing single White Killarney. Last week I saw thousands of this variety go to the street men and was told that the retailers would not have it at any price. Good pink roses were especially scarce at the end of the week.

Miscellaneous stock of all sorts was plentiful. The gladiolus glut is now over, yet there were enough of these to take care of the demand.

Various Notes.

On a recent visit to the range of Stevenson Bros. I found it looking better than ever. Columbia, Premier, Killarney, Shawyer, Richmond and Ophelia are there in all their glory. This firm has its usual house of Sweetheart and Ward. Never have I seen a cleaner or healthier range of roses for the beginning of the season; 2,500 Columbia were especially noticeable; the foliage is wonderful. Another thing bound to attract the attention of a visitor is a house of Ophelia. The house was just ready to break into full bloom, and what a crop they will have! This will make the fifth year for this house and there is no doubt about its being a wonder. Something I saw out there may be of use to someone else; they were glazing the side of one of their roofs with Permanite, the regular Permanite gun being used for putting it on, and the point I wish to call attention to is the mode of handling the guns. An old runabout wagon, long since discarded, was used to haul the barrels; two men were at work on the roof and a boy on the ground was filling the guns. I have seen lots of glazing done, but this beat anything I have ever seen for speed. As I stood and admired the system, Edward Stevenson told me that he thought he knew something that would go this one better, if he had much glazing to do. As I have never seen this idea advertised, it may be a tip for the manufacturer. Ed says there is no good reason why pressure could not be put on the barrel and the Permanite forced through a half-inch hose direct to the roof, and he feels sure an automobile pump would furnish the pressure. For a large range, or even a house, this would be a time-saving expedient. I was there September 12, the day after there had been a heavy hail storm in the neighborhood, and the day was cold, and Mr. Stevenson told me he thought he would put some fire on that night. Stevenson Bros. are mighty careful about mildew.

Robert Johnston, who made quite a study of the retail stores of France and Germany during the eighteen months he spent with the A. E. F., had quite an attractive window last week. It was a miniature rock garden built around a lake, and it attracted a great deal of attention. Robert says he has a number of ideas which he intends to work out during the coming season, in the window as well as in the interior of the store.

A window which attracted much attention last week was that of John Cook. At first sight one would suppose that native wild flowers were used, but upon closer investigation one found this was not the case. Small pink native asters and Japanese lilacs with goldenrod were used in baskets. A large vase of deep maroon dahlias and some fine specimen plants of Boston fern were so arranged as to make the window especially attractive and one that, in my judgment, counted most because it was out of the ordinary. Mr. Cook told me of a decorating job they had done at the cathedral for the mass celebrated by Cardinal Mercier. The only cut flowers used were large cardinal red dahlias. These with the plants, and many lights, made a beautiful effect. Out at the Cook range they have 2,000 vigorous young plants of their new white rose, Mrs. John Cook, which promises well for this season. Another, of which a large stock is being grown, is My Maryland, which originated at this range and always does well there. Cook's was always noted for good violets, but this year, if the present appearance of the plants is a prophecy of what the crop will be, will surpass anything they have ever done.

In talking to several florists recently about the past summer's business I learned that a good deal of stock went to waste. This may be true, but, having made it a point to visit the retail stores each week, I am in a position to say that never in the history of the trade has there been such a summer business. The public wanted nothing but the best in flowers—that which went to waste did not come under this head. The florists will have to wake up to the fact that good stock is always salable. This applies to midwinter as well as midsummer. Tate.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

In Des Moines, Ia., the Sunday closing movement is agitating the trade, who are exceedingly interested in the steps taken in some of the larger cities. The Alpha Floral Co., which has the last word in store creation and equipment, is willing to take the lead and will doubtless get the others to follow, "since," observed the lady assistant at Trillow's Flower Store, "the churches, formerly the chief reason for our being open, to supply them with fresh flowers on Sundays, are now in favor of our closing." Funerals are less numerous, and a little effort on the part of the salesmen can help in favor of delivery only. The same argument applies to hospitals.

* * * *

J. S. Wilson, of the J. S. Wilson Floral Co., returned from his "swing around the circle," as he described it, in time to give ideas in decorating for the reception of President and Mrs. Wilson. Owing to the drought, outdoor flowers were scarce, and artistic camouflaging was resorted to.

* * * *

Hess & Swoboda, Omaha, are busy getting their greenhouses into shape following the disastrous storm in June. Fine decorative plants especially show the effect of the hail. The store window has an artistic arrangement in Adiantum gloriosum and Livistona rotundifolia, with a vase of Tritoma Pfitzeri. The store is being redecorated and will appear in its new dress in time for the annual ak-sar-ben, which brings big business into the city. Touching the help problem, J. J. Hess observed they "are getting the best they can, even from the Salvation Army home, and will not object to having the band accompany the workers, provided it does not interfere with work during working hours."

Lewis Henderson, of Henderson's Flower Store, Omaha, notes a scarcity of stock, from which all are suffering more or less, but he is sanguine as to future business.

* * * *

"Say It with Flowers" is conspicuously displayed upon the delivery cars of Chapin Bros. and Frey & Frey, Lincoln, Neb., so that the students who are arriving to fill the college and schools will not fail to become familiarized with the slogan. The flower stores are in keeping with the opening term. The window at the store of Chapin Bros. is a creation in green with white latticework, showing fine specimens of Cibotium Schiedei, Phœnix Roebelenii and Nephrolepis Scottii. The window of Hiltner Bros. is arranged to show a lily pond in the background, with a sign announcing that goldfish are for sale.

* * * *

The Eiche Floral Co. has large double windows well arranged, showing palms and ferns.

* * * *

The window of C. H. Frey's store shows some well grown plants of fancy-leaved caladiums. The tables in the store are arranged to allow ample space between for the purpose of handling plants which, especially ferns, are being featured in the sales. Cut flowers are too scarce yet to display in windows.

* * * *

Frey & Frey have a deep single window, set low, so that an attractive display can be made at little cost of material. An aquarium is attached to the rear of the window, running almost the entire length, and makes a fine finish, with the goldfish and fixings. The ornamental overhang affords perpetual shade to the window and protection to the "lookers." W. M.

OBITUARY

A. Ecke.

A. Ecke, the prominent poinsettia grower of Hollywood, Cal., died September 16. Starting in a small way some years ago, Mr. Ecke had gradually increased his plantings until at the time of his death he was the largest grower of poinsettias in the vicinity of Los Angeles. He grew them for flowers entirely and grew them in enormous quantities. Mr. Ecke was a native of Germany and in his younger days was a writer. He was a well informed, studious man and gave his personal attention to all matters connected with his business. Well known around Los Angeles, Mr. Ecke will be greatly missed by members of the trade. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Henrietta Ecke, and a son and daughter, Paul and Frieda, to mourn the loss of a well beloved husband and father. H. R. R.

Boniface Baumann.

Boniface Baumann, 78 years old, died at Niles Center, Ill., September 19. He had been in the florists' business for fifty years. His death came after an illness of a week. The funeral was held September 22.

Mr. Baumann was the senior member of the firm of Baumann & Son, at Niles Center. His son, Peter Baumann, was, until recently, manager of the store of Peter Reinberg, Chicago.

KEMBLE LOSS ONLY $5,000.

Will Rebuild Immediately.

The fire at the range of the Kemble Floral Co., Oskaloosa, Ia., September 12 destroyed its boiler sheds, workroom, greenhouse office, fern house and part of the rose houses, together with ferns and other stock in the houses. The greater part of the greenhouses and stock was, however, unharmed. The loss amounts to only $5,000 and not $25,000, as originally reported.

The fire was caused by spontaneous combustion in the fuel supply. It was discovered early in the morning by the house foreman, J. C. Wizeman, who lives near the greenhouses, just as the flames were starting to eat through the roof of the building at the southwest corner of the property.

Stock Little Damaged.

The fire department was able to confine the damage to the southwest part of the range. The loss of $5,000 is partly covered by insurance. In the buildings not penetrated by the fire the plants were scorched about twenty-five feet beyond the burning frames. Some of the rose plants were injured, but most of the stock in the range was unharmed.

The fuel supply had previously given trouble and had been turned at various times to prevent firing. The whole pile had been turned the day before the fire. Both the foreman and William Kemble had examined the coal pile carefully before retiring for the night, but had not been able to detect any trace of burning.

On the day following the fire the debris was cleared away from the burned section, and the work of reconstructing the houses is waiting only for the adjustment of the insurance. The destruction of this property is being used as an opportunity to put up larger houses with improved equipment.

DENVER, COLO.

Chrysanthemum Show in October.

Chrysanthemum and rose growers from all parts of the country are invited to exhibit novelties of chrysanthemums at the annual chrysanthemum show to be held October 29 to 31 under the auspices of the Denver Society of Ornamental Horticulture. The society is offering a $50 cash prize for the best varieties of new chrysanthemums, novelties since 1917, and a $25 prize for the second best. Also a $25 cash prize will be given for the best fifty flowers of the new rose, Premier, grown in Colorado.

The show will be staged in the large municipal auditorium of Denver and is supported by the city administration as well as by the leading society people of the city.

The Denver flower show is an annual affair and unique in that it is free to all. No entry charge is made to the exhibitors and no admission charge to the public.

Exhibits should be addressed to the secretary, charges prepaid, and he will see that they are properly staged.

Adam Kohankie, superintendent of Washington park, Denver, is manager of the show; C. R. Root, of the Colorado Seed Co., is president of the society and of the flower show committee. S. R. De Boer, 208 Tramway building, is secretary of the society and in charge of the show.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The improvement in demand noted in the last report has continued, although not at all sufficient in volume to affect prices materially, the supply still being heavy and beyond the needs of the market, except in one or two lines. With the ending of summer vacations and the return of many families to the city, there should be considerable stimulation in the demand for flowers, and there is no doubt that retail business will become more active from now on. A few chrysanthemums are coming in, the varieties being confined to the early sorts, such as Smith's Advance and Golden Glow. Many of the arrivals, however, show poor foliage, largely due to weather conditions.

Roses are plentiful and of fair quality now that a more favorable temperature exists. American Beauty is abundant, and summer prices still prevail, with occasional fluctuations in the figures for the best grades. Hybrid teas move well, particularly in the long-stemmed grades. In the lower grades much stock is apparently from young plants and lacking in substance. Some fine Hadley is coming in, and in the pink varieties Columbia is prominent for quality.

A few carnations are being received, some of them rather remarkable for their fine quality at this time of year, having flower heads of good size and stems twelve inches or more long. The range of price is $1.50 to $2.

The supply of cattleyas is fair, but somewhat irregular. Labiata is, of course, prominent, and there are a few hybrid varieties, but not of extra quality. A large crop of labiata is in sight and the variety is expected to be in heavy supply shortly.

Little lily of the valley is available and the small offerings close out quickly at as much as 20 cents per spray. Much white bouvardia is being used for wedding and funeral work; some good sprays of the Humboldtii variety may be found in daily supply at 50 cents to $1 per bunch. Few Easter lilies are in evidence and the prospect of a good supply later is not bright. Rubrums are plentiful and move fairly well at $2 to $6 per hundred, bud and flower.

Dahlias are especially abundant, with the majority of arrivals poor in quality and hardly marketable. Really good flowers in proper colors sell well, but the choicest stock brings hardly more than $4 per hundred.

Asters are still overplentiful and at times hard to move, especially in the medium and lower grades. Among the arrivals are some of excellent quality, but the maximum price remains at about $2 per hundred.

The supply of miscellaneous flowers continues heavy. Cosmos is in large supply, as also are candytuft, gypsophila and tritoma, delphinium, antirrhinum and calendula. Gladioli are shortening up, but the quality of the late cuttings is quite good.

Various Notes.

President Richard Vincent, Jr., of the American Dahlia Society, was in town September 19 and left that evening with James Duthie of Oyster Bay, J. H. Pepper, secretary, and E. C. Vick, for the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, Conn., to judge the new varieties of dahlias in the society's trial garden there, for the award of certificates. At Storrs they were joined by George L. Stillman, of Westerly, R. I., A. W. Davison, of Ansonia, Conn., C. Louis Alling and Lester B. Linsley, of West Haven, Conn., Prof. G. W. Fraser, who has charge of the garden, and G. R. Scrivener, his assistant. The garden was found in excellent shape, and the judging occupied most of the day.

S. S. Pennock, of Philadelphia, was in the city September 18 to attend a meeting of the executive board of the American Rose Society, at which time it is understood some important matters were discussed, among them participation in the New York flower show next spring.

The Islip (L. I.) Garden Club held its autumn flower show at Islip September 12 and 13.

The Nassau County Horticultural Society will hold its annual dahlia show at the Matinecock Neighborhood House, Locust Valley, L. I., October 2 and 3. In former years the show has been held at Glen Cove.

The Horticultural Society of New York held a successful dahlia show in the Museum building, New York Botanical Garden, on Saturday and Sunday, September 20 and 21.

GOT your coal in yet?

CYCLAMENS are in big demand to take the place of azaleas.

GREENHOUSE space is as nearly all in use as it ever will be.

THERE are a good many "ifs" in growers' plans, but none is so big as experienced help.

GREENHOUSE labor, if not the highest paid in the country, is among the least discontented.

EXPRESS shipments are generally reported to be handled better this autumn than they were a year ago.

BETTER hours and working conditions, aside from the matter of pay, are necessary to secure and hold the help needed in this trade.

THE rapid growth of the F. T. D. during the last year promises a larger and more interesting meeting than ever, at Buffalo, October 14 and 15.

ACCORDING to the almanac, the autumn opened at 9:46 p. m., September 23, but most florists' cash registers, still an excellent index, indicate the fall season arrived several days earlier.

WHAT the florists' business needs most of all is improved average quality. The best stock is good enough, but there is so much low grade stuff offered as "the best" that skepticism is hard to overcome.

WHY do men ship plant stock they would not be satisfied to receive? Cases of it frequently come to light concerning growers with whom one would not hesitate to leave a pocketbook without counting the contents.

JUDGING by the number of letters The Review is receiving about the writers' desire or inability to procure field-grown carnation plants, there must be scores of country florists who will have to send to city markets for cut flowers this winter.

FOR New York retailers September 20 was a red-letter day; it marked the real reopening of the steamer business on the pre-war scale. That day eleven ships cleared for European ports with 4,824 civilian passengers. Large quantities of bon voyage flowers for them were delivered to the boats.

A CHANCE FOR YOUR CITY.

Is your city represented each week in the news columns of The Review? If it is not, you can "put it on the map" by contributing a news-letter—once a week if there's enough doing, once each two or three weeks if you prefer. But the trade wants to know once in a while what you're doing in your town. The Review pays space rates to regular correspondents.

A REASON OR AN OPPORTUNITY.

The Mandarin cover on The Review was chosen for a purpose—to make it possible at a glance to pick this paper out in any pile of stuff on a florist's desk.

The telegraph delivery cards are printed on paper of a different color for a reason—so everyone can turn instantly to them; no hunting.

The result has been the almost universal use of the Pink Part when an order is to be sent to a florist in another town.

Look it over.

Those whose towns are represented may find the reason why their own telegraph delivery business is not so large as they expected.

Those who do not find their cities represented will see their opportunity.

HOLDING THE HELP.

A rose grower near Chicago is discouraged with a first attempt at encouraging the workers with a share of the earnings of the place. Five men are employed, a working foreman and four assistants. Each was paid a fair salary and, in addition, received a share of the weekly check from the commission house, the foreman five per cent, the others each one per cent. Theoretically, the bonus should have stimulated each man to do his best to increase production and the income, but, practically, it had no such effect, except, perhaps, for the first few weeks. After that, the better income seemed to inspire the desire to get the money more easily—there was a demand for additional help to make the work lighter; the foreman wanted to drop the word "working" from his title and, his percentage being on weekly income, not annual profits, joined with the men in asking for more help. Under the circumstances the nine per cent of the gross income given as bonus proved to reduce the net to less than the rental value of the property.

SUMMER BUSINESS.

The greatest success in the florists' business has been, and probably will be, made by the men who are able to note changes in the trend of trade events, and who can adapt themselves to them. Such men are giving thought to the unquestionable fact that the florists' business has become an all-the-year-around affair, as demonstrated by the summer season recently closed. Old-fashioned florists have difficulty getting over the idea that there is nothing doing in a selling way from the time schools close in spring until they reopen in the autumn, but observing men have noted a steady increase in the business for several summers, until this year the demand for all kinds of good stock has been steady, even strong in many places. Every florist who was in position to take advantage of the demand made money right through the summer this year.

The question now is not what the winter has in store—we are a unit in believing business will be big—but as to next summer. It is time to plan for next June to September.

There is no reason to believe the desire for flowers ever will be less than it is at present; the demand will not go down except under the influence of conditions over which florists have no direct control. Summer business next year might be reduced by unemployment, or by unusually hot weather, but these are almost the only factors which can affect the demand the country over. With everybody working, with an absence of those elements of excitement which take minds off the routine of life, the demand for flowers will not be less next summer, or at any other time.

A HINT HERE.

The Review has more subscribers in New York and Pennsylvania than in any other two states, although in southern New England the circulation is greater than in any other district of equal area, but some advertisers think of where a paper is printed, losing sight of the fact that it's where it is read that counts:

Enclosed find check for the renewal of my subscription. The Review is a good paper and full of interesting things. The only fault I have to find with the advertising matter is that more eastern growers do not advertise in it.—Allan H. Faxon, Southbridge, Mass., September 16, 1919.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

There was a lull in the middle of last week, but September 20 the market enjoyed a rush of a character to remind one of the conditions which prevailed in the early autumn last year. It was one year ago this week that the tide turned. Our wave of prosperity first was felt in the fourth week of September last year. It gathered force in the week that contained the last days of September and the first days of October, rising to the flood in the first full week in October. After that for months the market had all the business, and more, that could be managed. We are now approaching the time when it will be no inconsiderable achievement to do as big a volume of business as was done last year.

So far, nearly all wholesalers and retailers are ahead. One of the larger houses reports that last week's sales exceeded those of the same week last year by thirty-five per cent and there is no complaint from anyone who has good stock ready for market. Prices are good, better than a year ago.

Roses continue to be the principal commodity in the cut flower market. The supply is not so large as it was a few days earlier and the quality has improved to a notable degree. Even the most conservative chronicler would not hesitate to record that this market never has seen finer roses in September. There are large quantities of fine Russell, splendid cuts of Columbia and Premier in all lengths, a good supply of Ophelia and more than the usual quantity of excellent Sunburst. Milady is not so abundant as the others, but it is still a little early in the season for a strong demand for red. Several of the growers who have clung to Beauties are cutting good crops and sending them to an active market.

Of the items newly appearing, there has been a considerable increase in the supply of carnations, but it scarcely has counterbalanced the decrease in the supply of asters, with the result that both have advanced in price. It certainly has been many years since the first carnations brought so much money as they now are doing. Chrysanthemums are much more abundant than they were last week and some of the stock is of noteworthy quality. In addition to yellow and white, the former being much the more abundant, small quantities of good pink are seen. They are selling up to $5 per dozen. Some of the retailers are getting mums from the Pacific coast, but after their long journey they do not compare for quality with the best home-grown stock. Only one or two of the wholesalers are willing to handle the imported mums.

This probably is the penultimate week, or anyway anti-penultimate, of the gladiolus season. The supply has gone down sharply and consists principally of America and Augusta. Anyone with bright-colored flowers is getting fine prices and even the two old favorites are bringing good money. This has been a banner season for the gladiolus growers; there have been few and only brief periods during which first-class prices were not readily realized.

The cattleya corner has broken of its own weight; there are increased supplies of fine flowers and the price is falling. The supply of valley has increased to the point where it may be had almost anywhere, providing one is willing to pay the price. On the other hand, Easter lilies are scarcer than at any other time this season. There continue to be quantities of outdoor flowers, most of them coming from nurseries and hardy plant growers, but these cut little figure in the shipping trade; they practically all go to a few local retailers.

minutes of heavy hail, which broke nearly 2,000 panes of glass in the big iron-frame greenhouses. He had reserve stock of glass sufficient to start the work of reglazing within a few hours and a telephone call to business associates in Chicago resulted in rushing out Saturday night enough additional boxes to complete the job. It was a busy Sunday, but the damage was repaired before any material injury had been done to the Beauty plants, which are just coming into good crop.

"Quick Selling"; "We'll Say So."

In The Review for September 18 Peter Reinberg offered 39,000 field-grown carnation plants "priced for quick selling." September 23, Miss McNulty, who looks after such details, called up to say they were gone. It is interesting to note that prices ranged from $60 to $80 per thousand, the whole lot, if sold at the thousand prices, having a value of $2,460. The classified ad that moved them cost $2.

by the trade in the Park Ridge greenhouse section.

The A. B. C. has bought a flivver, for William Langhout's use in calling on bulb buyers in the Chicago territory.

Emil Beuttner and family returned last week from their summer home at Eagle River, Wis. They came as they went, by automobile, taking two days for the trip. It is 350 miles by the most direct route. Mr. Beuttner says that he thinks by next year it will be time to consider an airplane, with which he probably can run down from Eagle River to Park Ridge in the morning and back in the evening.

F. M. Johnson and Edward Galavan, of the A. L. Randall Co., are on one of their frequent trips to New York.

The bulb merchants are busy. The Dutch stock is arriving and there is a full line with which to do business, barring some of the less important items kept out by the quarantine. It looks as though the Holland exporters were filling orders in full. The exceptions may be some of the daffodils and a few early tulips.

At Henderson's Seed Store it is reported that fall counter trade has started with a rush.

Leonard Kill, formerly well known in the Chicago market, who has been here most of the summer, left September 24 to return to Los Angeles. He now is in the automobile accessory business.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association opened its big basement shipping room, the domain of L. C. Sherer, September 23, the first day of autumn. There is a new ice machine, started up for the first time last week, handling the coolers. Peter Baumann, formerly in charge of the selling at Peter Reinberg's, joined Mr. Klingsporn's sales force September 23.

A. Lange is the only retail florist in Chicago who has been advertising steadily all summer. He used the newspapers in the off season because he wants to let everybody know his new address and, now that autumn is here, he has entered on a campaign to increase the number of sales, it having been demonstrated that the new location has resulted in some decrease in the number of customers waited on, with a large increase in the average size of the sales. He has room for more customers and is using the newspapers to get them.

Charles Bond has begun to cut a crop of Cattleya labiata. This Naperville grower produces flowers of quality rarely excelled and puts them on the market in perfect condition, as Mrs. Bond, a charming lady, brings them to town in a suitcase once or twice a day. They have had an excellent season, prices being good enough to make up for small summer production, and these fine labiatas still were bringing $2 per bloom September 22.

He is the son of an old florist, E. D. Lauterbach, of Bushnell, Ill., and a graduate of the department of floriculture at the University of Illinois.

Mrs. Cora B. Thompson, head of the well known Louisville firm of C. B. Thompson & Co., Inc., has been a visitor in the market this week. In addition to being an experienced florist and keen business woman, Mrs. Thompson is an intrepid motorist and, with three ladies as companions, made the trip here in her car.

Charles Reardon, who has spent the summer in Massachusetts, was in town September 20, on his way to his home at Davenport.

J. W. Baker, of Baker Bros., Fort Worth, Tex., has been in town for several days.

F. W. Heckenkamp III, of Quincy, was a visitor in the market September 20. He recently has taken charge of his father's retail store, where an excellent business is being done. A visit to a sister who has married and moved to Chicago was the chief object of his trip.

The Market.

The week ending September 20 brought the first real short market Milwaukee has experienced this season and conditions will be worse before they are better. A terrific electrical and rain storm September 20 put an end to outdoor stock, for the time being at least. Indoor stock is not abundant enough yet to meet the demand. There is a quantity of good flowers coming from indoors, but not nearly enough.

Some mums are arriving, but few are good. Golden Glow has suffered from insects and weather and the October Frosts available are small. Carnations are in too small supply to make a noticeable difference. About the only redeeming feature of our present market is the prospective season, which looks good.

Various Notes.

Mrs. Ida Baumgarten and daughter, Gretchen, left September 23 for Albany, N. Y., to which point they have shipped their motor car. An extensive tour of the eastern flower and accessory markets is planned.

Harry Papworth and his bride stopped in Milwaukee a few days. They are honeymooning.

This week marks the time for fall openings of the department and specialty stores in this city. The August Kellner Co. has been hard pressed for time and plants to meet the numerous demands for decorations and trims. Some novel effects are displayed, with bedding and garden flowers in the windows.

Gustave Pohl has his greenhouses in fine shape for the winter. A couple of houses are planted to stevia, two to mums and the rest to carnations, which show clean growth.

The retail florists had an exceptional lot of funeral work September 21 and 22, most of which was for Theo. Vilter, a well known manufacturer of ice machines. Among the many contributors to the large quantity of flowers was the Fleischman Floral Co., of Chicago, which found it advisable to send a man here with several fine pieces.

The C. C. Pollworth Co. is extremely busy shipping bulbs, the Dutch stock having come earlier than for several years.

The Market.

The return of warmer weather last week tended to slow up business. The increased cut of roses and other stock continues, and in order to keep stock moving special reductions have to be made occasionally. American Beauties are of better quality than they have been all summer, but their demand has fallen off, hence they stock up more than usual. Premier is more plentiful, being in sufficient supply for all; they are in good demand and bring a good price, since they are the only clean-cut roses with long and sturdy stems on the market. Ophelia is improving, having a wonderful snappy color and coming to the market nicely in bud. It is a bit short in supply, being in good demand. This is true also of Sunburst. Killarney, Shawyer and Maryland are brightening up in color and are of high quality, but their demand is only fair, being second choice to Premier and Ophelia. However, they are not in oversupply and, being cheaper in price, they find the buyer, even though late in the day. Ward is coming in each day, but hardly enough to satisfy any one buyer, since there are only two growers cutting this favorite at present. White roses are more plentiful than in the previous week, the demand being about the same. Columbia and Hoosier Beauty are of far better quality than last week, having stronger stems, which are essential to good quality in these varieties.

Carnations are not so plentiful, due to the cloudy weather. The demand being good, there are sales for all reaching the market. The quality remains poor, being short in stem.

Gladioli continue to reach the market, but the demand is not good, as the quality is poor. Asters are in overabundance, with a great amount selling. The better ones are a bit scarce, as only the poor stock is in glut.

Seasonable flowers, such as cosmos, celosia, zinnias, calendulas, feverfew, their annual flower and vegetable show, the corridors being filled with the displays. These displays consisted of many arrangements, such as tall archways made of asters in many colors, flag designs, baskets, etc., all having been arranged by the pupils.

Prizes were given by local florists and by the Twentieth Century Club. Robert M. Plumb, of 1630 Burns avenue, and Adam E. Bezemer, of E. A. Fetters', were the florists' judges, acting with the school judges. Prizes were given as follows: First prize, to the Chandler school for the best exhibit of quality, arrangement and instructive character of display; second prize for best quality, to the Greenfield Park school; the third prize, for the best artistically arranged basket, to the Fairbanks school.

Pupils showing the greatest variety of flowers were presented with plants by John Breitmeyer's Sons. J. F. Sullivan gave two large plants for the most artistically arranged displays. Peter F. Reuss also gave a couple of plants for the best quality of flowers grown.

Various Notes.

John Mast, of the Art Floral Co., is within a square of the Harper hospital, and many of his orders are for delivery there.

The window display of the L. Bemb Co. continues to attract the passing public. It consists of a pond with the usual rustic bridges and background, together with ducks and especially large frogs.

E. White, of Grosse Isle, Mich., the dahlia man of this locality, reports that his crop of dahlias is much below par, due to their being eaten by grasshoppers. He is bringing in supplies of juniper.

F. B. Hoyet, a nurseryman, has been helping out at local greenhouses, chiefly doing potting work at John Breitmeyer's Mack avenue greenhouses.

John K. Rugowski, of Manitowoc, Wis., stopped in Detroit to find a market for his seeds, etc. He had a sample lot of new varieties of asters, one of which is nameless, and he offers a cash prize for a name for it. He had beautiful pure white shaggy asters named Pure Honor, and a similar one, purple in color, called Purple Honor. They were the best ever seen, in the opinion of several local florists.

Wayne MacLaughlin, of John Breitmeyer's Sons' Broadway store, is away on his vacation.

E. A. Fetters has the season's order for the decorations for the Detroit symphony orchestra, which will include decorations in Chicago, St. Louis, Toronto, etc.

Harry Breitmeyer is in the east, on his vacation. H. T.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

There is a gratifying improvement in market conditions despite the unseasonably warm weather. People are home. A few of them are buying flowers. That has led to the discovery that the market is but poorly supplied. The wholesalers are hustling to find stock. The dahlia furnishes the most satisfactory field for their efforts, barring only the heat; dahlias do not keep in hot weather.

There was a day when good dahlias were quoted at 50 cents to $2 per hundred. That day has passed. You can still get dahlias for from 50 cents to $2 per hundred, all you want of them, but fine dahlias bring from $4 to $6 and occasionally $8 per hundred. They sell, and the poorer do not. That is the story. Good varieties and culture have produced such fine quality that ordinary stock has no chance against this select stock. Unfortunately, much more than half of the dahlias coming into the market are of ordinary grade. The select stock is safe. Since the middle of last week it has been selling well at list prices.

Roses have been selling better. There are fewer of them and there is more business. Flowers that can be classed as fancy, such as Beauties and long-stemmed Columbia, are firmer in price, with likelihood of an advance. There are few really fine roses. The bulk of the stock is short-stemmed. There are lots of asters, but as their season advances it becomes harder and harder to get good stock.

Gladioli are the support of the decorator who aims to produce bold effects. They are not so fine as they were two months ago and do not command anything like the prices, but they have many friends and fill an important place in the cut flower market.

Club will be an important one. The September meeting was regarded only in the light of a curtain raiser. The special publicity meeting held at the Adelphia September 15 deferred action on the plans for a flower week until the regular meeting of the club, scheduled for Tuesday evening, October 7. As these plans are to go into effect the following week and their success depends on hearty general support, it is the duty of all members of the club to give them thought and to support them cordially, if approved.

The plans are that during this week, beginning with Monday, October 13, a united effort will be made to attract attention to flowers. The stores are all to be gaily decorated, the sign, "Say It with Flowers," will be displayed and a parade of decorated cars and of floats will be held.

The election of officers will be held at this meeting. There is one contest, for the office of vice-president. The nominees are: For president, Edmund A. Harvey; for vice-president, Arthur A. Niessen and Harvey Betz; for treasurer, George Craig; for secretary, Robert Kift.

Conditions Abroad.

Sydney H. Bayersdorfer, who will be back in Philadelphia before these lines appear, has written from abroad to his father entertainingly of conditions in Europe. He says that he was given an egg for breakfast as a great delicacy; that in the hotels Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays are bath days, and then tipping was necessary to insure getting the bath. The scarcity of water was due to the coal shortage, which was also apparent in the speed of trains. A journey that formerly occupied three hours now takes a whole day. Nowhere in Germany did Mr. Bayersdorfer hear a word spoken against America. He was kindly greeted everywhere. Those who knew him asked for his father, who they hoped would soon come over again.

Mr. Bayersdorfer said that raw materials are scarce and that in other countries goods that appeared to be German were being offered for sale.

Various Notes.

Samuel S. Pennock returned to the city September 15, after a delightful holiday spent with his family at Weekapaug, R. I.

Robert Q. Shoch returned to Philadelphia September 20 from a brief trip to Norfolk and Richmond, following closely a more extended trip to the great southwest.

Winfield Woltemate, son of H. C. Woltemate, has just returned from France.

Sydney H. Bayersdorfer returned to this city September 23 on the steamer Nieuw Amsterdam from Rotterdam.

Charles E. Meehan closed his cottage at Ocean City last week and brought his family back to their home in Germantown.

Clarence U. Liggit is enjoying a few days' well earned holiday at the City by the Sea.

The bricklayers' strike will tax the resourcefulness of Frank M. Ross to the utmost.

The friends of Louis J. Reuter will be interested to know that he is conducting a plant brokerage business at Waltham, Mass.

Alfred M. Campbell has erected a brick stack 4x70 feet at the Strafford Flower Farms.

The Market.

There is little change to be recorded in market conditions. The continuation of the police strike, the unlikelihood of any of the strikers being reinstated, and sympathetic strikes and talks of strikes, all of which help to hurt business, have made cut flower selling erratic, and these conditions must continue until industrial peace reigns again. Retailers admit that their business has suffered a severe setback.

Roses move sluggishly at prices varying from $1 to $16 per hundred. Premier is arriving of splendid quality and is a great favorite. Columbia is also good. Maryland, Hoosier Beauty, Ophelia, Francis Scott Key, Ward, Russell, Miller and Double White Killarney all sell well. Killarney moves slowly, also American Beauties. Carnations are plentiful. The best make $3 per hundred; poorer grades go as low as 50 cents to $1. The bulk of the chrysanthemums seen are Golden Glow and Smith's Advance. These sell at $12 to $25 per hundred, according to quality. A few small bunches of single violets appeared this week.

Gladioli continue to come in freely, with little change in prices. The quality for the late date is extremely good. Asters of the best quality make $3, but a large proportion are of inferior grades and show weather-marks. There is a good supply of cosmos and dahlias, neither of which sells well, and smaller lots of various other outdoor flowers. Bouvardia Humboldtii sells well. There are few lilies and lily of the valley. Cattleyas are scarce, but there is little call for them. Begonia Gloire de Chatelaine, crotons and ferns are selling freely.

Club Meeting.

There was an excellent attendance at the first club meeting in Horticultural hall following the summer recess. The committee on changes in the by-laws reported, and its recommendations will be acted upon at the October meeting. The picnic committee reported a comfortable balance after paying all expenses. Resolutions on the death of A. F. Barney, drawn up by W. J. Kennedy, W. N. Craig and James Methven, were adopted, also similar tributes to Robert Montgomery, by S. J. Goddard, James Wheeler and Peter M. Miller, and to Elmer P. Morse, by John L. Russell, Peter Fisher and W. N. Craig. Seven new members were elected.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted commending the attitude of Governor Coolidge and Police Commissioner Curtis in the Boston police strike, and pledging them the club's support. L. J. Reuter showed Nephrolepis Macawii, which the exhibits committee honored with an award of merit. W. N. Craig received honorable mention for a collection of peaches. He also showed Artemisia lactiflora and Gladiolus primulinus seedlings.

Herman H. Bartsch gave a most interesting account of his journey to and from Detroit and his experiences at the convention. He spoke of the great difficulty experienced in securing hotel reservations, of the hospitality of the Detroit florists and of the fine work done at the convention. The assembly hall was, however, far from comfortable. Visits to a number of growers around Detroit showed some nice stock, but much below the standards of eastern-grown plants.

James Wheeler spoke of a pleasant automobile trip taken through Connecticut, New York and New Jersey, referring in his talk to the Morton F. Plant estate, Groton, Conn.; C. H. Totty's; H. McKay Twombly's; the Duckham-Pierson Co., Madison, N. J.; the A. & F. Nurseries; F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown and Scarboro, N. Y.; Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., and others.

Andrew Christensen, who is a great traveler, spoke most graphically and entertainingly of a summer trip to Tampa, Jacksonville, Orlando and other points in Florida, the sail up the St. Johns river being especially fine, and of Asheville and other mountain resorts in North Carolina, Richmond, Va., etc. Mr. Christensen is a keen observer and spoke on the vegetation, agriculture and florists' establishments at each of the many places visited. Florida did not impress him favorably, but the North Carolina Blue Ridge mountains were grand. He saw no territory, how-

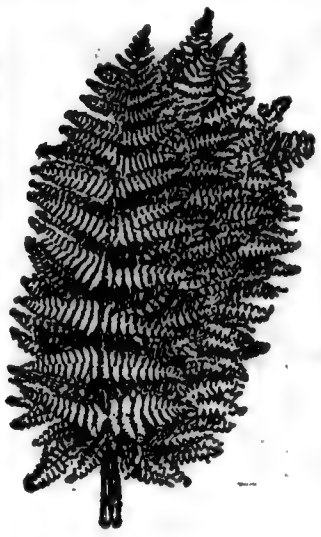
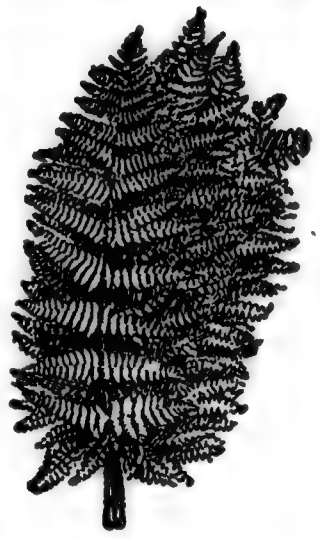
A short address was made by H. M. Blanche, of Cornell University. Several interesting queries were taken up and answered. It was announced that Professor J. G. Jack would lecture on "Fruits and Flowers of Our Native Trees and Shrubs" at the October meeting.



Various Notes.

The William W. Edgar Co. is cutting a fine lot of Golden Glow chrysanthemums. This concern has a splendid lot of cyclamens, begonias and other stock for the holidays.



Colonel William W. Castle, well known in local trade circles through the Castle circulator for hot water heating, died September 14 in his seventy-sixth year. The deceased was a native of Cleveland, O. He located in New England nearly fifty years ago. He was principal owner of Horticulture, published in Boston, and was a member of the S. A. F. Funeral services were held September 17 at his late home in Weymouth and a large number of his friends attended to pay their last tribute of esteem.

J. E. Koppelman, of Providence, is much pleased with Rose Premier. He also has a splendid lot of Columbia, Maryland, Hoosier Beauty, Ophelia and Double White Killarney.

pleasure tour in his auto through the Catskill and Adirondack mountains, including the famed Mohawk trail. He reports business as improving steadily and, with a cessation of strikes, looks for an active fall and winter.

Peter Hylen, of Randolph, is cutting the best Smith's Advance chrysanthemums I have seen this season. He still has an excellent lot of gladioli.

H. W. Vose, of Hyde Park, has gone into carnation culture more heavily this season. He is growing Beacon, Pink Delight, Enchantress, Ward and Matchless principally and is already sending in good flowers.

John A. Foote, of Reading, has the local market to himself at present on the popular Bouvardia Humboldtii. His carnations are looking well, his leading trio being Pink Delight, Benora and Matchless.

Peter Fisher has changed the name of his new seedling scarlet carnation, to be introduced during the coming season, from Red Cross to Ethel Fisher. The Red Cross Society objected to the commercializing of its name; hence the change.

Local seed stores received the bulk of their Dutch bulbs last week and are busy filling orders. Bulbs are of exceptional quality. Lilium candidum is expected this week, and belated Paper White narcissi.

The next meeting of the Boston Florists' Association will be held October 6. A speaker will be announced in a few days. W. N. C.

EVANSVILLE, IND.

The Market.

Business remains about the same as it has been for several weeks. There is no great rush for flowers, but the demand is about enough to clean up each day. Owing to the long dry spell outdoor flowers are about exhausted. Roses and carnations are coming on in larger quantities and the quality is good everything considered. The dry weather has been broken by rains which came September 19.

Various Notes.

The Lockyear Floral Co. has its new houses finished and planted to roses and carnations. The boiler is being set up now.

Theodore Kuebler has had a hard time getting enough water because of the dry summer. He is bringing in chrysanthemums to the market and reports that the crop is coming on sat-

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

The greatest scarcity of carnations that has ever occurred at this time of year developed this week, and at times it has been impossible to fill even the smallest orders. Growers have let the summer plants dry up in some cases and the new crop has not been sufficient to come anywhere near meeting the demand. Prices, of course, have gone soaring and business in this item has been checked. The mums help out, but nothing takes the place of carnations. Roses are of fair quality and clean up well. Dahlias, mums and zinnias are all in good demand, while small flowers generally are in fair supply. Sweet peas are still scarce and there are practically no orchids to be had. Retailers are all busy with funeral work and a few weddings and social affairs. Plants are scarce. Greens are equal to the demand.

Various Notes.

L. R. Bohannon and Mrs. Bohannon, of Chicago, have been enjoying the climate of southern California this week, finishing with a visit to Catalina island before returning.

Another new wholesale house is reported this week, Geo. J. Hall & Co. Mr. Hall has had a long experience in the wholesale and retail business in Los Angeles and is a young man of considerable energy and well liked in the trade. For the last few years he has been connected with S. Murata & Co. and W. Armacost & Co. He has interested some capital, so that the financial end will be taken care of, and there is no reason why, with the large increase in business in this locality, he should not do well.

James McGillivray, superintendent of Lincoln park, is the happy father of a fine boy, and both mother and child are doing well. Unfortunately, Mr. McGillivray has had a return of the stomach trouble for which he was operated on some time ago, but all hope that it will not be serious this time.

J. Grant has relinquished his position as superintendent of forestry and landscaping under the Wrigley interests at Catalina and intends to start again in landscape work in Los Angeles and vicinity.

The sympathy of the trade is with J. Gordon, of the Darling force, in the loss of his wife, whose death occurred recently.

Mrs. F. R. Hills left for Chicago this week in company with Mr. and Mrs. Bohannon. They intended to go over the Santa Fe by way of Kansas City, where Mr. Lohannon has business interests. Mrs. Bohannon had good sport at Catalina, landing, among other "big ones," an 18-pound yellowtail. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bohannon greatly enjoyed their stay at the island.

A. Ecke, the poinsettia specialist of Hollywood, died September 16, as noted in the obituary column this week. The business is being continued by his son, Paul Ecke.

W. Armacost is putting in most of his time at the Sawtelle range now and his hands are evidently kept pretty full. The five new houses are working and good stock is already being cut. The other two will be finished as soon as the requisite steel can be procured, all the millwork being on the ground. The Beauty section and, in fact, all the rose houses are in fine trim, and in the plant section there is a big lot of fine cyclamens that will be in grand shape for the holidays. At the city store a second carload of baskets is expected and everyone is anxious to get into the new building, which is nearly completed.

At the establishment of the L. A. Floral Co. everyone has been busy, the shipping orders having more than doubled during the last two weeks.

S. Murata & Co. report a large increase in shipping business. Miss Rohr, of the staff here, is still away, though progressing satisfactorily.

Antone Soethout, of the Hollywood Nursery, says that the summer just past has been the best he has ever had since he has been in the business. A new Dodge delivery car has just been added to the equipment. —H. R. Richards.

The Market.

The local market was lively all through last week, with the demand somewhat in advance of the supply.

Due to the large shipping orders coming in from all parts of the country, the price of chrysanthemums was forced up during the week considerably in advance of the previous week's prices. The best quality of Chrysoloras brought as high as $2 per dozen, while the rose-pink brought $9 for a bunch of six dozen. The best white varieties were about the same in price as the yellow.

Asters are going down in quality and up in price. Last week they cost from $2 to $2.25 for a bunch of ten dozen. The new crop of carnations is rather slow in reaching a good cutting stage, and first-class blooms are still expensive. Good roses are in demand and are bringing top prices. Russell of a good quality brings $2.50 per dozen; Ophelia $1.50 per bunch, and red roses $2.50 per bunch. A limited supply of Princess violets is in the market and can be purchased for $1 per dozen. The larger varieties for shipping purposes will not be ready for another three or four weeks. Orchids and gardenias are still difficult to obtain and are especially high.

The President's Visit.

The arrival of the President in San Francisco, Wednesday, September 17, was the occasion of many elaborate functions, prominent among which were the luncheons given at the Palace hotel, Wednesday and Thursday, for the men and women of various community clubs. Local florists vied with each other in handsome floral offerings to President and Mrs. Wilson during their stay in this city. The Palace hotel stand of the MacRorie-McLaren Co. naturally provided many of the decorations used at the various affairs in that hotel. Chrysanthemums and roses were used freely, with good results.

One of the most attractive baskets presented to the President was composed of California grapes and chrysanthemums and made up by Pelicano, Rossi & Co., together with a handsome corsage of orchids for Mrs. Wilson. Part of the table decoration for the luncheon on Wednesday was also furnished by this firm. A sheaf of Dr. Tevis dahlias from Mr. Pelicano's famous gardens decorated one table, while a similar piece of Golden West dahlias, also grown on the Pelicano farm, graced a second. An original basket made up at this shop and presented to the President by one of the Native Daughters' chapters was composed of yellow chrysanthemums, blue delphinium, dried thistles and cat-tails.

From B. M. Joseph's shop, on Grant avenue, several baskets of orchids and other rare blooms were sent to the Presidential suite at the St. Francis hotel. Julius Eppstein, at the St. Francis hotel, had charge of much of the decoration arranged by that hotel, and produced some exceptionally handsome effects with the able assistance of Miss Crosswaithe.

Various Notes.

J. A. Axell, who has been established in his new location at 461 Bush street less than a month, states that he is shipping large quantities of chrysanthemums. His only difficulty is in getting enough stock to supply the demand. This week he had a particularly fine cut of roses from the Ferrari stock and a few of the early carnations from the same source.

Domoto Bros. are beginning to cut roses and have a fair supply of good Ophelias and other varieties on hand. Mr. Domoto states that the shipping end of the business continues in a most satisfactory manner.

Enomoto & Co. are shipping large orders of chrysanthemums now. The later varieties are coming in. Mr. Enomoto states that a fine cream-white bloom is nearly ready, and that Bonnaffon will be cut about October 1. These growers are also expecting a fine crop of Ophelia and Russell roses, the first cuts of which are arriving.

Fred Moore, of Sacramento, was in San Francisco last week on one of his frequent visits to the market.

Another caller on the local trade was Arthur A. Granshaw, with Ernest Sanbourne, of Salt Lake City.

Other visitors in San Francisco recently were Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Bohannon, of Chicago. While here, they were entertained by B. M. Joseph, who took them on an interesting automobile ride down the peninsula, stopping at Leland Stanford University, Palo Alto, and covering most of the Santa Clara valley. The day's tour also included the picturesque Twin Peaks boulevard, where Mr. and Mrs. Bohannon were delighted with an excellent view of part of the Pacific fleet as it steamed out through the Golden Gate on its way to the northwestern seaport.

The funeral of Richard Pease, Sr., president of the Goodyear Rubber Co., brought a large amount of work to several local florists. The pall, of purple asters and Ophelia roses, was made by Shellgrain & Ritter, 148 Kearny street, together with about forty smaller pieces. The entire force worked after hours to complete the orders.

The MacRorie-McLaren Co. designed and supplied a number of handsome pieces for the Pease funeral. For an eastern order, a handsome shower wreath of chrysanthemums and Russell roses was made. Another shower wreath from the MacRorie-McLaren shop was composed of bronze and pastel shades of chrysanthemums. The wholesale department of this establishment is rushed with landscape work at the present time.

A recent addition to the force of the MacRorie-McLaren Co. is Manuel Gotell, at one time connected with Podesta & Baldocchi and later with B. M. Joseph. Mr. Gotell returned a short time ago from his annual sojourn in the country. For a number of years, he has left the city at the beginning of spring and remained away during the entire summer.

A wedding of interest to the trade is that of F. C. Jaeger, Jr., of F. C. Jaeger & Son, 152 Powell street, who was married September 14 to Miss Sada Craig, of this city. The young couple are now touring the state and will return in a short time to make their home in the Cornelia apartments. The wedding was held at the home of Mr. Jaeger, 32 Merritt street, which was beautifully decorated in a color scheme of white and pink. The bride's bouquet was of white roses and orchids, while the bridesmaid carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. A large array of wedding gifts gave evidence of the popularity of the newly married pair.

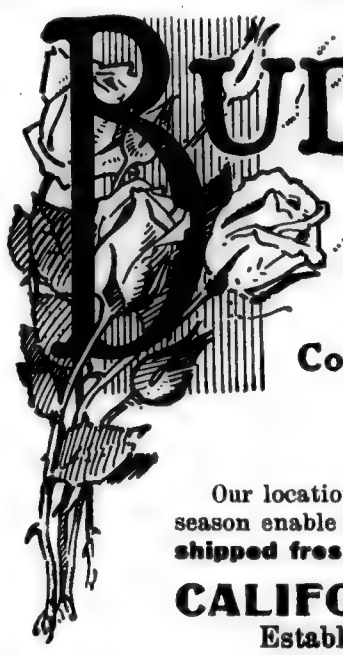
The Market.

With President and Mrs. Wilson, Secretary Daniels and Admiral Hugh Rodman in Tacoma, the florists were kept on the go all last week. Good stock was scarce, for besides orders for banquets, there was plenty of transient and funeral trade.

Mums are coming in from California, including such varieties as Chrysolora, October Frost and Monrovia, and are in better flower and foliage than this time last year.

Asters, sweet peas and gladioli are past their prime and in another week or so will be gone. There are plenty of choice dahlias but few sales.

Various Notes.



The park department had the decorations at the Armory, where the President spoke, including a large floral flag made of red, blue and white asters.

Although the tourist season has not yet closed, all past records for attendance for the National park have been broken, according to records maintained by Park Ranger H. Barnett. Up to September 14 there were 51,000 persons there this season.

Joseph Chalmers, with the Malmo Nursery, Seattle, was a visitor last week and reports a good growing season, with plenty of advance orders for nursery stock and bulbs.

C. Poolman, of the Woodland Park Floral Co., Sumner, Wash., has returned from a week's business trip to Yakima.

The summer's business here has been undoubtedly a record-breaker, in that there were almost no weeks when the demand did not exceed the amount of good stock on hand. The summer has been dry in places, but, as most of the growers here have the Skinner system over their outdoor grounds, they have come through without trouble.

A noticeable feature of this season has been the wider variety of flowers that have been available. The time is not far past when the trade did not believe they could sell anything but roses and carnations, with perhaps a few asters, gladioli and snapdragons for cheap work. Of course bulbous stock has always sold well in season. But now we see annuals and perennials in variety, and they are made to fill a thousand needs. The public are learning to like the idea too.

Everyone is well prepared for the fall and winter business. In the early summer there was a hail storm that struck a part of the city, doing heavy damage, but the necessary repairs were used as an occasion to rebuild any old houses and now everything is in better

Was awarded us for our display at the annual convention of the Society of American Florists, in Detroit, last month.

Many florists were convinced of the merits of this machine. Some gave their orders; others stated they would order this fall.

The future of this machine is absolutely assured, and the wise, up-to-date florist will install one at his earliest opportunity.

Careful comparative figures, which we will be glad to send upon request, show that this machine will absolutely save its cost in one year for the average florist. Write for free booklet.

condition than it was before the storm struck. All stock is in the houses, and the carnations are beginning to give good blooms. It seemed to us in visiting several houses that the chrysanthemums were a little later this season than usual, or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that there will be fewer of the extra earlies this year than in the recent past. Dahlias have not yet appeared, being held back by the hot weather. However, they have not been important in this market for two or three years.

Gladioli have been a larger feature in the market here this summer than ever before. The trade are learning how to use them even in first-rate design work, and as more of the new varieties are being grown, we predict that they will hold this popularity for some time to come. We were especially pleased with Herida, Myrtle, Candidum, Mary Pickford, Lily White and Gretchen Zang. These are varieties that take the public eye and can be used in a multitude of ways.

There has been little building here this summer, except rebuilding old houses. Almost everyone has housed the major part of his winter's fuel and all are having a demand for everything they can grow at good prices, and so the general outlook is bright.

Various Notes.

The Joy Floral Co. had a heavy loss by hail in the early summer. It has rebuilt its range, putting a modern house in place of the only two old houses it had. It has found it hard to meet the demand of the increasing business this summer, the Chattanooga store having made rapid strides.

The Littel houses are being put in shape and will be planted again soon. They were not in use while Faye Littel was in the army.

Charles Tritchler, proprietor of the Sylvan Park Greenhouses, has taken his son into partnership, and they have put in the most complete line of evergreens and other hardy ornamentals ever carried in the city. Mr. Tritchler is planning to open a store in the west end soon. While his work in the past has been largely confined to growing pot plants, mostly for the trade, it has come to be the slogan, "If you can't find it elsewhere, call up Tritchler."

Louis Haury has done a heavy plant business this summer. While it was his original plan to grow mostly vegetables, his pot plant business has been steadily increasing till it bids fair to become his leading line.

McIntyre Bros. have discontinued the old range on Harding road, dismantling it and moving the glass to the new place. They say they are getting better results with less expense by having everything in one place, and not attempting to man two ranges. The new establishment is one of the best built, most up-to-date ranges in the south.

Floyd Bralliar is again working with cannas. He has got together a collection of most of the novelties and a few of the best of the standard varieties and is breeding them. He reports good results from this summer.

Speaking of cannas, the best thing we have seen in years is Wintzer's Firebird No. 14, an unintroduced seedling. In foliage, freedom of bloom, durability and size of flower, size of truss, and vigor, it is in a class by itself.

Miss Carrie Chance returned last week from a vacation spent in the mountains.

The florists here are closing for most of the day Sundays now. This is a new departure for Nashville.

Haury & Sons have found it profitable to maintain their stand in the city market all summer as well as operate their store. In the market they handle mostly pot and bedding plants.

Miss Lillian Joy, who has been spending her summer vacation in Kansas City and vicinity, is back again at work in the Joy store.

Oscar Geny, of Geny Bros., has enjoyed better health this summer than he has for several years. Their houses are in excellent condition for the winter. At the store they report that this firm has had the best summer's business of its history. F. B.

When Writing to Advertisers

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, E. C. Dungan, Philadelphia, Pa.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

After two bad seasons, it looks as though onion sets might be a good speculation this year.

According to reports from Seattle, the delay in the delivery of the last of the season's shipments of Formosa lily bulbs has been due to the grounding of the steamer bringing them into that port.

The Vegetable Growers' Association of America, in connection with its convention at Detroit last week, visited the seed farm of D. M. Ferry & Co. September 11 and the Grass Lake farm of the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co. September 13.

Candidums from the north of France are in, but the stock is below average in size. There never is enough of this thick-petaled type to go around and practically the entire supply now comes from one Paris shipper. The south of France stock is another story.

The latest reports from Japan do not indicate lower prices for giganteums. On the other hand, they make it appear that earlier predictions of shortage will be more than realized. It is said that when some of those who had bought the stock in the field came to dig their purchases they were shocked to find how little they had got.

DUTCH BULBS.

The steamer Gorredijk, from Rotterdam, docked at Hoboken September 20. It brought the following consignments of bulbs:

Consignee	Cases
Stumpp & Walter Co.	115
Maltus & Ware	37
C. J. Hunt	13
McHutchison & Co.	106
Henderson, P., & Co.	52
Bernard, Judae & Co.	14
Downing & Co.	127
Van Doorn, W.	155
Total	619
Previously reported	3,143
Total to date	3,762

The Nieuw Amsterdam arrived September 23, but the manifest, showing the quantities of bulbs on board, was not filed at the customhouse in New York in time for this issue of The Review.

The earlier shipments of Dutch bulbs, for distribution in the middle and far west, began arriving at Chicago last week, were inspected and passed by the Illinois inspection authorities and released from the further operation of the quarantine regulations.

CALIFORNIA SEED CROPS.

The prevailing dry season, which obtained in California from February until harvesting time, has had a tendency to mature the crops somewhat earlier than usual. Seed of all of the crops except those which always mature later in the season is on the drying sheets or is being threshed. Recleaning of some kinds of seed has begun and the growers expect to be ready to make shipments somewhat earlier than last fall.

It appears that the actual yield per acre for most crops will not exceed the estimates made earlier in the season. The onion burn in the Delta district has proved more severe in some fields than was anticipated, and considerable light seed is floating off. Indications are that stock of garden peas for planting will be short in some varieties, as many fields did not yield over fifty per cent.

Summer and winter squash are reported to have made good progress throughout the state. Growers in the Delta district now anticipate a normal yield. The condition of the seed bean crop has not improved. Growers are certain that the yield will fall below normal.

In southern California the growers began harvesting tomatoes and peppers for seed during the latter part of August. The season has been fairly satisfactory to date and a normal yield is anticipated, depending, of course, upon favorable climatic conditions during the rest of September and October.

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

"This is ideal weather for drying the corn," observed Manager G. L. Kurtzweil, of the Iowa Seed Co., Des Moines, Ia. "A beautiful harvest is looked for, with excellent seed." The subject of fertilizers has been a study with Mr. Kurtzweil, whose paper, as given in The Review recently, was appreciatively received by the State Florists' Association.

"Corn is our specialty," remarked Manager Pomeroy, of the Nebraska Seed Co., Omaha. "While farm seeds form a part of our line, we revel in corn and the outlook is one of the best for many seasons."

William Currie, of Currie Bros. Co., Milwaukee, has greatly benefited from a rest following the most strenuous season on record. An optimistic view of the coming season was emphatically expressed and agreed with by Ray Currie, the junior partner.

The Everette R. Peacock Co., Chicago, notes with satisfaction the extending of the florists' flower seed department. There are rumors of a permanent extension beyond Chicago in the early future.

J. J. Sluis, of the Sluis Seed Store, Chicago, is still in Holland in the interests of his house. From reports received, there will be a good supply of leading lines in small seeds, both flower and vegetable.

This Photo of Stocks a Wistaria lavender of great beauty, admired by many Florists and Gardeners, was taken in early April. Plants were planted in January and grown during the exceptionally cold nights of January and February with no heat or forcing of any kind, to a height of three feet and over. Fully 85 per cent double, branching from 10 to 14 spikes; on one plant 160 blooms were counted. WISTARIA-LAVENDER, per 1000 seeds, $1.50. OUR LIGHT PINK AND WHITE, of 70 per cent double, while not so good, are worth trying. Price per 1000 seeds, $1.00.

W. T. Philipps, of the W. T. Philipps Co., Toledo, O., was caught on the fly on his way to Duluth, partly on business and partly on pleasure. The firm is a large handler of heavy field seeds and predicts firm prices for some time yet.

"A bit too warm," is the opinion of Robert Griswold, of the Griswold Seed & Nursery Co., Lincoln, Neb., "but you know the best of us are sometimes a little off in prognosticating. Anyhow, the readers of The Review may depend upon enough seed to go around. Yes, we peruse its columns weekly and always find something of interest. The Nursery Trade Department is steadily increasing." W. M.

MARKET DIRECTOR IS WRONG.

In The Review of September 4 an item in the department of Seed Trade News stated that ninety per cent of the acreage of certain vegetable seeds grown in California is now in the hands of Japanese farmers, according to the office of State Market Director Harris Weinstock.

According to information contained in the Seed Reporter, published by the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Markets, under date of August 9, the total acreage of tomato seed grown in California is 745 acres. Of this acreage we know of at least 600 acres in Los Angeles and Orange counties which are not under the control of Japanese, as they are being farmed exclusively by ourselves and another seed firm of American people.

We are not in a position to state regarding other varieties of vegetable seeds grown in this state, but feel certain that the acreage of tomato seed grown in California which is controlled by Japanese is a small percentage of the whole. Haven Seed Co.

The Market.

Stock shows continued improvement, although roses are not yet equal to what florists would like to have them or to what they will be later in the season. More are coming in steadily. Asters and gladioli are almost gone for this season, with just a few late ones coming in. Garden flowers of all kinds are almost a thing of the past for this year. The asters and dahlias in this part of the country were not equal to those of other years, due to the extreme heat and dryness. Carnations are coming in a few at a time, but they are short-stemmed and still small. Some of the retailers have been receiving chrysanthemums from California and have been able to use them in one way or another, but are not enthusiastic over the shipments, as the blooms have to be so immature at the time of cutting that they do not come out well at the end of the journey.

Prices for last week were: Russell, Columbia and Premier, $8 to $12 per hundred; Ophelia, $4 to $8 per hundred. Carnations were $3 per hundred. The short supply of asters remaining brings $2 per hundred and gladioli $6 per hundred.

Various Notes.

J. A. Harzfeld, formerly city counselor of Kansas City, who held the rank of captain in the military intelligence division of the general staff and acted as one of the military attaches at Archangel, has returned to Kansas City. In recounting some of his experiences in Russia, Mr. Harzfeld said that while he was walking down a street in Archangel last May a man called out to him, "What are you doing here, Kansas City?" The man was Captain Oren J. Rose, a British aviator. Captain Rose is a brother-in-law of Fred Fromhold. Captain Rose left here in 1915 to join the British aviation forces and has been in Russia for some time. Mr. Fromhold says that he is still in Archangel.

Hugo Neff expects to hold the formal opening of his new flower shop, the Muehlebach, September 29. The shop will be one of the most attractive in the city. All of the interior will be white.

Among the visitors in the city last week were: Mrs. J. J. Brady, Frankfort, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Moss, Vinita, Okla.; W. J. Baker, Fort Worth, Tex.; Mr. Robinson, Emporia, Kan., and Mr. King, Burlington, Kan.

The Market.

Each week now sees a larger quantity of flowers coming into the market, and a larger variety for customers to select from. The early yellow chrysanthemums have made their appearance. Dahlias are plentiful and of fine quality. Cosmos is coming into the market in larger quantities. Asters are also plentiful. The general run of prices is low compared with the high price level all last season.

Various Notes.

H. A. Strobell finds business still a little quiet. The end of the dull season is at hand, however, and most Newark florists look for a fine fall season.

Fred Philips, of Philips Bros., 938 Broad street, has returned from his vacation, which was spent at North Asbury Park, on the Jersey coast. He spent considerable time casting for big sea fish and succeeded in catching an 8-pound striped bass, besides a number of smaller fish. He reports that the fishing season along the coast proved unusually poor, although it started out well.

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Orders for Billboards.

A few inquiries are coming in regard to the billboard which our committees hope to supply shortly, but there should be many more. Anyone, of his own recollection, can point to a score or more sites owned by florists which would furnish grand opportunities for the display of billboard signs, and surely there are many owners of such sites who would not for a moment hesitate to pay the $50 asked for a sign, especially as such a sign ordered alone would cost about twice as much. The question has been asked whether anything besides the slogan may be painted on the sign. Yes. If a purchaser insists upon it, his name and address may appear on the sign as long as the slogan is left intact and entirely separate. A proper ruling as to this will be made at the meeting of our committees next month. Philip Breitmeyer, at the Detroit convention, said, "Billboards furnish the least expensive way of getting publicity that I know of, and I have worked at the problem for five years or more." On the same occasion Chairman George Asmus said, "Imagine 5,000 of these billboards on the principal roads and highways, on the railroads and in other places, and what it will mean for our slogan and for our business! An expert on this line told me that we were the most fortunate people in the world, that we had an asset in these sites that would cost outsiders hundreds of thousands of dollars to get, as we already had the sites. I want to say that I have 200 orders for these signs right now from the men I have talked to about them." The men Mr. Asmus referred to were mostly located in Cook county, Illinois.

Shall Illinois become the prime mover in this excellent project when there are as many or more sites available in other states? This question is put to all those florists in other sections who are known to have sites, and who it is reasonable to suppose would, in their own interests, be willing to use them for this laudable purpose. Our committees would like to hear from these florists without delay, as arrangements for supply must be completed at the meeting of the committees in Buffalo October 15. Just notify your secretary whether one or more signs could be placed.

Send in Contribution.

Every day now brings warm congratulations on the success of our campaign. The William Roethke Floral Co., Saginaw, Mich., in sending in an additional subscription, writes: "The campaign has helped us, and we cheerfully pay, his promise that within two months he would swell the Canadian subscription to the fund with $1,000 additional, "Just think, the man who subscribes $10 a year is only giving 20 cents a week. What does that amount to weekly? We throw more than that away in cigars every day—most of us at least. Therefore, you who have not already subscribed, just consider that if you give $50 a year it only amounts to $1 weekly."

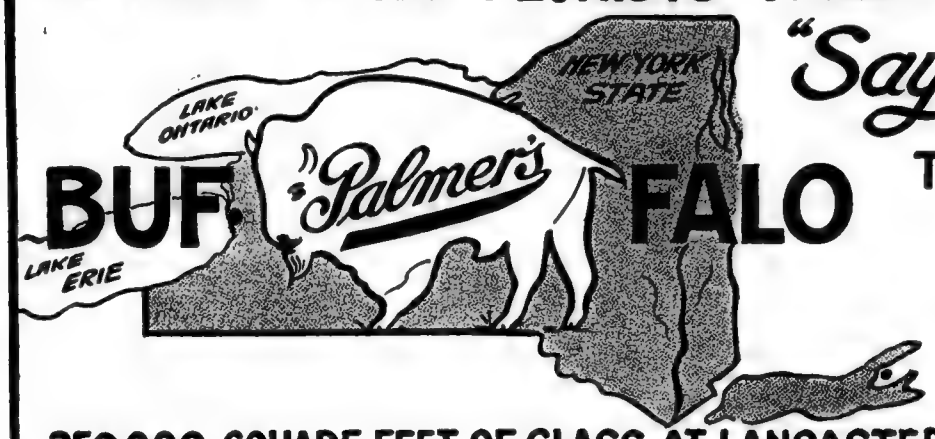
Why not get in line at once and contribute whatever you think you can afford? Make one, two or three payments in a year if it suits you better.

John Young, Sec'y.

HINTS AND SUGGESTIONS.

How are present conditions being met by the florists generally? Are you taking into consideration the existing conditions relative to salaries, shorter hours, higher prices, increased overhead and the many other matters constantly arising from developments in other lines of industry which have been and still are undergoing reforms which we are bound to have?

Of course there are times when we feel that merchandise we buy is not low enough; may that not be the cause of what we sell being too high? Then again, conditions vary according to circumstances which enable one section of our country to produce and market at a lower or higher cost than another section.



Have you considered the need of something to help boost your sales and increase their volume so as to solve some of these perplexities? Why not try the publicity campaign idea so much discussed by the florists during the last year or two? Do you not believe that the publicity campaign now going on in connection with your own local advertising would give you results, provided you spend sufficient and use it often enough to prove that results will be helpful?

The Chinese have an old proverb, that a man without a smiling face must not open a shop. It sounds good. Grouches never held customers long.

How about a man expecting to do business without informing the public that he has flowers to sell today and every other day? Would you go through life without having life insurance? Why try to do business without business insurance? Advertising is simply business insurance, except that the returns are greater for the amount expended. By using the latter you will be more than able to get the price of the former. Cultivate new ideas and try them out. Be ready to grasp liberal ideas and use them so that all will benefit. And above everything else keep your publicity movement going, so that "Say It with Flowers" reaches its proper pedestal, where everyone, including yourself, will be well rewarded.
Henry Penn, Chairman National Publicity Campaign.

DULUTH, MINN.

The Market.

With the coming of September business showed a little improvement; garden flowers were especially plentiful. There has not been much demand for cut flowers, and funeral work has been depended upon to use up the surplus stock. Carnations are scarce and of poor quality. Asters are exceptionally good, and some extra fine Cregos are being displayed by the Duluth florists and sold at good prices. Gladioli are plentiful and in fine condition, America and Francis King being the most popular varieties. Valley is still out of sight; the retail price is about $4 per dozen and many florists are using artificial valley for wedding bouquets rather than pay such high prices for real valley, which is poor stock at any rate. Cattleyas are a thing of the past for Duluth; the retail price is $4 each, and they are decidedly uncertain at that. Roses are improving right along. Russell, Ophelia and Columbia are good and retail at $3 to $6 per dozen. Killarney and Sunburst are still of poor quality. Sweet peas are about over, since the cold nights seem to have taken all the color out of them, and the stems are short. Few dahlias are seen here, because the season is so short that the growers have lost all patience with them and few are grown. French bulbs, such as Paper Whites and freesias, are beginning to move, and we are anxiously awaiting the arrival of Dutch bulbs. The bulb business has been negligible during the last two years and a great revival along this line during the fall is expected. As usual about this time of the year, the ferns are beginning to move, with the Boston as the leading seller. Kentias, too, are in demand and some good plants are seen.

Various Notes.

A city ordinance went into effect September 15 compelling all retail merchants to close their stores at 9:30 p. m. on Saturdays and 6 p. m. on other weekdays, and it caused much confusion among the florists. Some closed and others kept open. An arrest has been made, however, and a test case to be tried this week will settle the question one way or the other.

The Duluth Floral Co. is making alterations at the back of its store with a view to extending the seed department. The floor space in this department was limited and the amount of business done last spring by the department warranted more room.

Miss Mary J. Austin, of Duluth Heights, has been cutting some fine sweet peas for the last six weeks, including such varieties as Hercules, Countess Spencer and Florence Nightingale; they had good, long stems and found a ready sale. She is contemplating building another greenhouse this fall, which would enable her to grow more spring stock.

J. J. Le Borious has had a fine crop of gladioli, which have been as good as any seen in Duluth for some years; he is now on his last cut.

Mrs. Eichen, wife of the late M. Eichen, who was in the florists' business in Duluth for many years, is here on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. E. P. Kriemer, of the Duluth Floral Co. Mrs. Eichen resides in Los Angeles with her son, who is in the employ of the Angelus Flower Shop. J. E. S.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

As the season advances there seems to be a little more life at the leading floral establishments, but nothing rushing as yet. The few warm days during the last week caused business to slacken and but for a number of good-sized funeral orders the week would have been classed as a dull one for the retailers.

Transient trade was beginning to pick up, but it was far from satisfactory. The first part of the week the market had plenty of everything in season, but during the latter part the supply became short and prices advanced on choice stock.

Roses are becoming better each week, especially Russell and Ophelia, and some really fancy stock is now coming in from local growers. Beauties are scarce in this market, as none are grown vance should also be in by that time. There is still an abundance of asters daily. They seem to sell better, at a little advance in price. Dahlias are now beginning to come in regularly. The fancy varieties clean up at good prices, but these are limited to a few hundred. The common sorts are more plentiful and much cheaper. Gladioli and tuberose spikes are still coming in quite heavily, but the end is in sight with the coming of chrysanthemums.

There is much outdoor stock coming in, but little demand for it. There are calls daily for valley, Easter lilies and orchids, but the market is still clear of these. Common flat ferns became scarce at the end of the week, but relief is expected this week with new shipments. Asparagus and other greens sold well at usual prices.

Various Notes.

The Retail Florists' Association held its regular meeting September 15 at the Mission Inn. President F. C. Weber, Jr., presided. All the officers were present and the attendance was quite encouraging. It seems the association has taken on a new lease of life and there was a great deal of business transacted for the good of the retail florist. Talks on publicity, Sunday closing and the coming F. T. D. meeting brought out excellent discussions, in which all took part. It was by far the most interesting meeting the association has held this year.

The florists' publicity committee held an excellently attended meeting September 16 at headquarters, 1316 Pine street. Chairman Bourdet opened the meeting at 2 o'clock and, after cleaning up the accumulated business since the last meeting, fall and winter advertising was brought up for discussion. It was decided to use only signboard and newspaper advertising for the coming season. The cost was decided to be $3,000. The trade in all its branches must coöperate with this committee to carry out this plan. The members of this committee who belong to the various trade organizations will bring this matter up in their meetings. The secretary's report of the finances shows the committee will have a good start when the work begins early in October. It was decided that this committee, consisting of fifteen members, will meet the second and fourth Tuesday of each month at 8 p. m. at headquarters.

The meeting of the St. Louis County Growers' Association which takes place Wednesday night, October 1, is of great importance, say President Charles Meier and Secretary Deutschmann.

Frank Windler, Fred Hermann, George Kuehner and J. J. Benzen have been active recently getting members of the trade to join the florists' bowling league and have been quite successful, as enough to form four teams have been secured. A meeting has been called for September 24, to be held at the salesroom of the Windler Wholesale Floral Co. A few of the old-timers will be on hand to teach the beginners the game.

The executive committee of the Missouri State Florists' Association will meet this week in Kansas City, Mo. The meeting will take place at the store of the Pinehurst Floral Co., 1109 Grand avenue. Plans will be perfected for the first convention of the association, to be held in Kansas City the first week in November.

Sam Seligman, representing Schloss Bros., New York, called on the trade last week. Mr. Seligman had with him Mrs. Seligman. S. Dernison, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, and L. F. Darnell, representing the F. T. D., also spent a few days here calling on the trade.

Samuel Roth, manager for the Famous-Barr flower department, had a run of good business last week, furnishing designs for several store openings. Business has been good here under Mr. Roth's management.

The Giebel Floral Co., which recently purchased the Bleekert range on Labadie avenue, is planning to build a large show house in front of the greenhouses, facing Labadie avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Kingsley, in company with the Misses Seeger, are away on a ten days' trip through western Missouri. Martin Seeger, head of the downtown store of Mullanphy Florists, reports business excellent during the last week.

The big canna display planted by F. H. Weber opposite his store at Taylor and Olive streets is now in full bloom and attracts a great deal of attention. The variety planted is King Humbert.

The Missouri Botanical Garden will, as usual, hold monthly shows this season, displaying seasonable blooming plants. The big conservatory is being put in shape for the first show, which begins next month.

A new establishment, known as the Aurora, recently opened at Grand and Florissant avenues. Fred Koenig, the head of the company, reports satisfactory business since the opening.

A. E. Michel, Joe Hauser, Kalisch Bros., Henry Jennemann and A. Davis, dahlia specialists, are expecting a big cut of fancy varieties and an abundance of the common sorts. They began supplying the market last week.

The St. Louis Seed Co. received a large shipment of fall bulbs last week, which kept the big force busy filling advance orders for both local and outside shipments.

All the wholesale houses began September 15 to close at 5 p. m. The half day holiday on Saturday, in force all summer, stopped on that date. The usual half day Sunday is still in force.

Oscar May, of Sappington, Mo., reports that his new range of glass is now completed. Mr. May has 42,000 square feet of glass. He will grow carnations and sweet peas for the local market.

Andrew Hoffmann, manager for George Waldbart, who has been away for a ten days' vacation trip, has returned and is ready for the busy season to open.

John Held is building a show house facing Tennessee avenue. He is also rebuilding two of his old houses. The chrysanthemums, both for pot plants and for cut flowers, are in excellent condition. Several houses of fine ferns were also noticed here. J. J. B.

FLORICULTURE AT CORNELL.

Registrations are now being made for the short course in floriculture at Cornell University, which begins Wednesday, November 5, and closes with Farmers' week, February 9 to 13. This is an opportunity for men interested in floricultural work to get much of value in a comparatively short time. There are classes for commercial florists as well as amateurs. The winter courses are business and occupational courses, not academic; hence there are no examinations for admission.

In the distinctly professional courses in floriculture, in addition to the instruction in commercial flower growing, greenhouse practice, greenhouse construction and heating, courses in agricultural chemistry, soils, plant diseases and injurious insects are required. Students also have a wide range of other subjects from which to elect courses. Each week during the term a practical specialist in some branch of floriculture will give the students a talk from everyday experiences.

For any information regarding the course write the secretary of the College of Agriculture, Cornell University,

The Market.

The market in this vicinity kept up well last week, and on some days business was quite active. Most of the schools and colleges have reopened for the winter. People who left the city for the summer months are returning, so that business from now on should steadily increase. Everyone appears to be quite gratified with the way business has kept up, and in some instances last summer was the best the trade has ever had. Weather conditions on the whole have kept things moving comfortably and the fall has opened up with good prospects.

Stock at the present time is slowing up a little. Gladioli of the finer grades are fast disappearing for the season; without doubt it has been one of the finest years for gladioli ever experienced. Some of the later varieties are reaching us; they are quite good and sell well. The supply of asters is not so large and will all be needed to meet the demand occasioned by "the blessing of the graves," a Catholic custom in this vicinity; the ceremony will be held Sunday, September 28, when literally thousands and thousands of asters of all grades, in fact about everything in sight, will be used for the decorating of the graves in the Catholic cemeteries. After the event, asters will be scarcer and will make good prices.

The supply of roses keeps up well and finds a good demand. Premier, Evelyn, Russell, Ward, Hoosier Beauty, Ophelia, Maryland, Killarney and Sunburst are all of good quality and move well. The supply of carnations is becoming better and stock is good, although short-stemmed. Orchids are good and the demand is equal to the supply. The supply of gypsophila continues to be good. Candytuft, zinnia, calendula, mignonette, cosmos, larkspur, gaillardia, phlox, buddleia, helianthus and coreopsis conneral work and weddings. His store is quite attractive looking, with a well kept window which has a new arrangement almost every day.

All the uptown department stores held their fall openings last week and consequently made many of the florists busy. Palms, ferns and large baskets of cut flowers were in much demand. Gladioli, which at the beginning of the week were quite plentiful, were used to advantage.

Jacob Thomann & Sons have grown some fine gladioli, including Rochester White, which has been much in demand for funeral work.

The greenhouse of Harry Merritt, of St. Paul boulevard, is looking well with fine carnation plants, from which he is cutting some good blooms. He is particularly successful with White Wonder and Pink Delight, from which his cuts last season were larger than ever before.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Business last week showed a slight improvement in volume, and reports continue more encouraging as to future opportunities for decorative work in connection with social functions. Since Labor day there have been an unusual number of small weddings, which have kept the florists busy. A large number of announcements have been made this month of coming weddings that are on a large scale and much work is anticipated.

At present good business is being done and there is an increasing supply each week. Outdoor blooms are nearly gone, as light frosts were reported last week in the lowlands of the outlying districts. Meanwhile the growers are beginning to see their first cuts only a comparatively few days off, and everybody is ready for a busy season.

Various Notes.

The greenhouses of Drabble Bros., Woonsocket, are being offered for sale to settle the property.

The Market.

Business in cut flowers has been brisk, especially for funeral work. Several new stores, including a grocery and meat market, opened last week and caused a great demand for baskets of flowers. Several beautiful horseshoes were used.

There was a sharp frost September 17, which killed many of the more tender plants in streaks. A real killing frost at this time would make stock scarce, as indoor flowers are not yet plentiful. People are now beginning to look to their grounds and are preparing for improvements, shrubbery planting, etc.

Various Notes.

The A. G. Pollard d partment store purchased 500 ferns of various kinds from the Harvey B. Greene conservatories. They were of different sizes and suitable for small and large pocketbooks.

Mr. Putnam, of Putnam & Son, has been confined to his home by illness. Their carnations are in the pink of condition and will shortly be giving a good account of themselves. Mr. Parker, the foreman, is a grower of the old school, and his experience combined with their fine equipment produces excellent results.

J. J. McManm n's store has had the novel experience (after having been in operation for thirty years in the same locality) of having two high-class concerns open up for business, one on each side of it. The store naturally came in for a fair share of the resultant business. This firm is cutting asters heavily from a patch of several thousand plants, which were planted on a hillside at the farm for the latest cutting, and the experiment, judging from present cuts, was a success.

Tom McManus, of J. J. McManmon's greenhouses, is back at work after the accident which broke his arm August 30.

Morse & Beals are having a large a nount of out-of-town orders, in addition to good local business. Consequently, they have had to get more help recently. E. E. R.

Peoria, Ill.—Siebenthal & Nelson are preparing to put in a complete new retail equipment and have contracted with the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, for the fixtures, which are to include an English wall case for the display of accessories. The color scheme is to be in two-tone ivory. NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

HOLSINGER BROS., Rosedale, Kan., paid $3,750 last week for a 125-foot frontage on the north side of Ward parkway, Wyandotte and Central streets, Kansas City.

BECAUSE nurserymen were busy winning the war in other ways and devoted a good share of their land to food crops, there is not the usual quantity of 1-year-old stock this fall.

THE news that John Watson has accepted the position of executive secretary of the A. A. N. is welcomed by the trade. He assumes the duties of F. F. Rockwell and relieves Charles Sizemore of all those except such as pertain to traffic matters.

H. G. COTTON, 638 New Call building, San Francisco, is working on plans for new parks for the cities of Colton, Marysville and Colusa, Cal. The scheme for Colusa includes the development of new school grounds as a fitting setting for the buildings recently erected. Bids for trees will be asked by Mr. Cotton in the near future.

ARRANGEMENTS were recently completed at Marysville, Cal., for the establishment of a large nursery in the Yuba river bottoms in the Hallwood district. The purchasing company contemplates the establishment of between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 trees, the stock to include all varieties of deciduous fruit. The names of the interested members of the new company will be given out at a later date.

NURSERYMEN in the vicinity of Porterville, Cal., report that Tuscan peach trees are practically off the market and that the supply of Phillips and Peaks is strictly limited. As a result of this shortage, it has been found necessary to change a number of plans for new peach plantings. Interest has been diverted toward prunes and Thompson grapes and, according to present indications, a heavy planting of these fruits will be established in the district surrounding Porterville in the spring.

SOUTHWESTERN ASSOCIATION.

Meets at Denison, Tex.

The second annual convention of the Southwestern Association of Nurserymen was held at Denison, Tex., September 24 and 25, in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

The greater part of the association is from Texas, but the states of Oklahoma, Arkansas and Kansas were also represented. Particular phases of the nursery trade affecting this section most formed a principal part of the discussion. Cost of production, legal aspects and post-war reconstruction were also topics of much interest.

The Program.

The address of welcome, at the opening session, Wednesday morning, September 24, was delivered by J. R. Westbrook, of Denison. J. M. Ramsey, of Austin, responded. After the secretary's report, President W. A. Wagner, of Sherman, Tex., delivered his address.

The program of the afternoon session was as follows:

"Report from American Association of Nurserymen," by J. R. Mayhew, Waxahachie, Tex.
"The Cost of Producing and Handling Trees," by E. M. Henderson, Athens, Tex.
"The Need for Wholesale Production of Evergreens in the Southwest," by J. B. Baker, Fort Worth, Tex.
"Landscape Gardening in Relation to the Nursery Business," by Edward Teas, Houston, Tex.
"Horticulture in the Public Schools," by Jim Parker, Tecumseh, Okla.
"Laws and Appropriations for Regulating the Nursery and Orchard Business," by J. R. Mayhew, Waxahachie, Tex.
"The Arkansas Nursery Fraud Act" by Geo. Parker, Fayetteville, Ark.
"The Effect of Quarantine No. 37 Upon American Nursery Interests," E. P. Bernardin, Parsons, Kan.
"Present Supply and Danger of Overproduction of Nursery Stock," by C. C. Mayhew, Sherman, Tex.
"What Protection Should the Producer of New Varieties Have for His Products?" Discussion led by A. H. Ballard, Piggott, Ark.

On Thursday the following program of addresses was followed:

"Rose Growing," by A. C. Franklin, Rockdale, Tex.
"Rebuilding the Orchards of East Texas," by Louis J. Tackett, Austin, Tex.
"A Look Into 1920," by John S. Kerr, Sherman, Tex.
"Pecan Trees as a Salesman's Leader," by R. H. Bushway, Beaumont, Tex.
"The Nurseryman's Part in After-War Reconstruction," by E. W. Kirkpatrick, McKinney, Tex.
"Summer Planting and a Year-Around Income," by W. C. Griffing, Port Arthur, Tex.
"Improvement in the Standard of Salesmanship," by J. T. Foote, Durant, Okla.
"Labor Problems," discussion led by J. A. Lopeman, Enid, Okla.

ARBORISTS RENEW ACTIVITY.

The American Academy of Arborists, which suspended its meetings during the war, has renewed its activities and is again prepared to disseminate scientific information on the planting and growing of trees. This is especially needed at this period of reconstruction.

The academy held its first meeting in 1915, choosing for its object the advancement of arboriculture and landscape forestry and the maintenance of the highest professional standard among its members. Its membership is now extensively distributed throughout the United States. At its last meeting, held at the Zoölogical park, New York, September 5, it was voted to refer important inquiries on all tree matters to the nearest regional member.

After many interesting discussions on tree problems, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"I. That the American Academy of Arborists endorses and strongly urges the planting of trees as memorials commemorating the heroes of the world war, but strongly advises the careful selection of species native and suitable for the location." In discussing this resolution, the prevailing members favored the sturdy, long-lived varieties, characteristic of American ideals, and particularly discouraged the quick-growing and weak varieties.

"II. That the American Academy of Arborists endorses the action of the Federal Horticultural Board to prevent the further importation of plant pests, but urges the representation on the board of practical arborists and foresters.

"III. That the American Academy of Arborists endorses the work of the American joint committee of horticultural nomenclature in standardizing scientific and common plant names for use of arborists and horticulturists and obligates itself to the use of these standardized names as published by said committee."

It was decided to hold the next meeting in Washington, on the second Saturday of January, 1920.

J. J. Levison, Sec'y.

STOCK SCARCE.

In sending out its autumn price list, Jackson & Perkins Co., Newark, N. Y., attaches a poster which shows the trend in the nursery trade. It reads:

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Because of heavy sales made while our price list was in the hands of the printer and because of shortages on earlier field estimates, we have decided to withdraw all offers for the present on the following articles:

Hybrid Tea Roses.
Hybrid Perpetual Roses.
Large-flowering Clematis.
Tree-form Hydrangeas.
Currants.
Gooseberries.
Cherries.
Plums.

We hope to have some additional supplies of these lines to offer after the stock has been dug, graded and accurately counted late this fall, but we think it unsafe to accept any more orders while depending on field estimates of our supplies.

Almost every day there are reports of concerns which find themselves oversold and in an insecure position because they have acknowledged the acceptance of orders beyond their ability to deliver.

The Market.

Market conditions continue mainly inactive. In fact, it is surprising that the market should be slow for so long a time after a particularly good summer. About the only activity is funeral work, an occasional wedding and now and then an entertainment decoration. Counter sales, which usually begin to increase at this time of year, are so few that they are not worth mentioning. Most counter sales are made to the working class of people and the fewness of them at this time is thought by some to be due to the high prices of everyday necessities. It is thought that when the public has become used to the higher price level, counter sales will again play an important part in the day's business.

As cooler weather comes, stock improves in quality. During the week a fair supply of American Beauty roses has been handled. Other roses, white excepted, have moved extremely slowly. White roses have not been plentiful, only enough arriving to supply the demand for fall weddings. Some Easter lilies have appeared, but they are not in sufficient quantity to be of importance. What have come in have sold for $3 per dozen. Asters are good and have been steady in price since the large supply of poor ones has been eliminated. Gladioli are plentiful, but show a marked decrease in supply. Calendulas, cosmos and centaureas are slow at 15 cents per bunch of twenty-five. Fancy ferns have advanced slightly. Asparagus is equal to the demand.

Various Notes.

Roman Olrzewski is reported seriously ill.

Most of the shops are again open on Sunday.

The Cleveland cherry will play an import part in the Christmas plant list. Many plantings of these are in fine condition. F. P. A.

The Market.

Stock is scarce. Roses are more in evidence than anything else, and with the tightening of the supply of other stock they have risen somewhat in price. They range from $3 to $15 per hundred. Asters are limited in good grades and are gradually going. Gladioli are also on the decline. A few good ones are yet available, but these are quickly utilized. The local cut of summer stock is practically at an end.

All flowers are in good demand; business has been brisk and all available good stock has been taken up. A few more carnations are gradually appearing, but as yet make only $1 and $2 per hundred because of their short stems. Chrysanthemums in some of the local store windows are attractive in appearance, but these are yet rare and high of price.

Plants would be good sellers if there were more of them; they are limited in both variety and number. Green goods have been about equal to the demand. Fern leaves are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Herman Piel, former superintendent of the range of the Bertermann Bros. Co. on East Washington street, now has charge of the conservatories at the downtown store, being succeeded by Mr. Bender, Sr. The new house at Cumberland is being planted to roses.

Albert Hitz has been cutting some excellent Columbia roses.

Hartje & Elder have been cutting some fine Laddie carnations with 18-inch to 20-inch stems. E. E. T.

Greenhouse Heating

Subscribers are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

PIPING HOUSE AND LEAN-TO.

My greenhouse is 29x100 feet, with a lean-to, 10x100 feet, on the east side. The lean-to has three feet of cement and eighteen inches of glass in the east wall, while the west wall of the greenhouse proper has five feet of glass and three feet of wood. The boiler is located near the middle of the south end of the main house. There is the equivalent of 5,400 square feet of glass, and 1,436 square feet of radiation will be required to heat it to 55 degrees. The boiler is rated for 2,325 square feet of radiation, and will use soft coal.

How many flows will be needed? What size should they be and where should they be placed? How many 2-inch returns should be used, and where should the coils be located?

W. R. L.—Ohio.

For the main house we should use three 2½-inch overhead mains, with ten 2-inch pipes for the returns. In the narrow house use two 2½-inch pipes as flows, and four 2-inch returns. Place one flow pipe on each side plate and arrange the other pipes under the benches.

STEAM HEATING GUIDES.

Please tell me where I can get the best book on steam heating.

My new houses are to be four connected houses, 25x175 feet, with 9-foot gutters and 17-foot ridge. The north side of the houses is to be boarded up, and the south side is to have six feet of glass and three feet of boards. I want to heat them to 60 degrees when the outside temperature is zero. What size of boiler will it take and how much radiation? What size should the steam main flow be? Would 4-inch pipe be all right? What size of return main should I have? L. K. M.—Pa.

For information upon heating greenhouses, by either steam or hot water, we should recommend "Greenhouse Construction," by L. R. Taft. "Greenhouse Management," by the same author, also deals to some extent with the heating of greenhouses for special purposes, as well as with the culture of the leading florists' crops, including greenhouse vegetables. Either of these books will be sent, postpaid, from this office for $1.50.

For the four houses described we should use a steam boiler rated for fifty horsepower. For low-pressure steam we should start from the boiler with a 5-inch main, and where it branches would run a 4-inch main in either direction, reducing them to three inches after taking off the first house. A 3-inch

"FARNSWORTH EQUIPPED" FLORISTS MAY FIGURE ON COAL AT $5.00 A TON

This is a conservative estimate of the money actually saved florists in the majority of installations of the Farnsworth Closed System for handling condensation. A saving of 20 per cent of the coal pile by the use of the Farnsworth machines is not unusual. Florists soon pay for the installation with the money saved—then they earn dividends. You are taking no chance with the Farnsworth System, for every machine sold leaves our factory under the Farnsworth guarantee to give service and satisfaction—in fact, to do all that we have claimed for it.

The Farnsworth Duplex Boiler Feeder---front view of 3-inch machine, showing duplex receiving and delivery check valves.

Place the Farnsworth Duplex Boiler Feeder above your boilers ---discharge all your high pressure traps directly into it. Any L. P. condensation you have in scattered buildings drain to a Farnsworth Condensation pump, which will pump it to this Duplex Boiler feeder. By this closed system all condensation is held under pressure and fed directly into boilers at a high temperature.

The Farnsworth Duplex Boiler Feeder—rear view of 3 inch machine, showing steam and vent connections, controlling alternate chambers. While one side is discharging the condensation under pressure the other side is filling. It works with a continuous automatic flow.

Buy the Quality Boiler Feeder—The Duplex Pump

Hundreds of letters telling of splendid Farnsworth service in plants all over the country, are testimonials from others to prove every statement we make concerning our successful installations to be true. Don't waste coal, money and labor with a faulty system when this opportunity is at your door. Join the ranks of the Farnsworth boosters. Write explaining conditions at your plant.

main should run to each house. The return mains should be 1½-inch, 2-inch and 2½-inch, respectively.

Within the houses we should run a 2-inch main upon each plate, with five 1¼-inch returns upon each wall or under the side benches, except in the south house, where there should be an extra return on the south wall.

For many crops it is desirable to have a little bottom heat under the benches. If it is to be used in these houses we should run three 1½-inch flows in each house, carrying the third flow five feet below the ridge. It will then only be necessary to use nine returns, except in the south house, which will require ten. Three of the returns may be placed under the benches.

Valves will be required upon each of the flows in the houses and also upon the returns. They should also be upon about one-half of the pipes in the coils and it is generally advisable to be able to cut off the radiation under the benches.

Automatic air valves will be needed near the lower end of each coil. Unless the water level of the boiler is three feet below the lowest part of the returns, either a steam trap or pump will be required to return the condensed steam.

HEATING BY NATURAL GAS.

I want to erect a small house, of which I am sending a sketch, for starting early vegetable plants. It is to be principally under ground. I have natural gas in my cellar, about ten feet away. What size of burner and what kind of a boiler should I use? Would some kind of expansion tank do? Would you recommend 1-inch or 1¼-inch pipe? How many lines of pipe should there be for hot water? The temperature desired is 50 degrees, with an outside temperature seldom going below zero. O. C. S.—O.

The house appears to be eleven by fifteen feet, with but one foot of the walls above the grade line, and has a solid bed on each side of a walk running through the center of the house.

We have had no experience in heating a small greenhouse with natural gas and cannot advise regarding the size of the boiler, but since it will require only sixty feet of radiation to heat the greenhouse to 50 degrees, the burner need not be a large one.

A 5-gallon expansion tank may be used for the heater, with a 2½-gallon one for the expansion tank proper. Connect the expansion tank with the highest point in the system.

We would advise the use of a 1½-inch pipe as an overhead flow pipe and six 1¼-inch pipes on the walls. Two of the returns might be carried on either side of the middle walk.

Help Save the "White Coal of Industry"

The boiling hot water resulting from condensation in your steam lines is worth money. You have paid for it in terms of coal. It contains valuable heat units. It is the "White Coal of Industry"—it should not be wasted.

And it need not be wasted. The Morehead Back-to-Boiler System will save it for you by returning it to the boiler at temperatures as high as 400 degrees Fahrenheit. It reduces coal consumption an average of 20%. At the same time your steam will be "drier" and more efficient; your production speeded up and profits increased.

PROVIDENCE DAHLIA SHOW.

The annual September exhibition of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society was held in the ballroom of the Narragansett hotel, Providence, September 18 and 19, and was as fine as any the society has ever held. Dahlias were the great feature and were extensively shown and the quality of all exhibits was superb. W. D. Hathaway, of New Bedford, captured first for 100 varieties of dahlias, including all types. Miss Nellie J. Gilson was a good second and John E. Howe, Providence, R. I., third. Other large exhibitors of dahlias were: C. Louis Alling, West Haven, Conn.; Arthur Sellar, William Steele, Auburn, R. I.; William Sweeney, Willimantic, Conn., and Joseph Nolet, New Bedford, Mass. The last named showed some superb flowers, including seedlings of exceptional quality.

A. T. Leuzon, South Attleboro, Mass., won the silver medal offered by the American Gladiolus Society for fifteen named gladioli, three spikes of each. T. J. Johnston & Co. showed an excellent group of palms and ferns and had charming baskets of gladioli, dahlias and other seasonable flowers. O. P. Chapman, Jr., Westerly, R. I., had a fine dahlia display, including some artistically arranged baskets. J. E. Howe, Providence, had an excellent group of hardy herbaceous flowers.

Fruits and vegetables were of excellent quality, and nearly all of the 224 classes in the schedule were competed for.

The attendance was excellent and the interest shown in dahlias was quite pronounced. W. N. Craig, Brookline, Mass., acted as judge. W. N. C.

The Market.

Business is keeping up well, though there is a lack of stock at the present time. This will probably continue until the chrysanthemums and other fall flowers are available.

Various Notes.

Dunlop's is filling the benches of the new greenhouse with mums. These will probably be a little late this year, but this delay will be a good thing, since they will be ready for the fall show to be held in Toronto during the week of November 10. Dunlop's is already making a survey for another greenhouse 450 feet long. Dunlop's has some beautiful roses, of which there will be a big supply. These are the Dunlop, white; the new yellow seedling and Ophelia.

The Bedford Park Florists are laying out the ground for their new greenhouses.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Association held its regular meeting September 16. The committee reported on the flower show at the Canadian national exhibition. Many suggestions were made for its improvement. One which met with general approval was that a greenhouse be built, in which tropical and rare plants could be housed. These would be a great education to the public. Cut flowers and nursery stock could be housed in an annex. Members of the association to the number of thirty visited the Oakville fair September 18, where they were the guests of the Oak ville Gardeners' and Florists' Association. There was a good display. The prizes for gladioli were awarded to F. E. Logan and Duncan Robertson.

J. J. Higgins has reopened his Pardale store, which was closed for the summer.

The next regular meeting of the Toronto Retail Florists' Club will be held October 13 and the first social night October 27, when the members will entertain their friends.

Harry James, secretary of the Retail Florists' Club, and Mrs. James have been spending a month at Pittsburgh, New York and Atlantic City.

Among the recent visitors to Toronto were: James Goodyear, Wingate, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. L. McKenna, Montreal; Mr. Edwards, Brockville, and J. F. Bruce, Hamilton. J. J. H.

The Market.

The leading flower on the market at present is the dahlia. Some of these are exceedingly good and bring as much as $2 and $3 per dozen. The new crop of American Beauty is in and sells readily at from $3 to $6 per dozen wholesale. Carnations bring $2 and $3 per hundred.

Business during the last summer has been all that could have been wished for. Funeral work, of course, was the leader, but all through the summer months there were good orders for wedding decorations and for flowers for general use.

Various Notes.

At the Anacostia range of Gude Bros. Co. are several thousand begonias in 5-inch and 6-inch pots and also several thousand cyclamens. The crop of poinsettias for Christmas is fine. Primroses are doing well also. The company is going in heavily on calla lilies, having planted about 10,000. Several thousand freesias are now in growth.

Adolph, Edgar and Edwin Gude recently made a trip to Point Lookout, about ninety miles down Chesapeake bay, where they were the guests of Mr. Edlin.

James R. Daly, of the force of Gude Bros. Co., has been spending his vacation in Virginia. Benjamin Carrick returned from his vacation last week and Robert Murdock left for his.

The Market.

Last week saw a slight change in the market, the first that has been noticed for some months. Up until now stock has been too plentiful, and a great amount of it has been wasted, but the latter part of last week found the market tightening up considerably. As yet there has been no frost, but the heavy rains of the last few days have spoiled nearly all the outdoor stock for the time being. Gladioli have stopped arriving in such large quantities as before, and asters are nearly exhausted. Calendulas, zinnias, bachelor's buttons, etc., are still good in quality, and dahlias are just commencing to reach normal. The first small outdoor mums have appeared and, though the quality has not been particularly good, they have moved well. Business has been rather slow as usual, with the exception of Saturdays, which make up for the rest of the week.

Various Notes.

Miss Edith Connors, of the Ohio Floral Co., was married last week to Frank Kelley.

Al Heil, formerly with the Jones & Russell Co., is now working for Al Barber at the Park Flower Shop.

M. Gasser Co.

Janesville, Wis.—H. G. Sewell has bought the business of George W. Rathjen, at Jefferson, Wis.

Manston, Wis.—Mrs. Margaret Coles finds the increasing demand makes it necessary for her to enlarge her facilities to handle it, as there is no greenhouse within fifty miles of here.

CHARCOAL

In Pots and Beds

The fertilizer value of charcoal in pots and beds is considerably greater in proportion to cost than any other single substance known.

In the proportion of one bushel of charcoal (extra fine, size 20) mixed with 16 bushels of earth, charcoal facilitates drainage, equalizes soil moisture, gives ventilation and supplies carbon dioxide, nitrogen and other gases necessary for plant nourishment.

'OLE PIT Charcoal is hearth-burned, hardwood, pure and clean. It retains its full chemical qualities, which retort-burned charcoal does not.

A Glazing Putty of Real Value

In all our experience and investigation we had never found a preparation for bulbing over the outside of a greenhouse that was quite satisfactory, until we ran across PERMANITE. This was about four years ago. At that time we set about investigating the merits of PERMANITE and proceeded to watch the results of its application to greenhouse roofs.

Last year we were entirely convinced of its high quality and durability, and accepted the western agency for the sale of these goods.

We applied PERMANITE to hundreds of greenhouse roofs, over almost every part of the United States.

The results obtained were highly satisfactory indeed. Glass roofs of all kinds, both old and new, were made water-tight and air-tight, saving thousands of plants from being spoiled by water dripping on them and saving many hundreds of tons of coal by making the roofs proof against the wind and storms of winter.

We give PERMANITE our unqualified endorsement and recommend it highly for all kinds of glazing.

We have a very large stock on hand in our warehouse and can ship immediately.

The Market.

Last week saw a slight change in the market, the first that has been noticed for some months. Up until now stock has been too plentiful, and a great amount of it has been wasted, but the latter part of last week found the market tightening up considerably. As yet there has been no frost, but the heavy rains of the last few days have spoiled nearly all the outdoor stock for the time being. Gladioli have stopped arriving in such large quantities as before, and asters are nearly exhausted. Calendulas, zinnias, bachelor's buttons, etc., are still good in quality, and dahlias are just commencing to reach normal. The first small outdoor mums have appeared and, though the quality has not been particularly good, they have moved well. Business has been rather slow as usual, with the exception of Saturdays, which make up for the rest of the week.

Various Notes.

Miss Edith Connors, of the Ohio Floral Co., was married last week to Frank Kelley.

Al Heil, formerly with the Jones & Russell Co., is now working for Al Barber at the Park Flower Shop.

Miss Hester Getz, of Westman & Getz, has purchased a new Dodge touring car, which she is learning to run.

A. DIETSCH Co., DEPT. "B." 2640 SHEFFIELD AVE. Chicago, Ill.

ALBANY, N. Y.

An account of the work of the florists in celebration of Honor day, September 13, appears on another page, with an illustration of the memorial in front of the Capitol and the many wreaths before it.

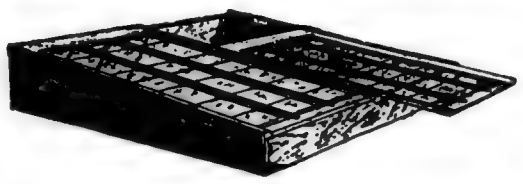
At a special meeting of the "Say It with Flowers" week committee, held at the Albany Cut Flower Exchange Monday night, September 15, it was decided to have a float made and to send it through the cities of Albany, Troy, Schenectady, Cohoes, Waterford and Watervliet, all through the week, which will probably be held in November. The committee is keeping in touch with the Florists' Club of Washington and will follow out their plan as far as is feasible.

John T. Travison, one of the leading florists of the south end, was an active member of a committee which had charge of a reception to Corporal Andrew Denn, who was a member of the First Division, recently returned with General Pershing. Mr. Travison had his store and store front profusely decorated for the occasion. He had a large American flag made of immortelles. This flag filled the back of his window and in front he had an electric fountain surrounded with gladioli.

The next regular meeting of the Albany Florists' Club will be held at the rooms of the Albany Cut Flower Exchange, 611 Broadway, Thursday evening, October 2. H. M.

ST. JOSEPH, MO.

Several new greenhouses are going up in this city this fall. The two new houses of the Park Floral Co. are about finished and already filled. This firm also installed an additional boiler and a new 60-foot stack.



C. T. Rueggsegger's new house is under cover and will be used mostly for lettuce.

John Hochenauer, of South St. Joseph, has the posts all set for his new greenhouse and is waiting for the material, which is on the way from Chicago.

E. V. Meyers is tearing down three houses to make room for two modern houses.

Fred Beck is improving his property on the Beck road and is waiting for his new house.

The John C. Moninger Co. is doing all of the work in St. Joseph except the two new steel houses which are to be built for Ernst Mueller, who will have Lord & Burnham Co. houses. F. E. K.

PLANT MORE FREESIAS
SEPTEMBER and OCTOBER are the months to plant Freesia Purity if you want flowers for use in JANUARY, FEBRUARY and MARCH. You will need a lot of them this next winter and spring time. ORDER NOW—Direct of us.
The certain shortage of bulbs from Europe the coming season and the high prices of French Romans and Valley, has greatly increased the demand for Freesia Purity. They are very successful as cut flowers. For design work, the smaller sizes are big money makers. For forcing you can't buy them too large.
Our bulbs are properly cured. They are graded and counted by hand. Our customers include a large percentage of the leading dealers in every State of the Union and Canada.
PRICES, FISCHER'S IMPROVED PURITY FREESIA BULBS.

PANSIES

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is a mixture of more than 50 thoroughbred varieties of Giant Show and fancy Pansies and includes the new varieties from American and European specialists. I have received thousands of testimonials from florists and amateurs in all sections of the country. Many of my florist customers say that my Pansies are the best in all respects that they have ever had. A sample: "The Pansies last year could not be beat in size, color or stems. I grow for cut flowers only (Boston market), and consider your strain way ahead of anything I have tried or seen. Perry Green, Quincy, Mass." "Last year I had some of your Pansy plants and they were so much better than anything I ever had that I want more. Herington Greenhouses, Herington, Kan." I have made a specialty of growing Pansy seeds and plants for nearly 50 years. My plants are field grown from seed sown thinly in light sandy soil, broadcast, and they have extra good roots. Ten per cent discount on orders received before Oct. 1st, and they will be shipped any time you want them, up to Nov. 25th. Plants from Aug. sown seed, $4.50 per 1000, 500 for $2.50. Plants from July sown seed, $5.50 per 1000, 500 for $3.00.
My Special Cut Flower Strain produces enormous flowers on extra long stems, and the best colors mixed in the right proportion for the cut flower trade. I have only about 75,000 of this strain. Place your order early. $7.00 per 1000; 500, $3.75; 250, $2.25. Cash with order.

Ever-Elastic—Never Hardens

When we say PERMANITE remains ever-elastic, we mean just this—that PERMANITE will form a protective, air-tight and water-proof glaze joint over the sash-bar, but does not harden all the way through, which means that PERMANITE can give with the expansion and contraction of the Greenhouse without checking, cracking or falling off.

Think of how putty would act under like conditions and you will realize how vastly superior PERMANITE is to putty—or any other glazing cement for that matter.

On the other hand—PERMANITE hardens just about sufficiently to prevent running of the material in the Summer time or cracking in the Winter time; regardless of any changes in the temperature, PERMANITE makes an absolutely air-tight, water-tight and thoroughly dependable job—the kind that stays put at all times.

And together with the new one-hand Permanite machine, there isn't anything on this earth that can beat this combination, because both the PERMANITE and the gun are the results of years of experience and an earnest desire to give the Greenhouse Trade a Glazing Cement worth their while.

AND—

Don't forget that old General Snow and his Chief of Staff, Colonel Bliz, are preparing for a campaign that'll drive the greenhouse men to the wall.

Are you going to be taken by surprise and routed? Not if you are prepared. So let us equip your hot water heating system with an AGMCO circulator.

2. Tee Header
3. Intake Pipe from Header to Pump
4. Centrifugal Pump
5. Discharge Pipe from Pump
6. Return Pipe
7. Jet discharging into Pipe Line
8. Pipe Line
9. Pulley for belt drive

The AGMCO Circulator is the simplest device ever invented for circulating hot water in a heating system. The device consists of a tee which can be placed in any of the pipe lines, flow or return, which enter the boiler. This tee has two openings, one for suction and one for discharge. For pumping the water we use a special centrifugal pump. From the suction opening in the tee a pipe is run to the suction opening in the pump and likewise on the discharge end. The pump takes the water from one side of the tee and discharges it into the other. In operation the water is simply hurried along in the pipe. Our special pump operating at a high speed throws the water forward at a tremendous rate.
